FIRST WORLD WAR

Memory Of 'Lost Idea'

By MARY LEYDECKER

A dwindling band of World War I veterans gathered in Mill Valley last night to reminisce about their war on the eve of what used to be Armistice Day, and after 51 years, they still couldn't find many pleasant things to remember.

Memories of living on turnips pulled from Belgian fields, lice-infested barracks, overbearing officers and lost conrades were quietly told by a handful of members of American Legion Post 284 and their guests.

William P. (Doc) Duhamel, retired Marin veterans service officer, seemed to speak for all the old veterans when he said sadly that "we've lost the idea — that we could gain peace in the world."

"There have been too many, too many of these wars," he added, saying that the meaning of Armistice Day has been lost after successive wars and an attempt to commemorate all veterans in one Veterans Day.

Duhamel, who served with the 91st Division in World War I, said that he didn't remember any real celebration on the first Armistice Day. "Nobody believed it," he said, and added that his unit spent the day playing cards and imbibing on the top floor of a house where a Signal Corps unit was quartered.

However, Armistice Days that followed were celebrated with much ceremony, he said. Duhamel remembered an early Armistice Day in Seattle where the street cars stopped running and all other activity ceased at 11 a.m. After a period of silence, taps sounded and the rest of the day was spent in rejoicing.

Although "all that is lost now," Duhamel's saddest thought was that a government which promised to take care of veterans, now has no more room in cemeteries in which to bury them.

Raymond Lasseter of San Francisco, another veteran of the 91st division, agreed with Duhamel that he "couldn't think of anything pleasant" to tell about World War I.

"The Germans and British had fought over Flanders for four years. There was no time

DAMAGE FROM BOMB — Rubble clutters a corridor on the 19th floor of the General Motors Building at Fifth Avenue and 59th Street in New York after a bomb exploded there this morning. At nearly the same time bombs also went off in the RCA Building in Rockefeller Center and in the Chase Manhattan Building in the financial district. The explosions were believed part of an antiwar demonstration. (See another picture, page 2.)

Bombs Rip Centers Of Business Giants

Explosions Believed Antiwar Act

NEW YORK (UPI) — The world headquarters of three business giants were heavily damaged by almost simultaneous bomb explosions early today in what appeared to be a carefully conceived protest against the Vietnam War and large corporations.

The explosion set to go off about 1 a.m. blew out walls, windows and elevator shafts at the RCA Building in Rockefeller Center, at international headquarters of the Chase Manhattan Bank in the Wall Street area, and at the new, gleaming General Motors Corp., headquarters on Fifth Avenue. Only one person was reported injured.

PHONE WARNINGS

Telephone warnings before the blasts were credited with keeping down the casualty toll.

United Press International today received an unsigned special delivery letter in which the writer claimed responsibility for the three bombings. The neatly typed letter, mailed yesterday afternoon in Manhattan, said: "During this week of antiwar protest, we set off explosions on the offices of Chase Manhattan, Standard Oil and General Motors."

The executive offices of the Standard Oil Corp., are located in the RCA building.

The letter attacked the Vietnam War and large U.S. corporations and specifically named "the rarely seen men like David Rockefeller of Chase Manhattan, James Roche and Michael Haider of Standard Oil who run the systems behind the scenes."

MAJOR TRIO

David Rockefeller is president and chairman of the board of Chase Manhattan. James M. Roche is chairman of General Motors and Michael L. Haider is chairman of Standard Oil of New Jersey.

In addition the Rockefeller family has some holdings in Standard Oil and they own the sprawling Rockefeller Center complex of office buildings.

The letter was mailed at the Grand Central station of the Post Office about 12 hours before the explosions and stated that custodians of the three buildings would be telephoned "30 to 60 minutes in advance to insure that the buildings would be clear of people." In each instance such a call was made.

The letter also noted that the bombs were set off "during this week of antiwar protest..."

The letter was turned over to the FBI which began an immediate investigation of the three explosions.

SAME TYPE

Deputy Fire Chief Anthony Costa said he believed the same type of explosive was used in at least two of the blasts—at G.M. and RCA.

Police Capt. William Maugh said at the RCA explosion site "we could smell the cordite

Explosion Hits Munitions Plant

HANOVER, Mass. (AP) — An explosion and fire ripped through a production building at a sprawling munitions plant here today, freeing an undetermined quantity of a riot control agent similar to tear gas.

Fire officials declared the blaze under control about an hour after it broke out and canceled orders for an area-wide evacuation.

Several firemen were overcome by the fumes, but their condition was not believed serious.

There were no reports of injuries as a direct result of the fire or explosion.

The agent was identified by a plant spokesman only as "CS." Its effect is similar to that of tear gas, he said.

A brisk wind and light rain kept the fumes from collecting in the area in any great concentration, firemen said.

Gas masks and resuscitators were rushed to the scene to aid the fire fighting efforts.

The building was used in the production of cartridge launchers for the CS substance, the spokesman said.

The initial explosion was thought to have originated in the launcher assembly area, but this could not be confirmed immediately.

Initial reports said one of the employees in the building sensed something wrong prior to the explosion and sounded an alarm that enabled everyone to get outside before the blast hit.

The building was damaged heavily, firefighters said.

At the height of the blaze, flames were jumping 75 to 100 feet high, firefighters reported, and there were fears the fire would spread to other parts of the plant.

The facility—owned by Atlantic Research Corp., a division of Suspquehanna Cor.—also makes ammunition, land mines and hand grenades for the military.

A explosion and fire at the plant two years ago killed one person and injured 14 others.

The CS substance was stored in cannisters which began popping in the intense heat.

"They were blowing apart like popcorn," one firefighter said.

Emotions Mixed As War Dead Honored

WASHINGTON (AP) — America honored her veterans and the dead of all her wars today amid demonstrations of support for President Richard M. Nixon's course in Vietnam.

But as a presidential wreath was gently placed at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier amidst the autumnal reds and golds of Arlington National Cemetery, preparations continued for massive protests against the Nixon policy on Vietnam.

Perhaps 3,000 persons attended the traditional Veterans Day observance at the cemetery, many carrying miniature American flags that had been handed them on arrival at the national shrine.

When Mahalia Jackson sang the National Anthem, and during the singing of "God Bless America," many of the well-dressed spectators waved their flags.

Nixon, meanwhile, paid a visit to a Washington veterans' hospital, shaking hands and talking football with hospitalized veterans of conflicts dating back to the Spanish-American War—and including the present combat in Vietnam.

Many supporters of Nixon's Vietnam strategy had seized upon the holiday to show their support for the administration and to try to signify that there is in fact a "great, silent majority" as Nixon had said in his Nov. 3 Vietnam address.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said the day is "of special significance not just to veterans, but to all of us."

"At this late hour," Mansfield said, "it will serve no useful purpose to assess blame. Our joint responsibility is to strive to shorten the path to peace."

The date, which marked the end of fighting in World War I in 1918, was observed as Armistice Day until 1954. For the past 15 years it has been Veterans Day, a salute to American veterans of all wars.

Veterans Day 1969 comes only a week and a day after Nixon asked the nation for support on Vietnam and only two days before the start of a new round of war protests which are to wind-up with a mass rally in Washington Saturday.

Ardent supporters of the President hoped today's activities would become a counterdemonstration to the war protest. Civic, fraternal and veterans' organizations came up with or announced support for ad hoc groups opposing moratoriums and other "get out of Vietnam now" demonstrations.

Tydings Opposes Nixon Nominee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., said today he is opposed to confirmation of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., for the Supreme Court because his actions "have cast a shadow over his ethical sensitivities."

"The incursion of this shadow upon the sanctity of the Supreme Court at a time when its general reputation is at low ebb is something this great institution can ill afford," Tydings said.

Tydings, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee minority that voted against recommending confirmation of Haynsworth's nomination, made public a statement of his individual views.

Voting Violence

MANILA (AP) — Reports of violence poured in today as Filipinos voted for a president, vice president and members of Congress. It appeared that the number of political killings had passed 50 since the campaign opened in June.

British Argue Pay Increase For Queen

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson informed Parliament today that Queen Elizabeth II is running into the red financially and that a committee would be appointed to onsider giving her a raise.

The announcement followed Prince Philip's comments on the royal finances in an American television interview, although Wilson told Parliament the decision to consider a royal increase had already been taken before that.

Philip's remarks on the drain in the Queen's wallet set off a clamor between royalists and antimonarchists in Britain.

The queen receives $1.14 million in annual income from the state plus $480,000 from property owned by the crown.

Wilson said that from 1951 to 1961 the queen's allowance as a whole showed a surplus, "although with wages and other costs steadily rising in the late 1950s and early 1960s the saving was very small in the last two years up to 1961."

"From 1962 onwards deficits were incurred, small at first, but increasing steadily each year."

Wilson said that last year it became clear that the annual royal grant was "falling far short of the total cost for which it had been provided."

It was estimated that the reserve would be exhausted and the queen would move into deficit on her state allowances by the end of 1970, he said.

Tanker Owners Pay $7.2 Million Damages

LONDON (AP) — The American owners of the Torrey Canyon paid $7.2 million to Britain and France today to settle oil pollution claims filed after the giant tanker grounded off southwest England two years ago.

Lloyd's insurance brokers said they believed it was the biggest settlement in marine history over oil claims. Some 35 million gallons of oil spilled from the broken tanker and fouled French and British beaches.

GIs Warned Against Protests In Uniform

WASHINGTON (A) — The Army says servicemen who wear their uniforms in this week's "march against death" demonstration in the nation's capital will be arrested, turned over to their commanders and perhaps court-martialed.

This warning came as the Pentagon alerted several thousand troops outside the Washington area for possible capital duty should violence erupt at the war protest demonstration.

"Army personnel who participate in these activities while in uniform will be in violation of Department of Defense and Department of the Army directives and regulations," the Army said.

"Violators will be subject to apprehension and referral to their commanding officers for appropriate action."

Maximum punishment for "violating or failing to obey any general order or regulation" is two years at hard labor plus a dishonorable discharge.

Commanding officers could chose some form of less severe administrative-type discipline.

The armed forces police detachment of the Military District of Washington has been assigned to watch for violations during the scheduled activities from Thursday through Saturday.

Representatives from the Pentagon met with officials from the Justice Department on yesterday to discuss, among other things, where servicemen would be jailed for engaging in the demonstrations.

Basis for the arrests would be the Pentagon's Sept. 12 directive restricting "off-post demonstrations by members."

It reads in part: "Members of the armed forces are prohibited from participating in off-post demonstrations when they are on duty, or in a foreign country, or when their activities constitute a breach of law or order, or when violence is likely to result, or when they are in uniform . . ."

Under this provision, military authorities feel they can deal not only with those in uniform, but with dissident servicemen who wear civilian clothing. The Justice Department has said violence may be expected. And a serviceman not in uniform would be violating the regulation if he participated in some activity for which no permit has been issued.

In a closely related matter, Pentagon legal experts were debating whether action could be taken against servicemen who allow their names to be used publicly in behalf of war protest activities.

A full-page advertisement appeared in the Sunday edition of the New York Times listing what was said to be the names of 1,365 active duty personnel opposed to American involvement in Vietnam.

"We resent the needless wasting of lives to save face for the politicians in Washington," the ad said. "Join us in Washington Nov. 15 to bring all the GI's home now."

Draft Lottery Way Is Cleared

WASHINGTON (AP) — The way was cleared today for Senate approval of President Richard M. Nixon's proposal for a draft lottery as advocates of broader reforms agreed to deferral of the question until next year.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., leader of the draft reform forces, told reporters after a meeting with senior Senate leaders and members of the armed services committee that he will join their moves to block any amendments to the bill permitting a lottery.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., the committee chairman, said "I feel greatly encouraged that a bill can move along and will pass the Senate without amendments."

Hollis Enthusiastic Over Youth Conclave

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An adult attending the governor's conference on children and youth said today he believes the meeting will result in constructive long-range work toward solution of young people's problems in his community.

"All of us are looking with optimism" to future work by Marin County's 110-member delegation, most of them aged 11 through 25, said Marin schools Supt. Virgil Hollis told a reporter.

He said some of the Marin group was skeptical about what might come out of the two-day conference, one of two being held in the state to formulate California's report to next year's White House conference on youth.

But he said the enthusiasm of the majority is "welding the group together."

The Marin delegation includes youths from higher income families in Marin County, the poor, College of Marin students, Synanon, and "the hippie element."

Groups such as the Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary Club have helped pay the way of those who couldn't pay for themselves. The group came to Sacramento in Marin County school buses.

"We really have a live wire group," Hollis said. "They are well briefed on what will be encountered.

"Most of our youngsters want to really put these things into action. They want desirable changes. One of the things I like about our yongsters is the fact they are acting with responsibility," he said.

"They want change, but they want to do it within the existing framework. I think they're learning how this can be done through positive programs. For those who want little more agressive approach, they are being shown a constructive way to get change."

One evidence of their sincerity: The youths were much more interested in attending a "rap session" with state legislators than a dance scheduled at the same time, Hollis said.

Leader Of Baptists Hits Antiwar Foes

ATLANTA (UPI)—Dr. W. A. Criswell, president of the Southern Baptist Convention, charged last night that antiwar demonstrators were "traitors" and that liberals are termites who ought to get out of the Baptist church.

Criswell, of Dallas, Tex., preached the main sermon at the opening of the 148th Georgia Baptist Convention where he attacked arch liberals in the 11-million member Baptist denomination and then held a news conference where he denounced antiwar demonstrators.

The Baptist leader termed the liberals "termites who would destroy the church" by doing away with baptism by immersion. He said they would "throw our denomination into a Presbyterian form of government and no longer believe in the authority of the scriptures."

New Airline Fare Hikes Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board says airline fares which went up only a month ago may have to be raised again.

Secor D. Browne told the annual convention of the National Passenger Traffic Association that air transportation still is underpriced even after the latest boost.

He did not indicate when the new fare rise might come or how much it would be.

DETROIT (UPI) — B & T Machinery C. has announced plans to build a 135,000 square foot plant in Holland, Mich., to consolidate its die castings and rejection molding machinery manufacturing operations. B & T is a subsidiary of Ex-Cell-O Corp.

Ninth Of New Cars Fail Safety Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has given the public its first look at files showing new automobiles have failed an average of one in nine independent safety tests.

A portion of 800 reports on performance of 1968 and 1969 American and foreign automobiles in six standard safety tests was released yesterday by the Department of Transportation.

The department has promised, under heavy pressure from consumer champions in Congress, to bare the rest of the reports, a few at a time, during the next 30 days.

Summarizing the 800 reports, the department said the failure rate of the cars was 11.5 per cent, or one in nine. Tests of individual automobile components showed a failure rate of 10.1 per cent, or one in 10.

The tests, conducted by independent research firms under contract to the government between May 1968 and this September, turned up in individual vehicles defects in brake systems, unsafe tires and wheel rims, weak safety belts and safety belt anchors that came loose under pressure.

Dr. Robert Brenner, acting director of the department's National Highway Safety Bureau, warned against drawing drastic conclusions on the basis of the reports.

"We emphasize that each of these are initial test results, and that a pass rating is no more of an indication that all such vehicles are in conformity with the standards being attested, any more than one test failure is proof that it is not in conformity."

He added, however, "I don't think anyone can be very happy with that kind of failure rate."

When reports of a specific defect are checked back with the automobile manufacturer, Brenner said, they often are found to be in compliance with federal safety standards.

In three years the bureau has brought action against only two tire manufacturers and the maker of the Fiat auto for alleged safety violations.

Uniroyal Inc. was served notice last week that three of its tire brands are suspected of noncompliance. Some 80 investigations are in progress, Brenner said.

The six vehicle tests and the percentage rate of failure were: brake systems, 13.7; tires and rims, 12.3; steering control, 0; seat anchorage, 5.4; seat belt anchorage, 10.8; fuel tank spillage, 28.6.

The separate components tested and percentages of failure included brake hoses, 9.3; lamps, brake fluids, 11.8; tires, steering columns, doorlocks and seat belt assemblies, 13.8.

Russians Plan Fastest Auto

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Institute for Automobiles and Roads at Kharkov is trying to build the world's fastest car.

The newspaper Pravda Ukrainy reported that the institute is building a car it expects to reach the speed of sound—742 miles an hour.

The vehicle will be 33 feet long with gas turbine engines developing 5,500 horsepower.

Because of the high speed, the first tests will be remote controlled by radio rather than driven by a man, chief designer Vladimir K. Nikitin said.

Planes Duel Over Suez Canal Again

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli and Egyptian planes dueled over the Suez Canal today, and the Israelis claimed their airmen shot down three of the Egyptian jets.

This raised to 57 the number of Egyptian planes which Israel claims to have destroyed since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. The last claim was on Oct. 6, when the Israelis said they shot down three MIGs over the Israeli-occupied Sinai desert.

Israel admits to the loss of only 14 warplanes in action against all its Arab neighbors since the 1967 war.

Israel said all of its planes returned safely from the dogfight today.

An Israeli spokesman said the air battle took place about 8:30 a.m. over the southern part of the blocked waterway during an Israeli air raid on Egyptian targets.

The Israeli fliers brought down the three Egyptian jets with air-to-air missiles and gunfire, the spokesman said. He reported all the planes went down on the Egyptian side of the canal, that one disintegrated, the wings of another fell off, and the pilot of the third bailed out.

The dogfight raged from low levels up to a height of 20,000 feet, the spokesman said.

It was the second day of intense air activity over the canal. On Monday, Egyptian planes attacked Israeli positions at the northern and southern ends of the waterway, while Israeli planes attacked the Egyptian side of the Gulf of Suez and hit Egyptian military targets along the central sector of the canal.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Bomb Found

BERLIN (AP) — A package found in the West Berlin Jewish Community Center contained a two-pound plastic time bomb, police reported today.

The bomb did not go off, a spokesman said, because an alarm clock attached to the device did not function.

Bomb experts dismantled the device yesterday after it was found and the clock had stopped ticking.

Police said the bomb was set to go off at 11:30 but it could not be determinde which day.

Police believe it was put into the center sometime Sunday, the 31st anniversary of the Nazi "Crystal Night" when Jewish houses of worship in Germany were burned.

University Clash

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Eighty state police armed with nightsticks and mace forced more than 200 protesters out of a University of Texas cafeteria yesterday, then clashed with a larger crowd outside.

At least five men between 17 and 26 years old were arrested and two co-eds were injured outside when 2,000 persons, shouting "Pigs Off Campus, Pigs Off Campus," tried to keep police trucks from leaving. Glass doors were broken and dishes and overturned tables littered the cafeteria floor.

Seale Returns

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Black Panther leader Bobby Seale says he might act as his own attorney again at his retrial on conspiracy charges in Chicago even though his lawyer is now well and able to defend him.

"There's a point to be made," Seale told newsmen at San Francisco's Hall of Justice. "I might try to defend myself to make an example of what a black man is up against with the power structure."

Seale was flown from Chicago yesterday by commercial airliner under guard of three black federal marshals to await extradition of a Connecticut murder conspiracy indictment.

He was sentenced last week to four years in prison for contempt of court by U.S. Dist. Court Judge Julius Hoffman.

Ninth Tremblor

PASADENA (UPI) — The ninth in a series of earthquakes to hit Southern California since Oct. 1 was recorded yesterday, centered 30 miles off the coast from Point Arguello.

The California Institute of Technology Seismology Laboratory here said the temblor registered 4.5 on the Richter Schle. The shock was not felt on the mainland.

Turkey Woes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of turkeys found to contain heptachlor residue may have picked up the powerful pesticide from land treated for control of chiggers, according to Agriculture Department sources.

Chiggers, the same small mites which can cause humans to itch after working on lawns, are troublesome to turkey growers who want a nice, smooth bird to sell.

The department announced last Friday that 150,000 live turkeys and some four million pounds of turkey meat were held off the Thanksgiving market after heptachlor residue was found in some birds on Oct. 9 at a Minnesota processing plant.

About 90,000 of the turkeys were found to contain varying amounts of heptachlor epoxide, the pesticide's residue form.

Daring Escape

BERLIN (AP) — A 19-year-old East German corporal disarmed another border guard he was patrolling with at dawn today and escaped to the British sector of West Berlin before his companion could give the alarm, police reported.

The youth arrived with his submachine gun, 60 rounds of ammunition and the bolt from the other guard's carbine.

The police said he was the 513th uniformed East German to escape to West Berlin since the wall went up in 1961.

Egyptian Killed

HANNOVER, Germany (UPI)—Ali Naguib, 29, son of former Egyptian president Mohamed Ali Naguib, died of a fractured skull Sunday. Police said five students had been arrested in the death of Naguib, a student at Hannover Technological University. Police got an anonymous phone call saying a student had been injured in a duel, went to the school and found Naguib injured.

Up To Jury

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A jury should decide whether community standards were violated by a sketch in the show "Oh Calcutta," Judge Gerald J. O'Gara has ruled.

"The people are as much entitled to a jury trial as are the defendants, the municipal court judge said yesterday, rejecting a motion to dismiss charges and turning down a request for a pretrial hearing.

Actor Joe Roma and actress Ronda Copland are charged with giving a lewd performance.

Defense attorney Vasilios B. Choulos argued the arrests violated the constitutional right of free expression.

Shootout In Store Leaves Five Hurt

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A shootout in a downtown Houston department store today left five persons wounded, including three policemen and a woman clerk who had been taken hostage by a gunman.

Police identified the gunman who was also wounded, as a former convict, Frank Danfort Dick, 38. He was sought on a robbery warrant.

The wounded officers are Lt. Leo L. Michna, 40, in critical condition; detective Kenneth Waycott, 63, critical, and patrolman R.E. Carver, 46, in satisfactory condition.

Mrs. Elia Narvaez, 20, an employee of Foley's Department store, was shot in the side by a stray bullet.

About five minutes before the shooting, the Aaron Wolfson Jewelry Store was robbed about two blocks from the department store. An undetermined amount of cash and jewelry taken from the store was recovered after the shooting.

Witnesses said the man who robbed the jewelry store fled on foot and entered the main street entrance at Foley's.

Hamilton Wing To Change Name

The 78th Fighter Wing at Hamilton Air Force Base will adopt the name of the historic First Fighter Wing on Jan. 1, it was disclosed yesterday.

The First Fighter Wing, now assigned to Selfridge Air Force Base, Mich., but scheduled to be dissolved under recently announced Pentagon military cutbacks, fought in World War I and II and counted Capt. Edward V. Rickenbacker and Lt. Lloyd Andrews Hamilton, after whom Hamilton Air Force Base was named, among its members.

Col. Donald H. Lynch, commander of the 78th Fighter Wing, said the name change will have no effect on the composition of his 1,955-member unit. The wing will remain the parent organization of the 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Hamilton.

Flying Whatsit In Marin Skies

A smoking object with a colored tail — possibly a meteorite — or falling space debris — flashed through Marin skies shortly before 5 p.m. yesterday.

An unidentified woman telephoned Novato police to report that an object with a red tail had streaked through the sky and fallen in trees at the end of Rowland Boulevard. No object was found.

Other conflicting reports said the object fell east of Mount Tamalpais, San Rafael and in Fairfax.

Two Youths Deny Marijuana Count

Kent Allie Fishburn, 22, and Jeffrey Glyn Conti, 21, both of Santa Cruz, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of marijuana possession Sept. 10.

A jury trail was set for the week of April 6, 1970.

The two men were arrested when California Highway Patrol officers stopped their car for speeding. They said that a box in the rear of station wagon contained marijuana and reefer butts.

Guilty Plea To Possessing Weed

Paul Edward Giampoli, 20, of San Rafael, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to possessing marijuana at his home Sept. 26. A second felony charge of cultivating the weed was dismissed by Judge Peter Allen Smith.

Giampoli is to report to superior court Monday for setting of a sentencing date.

Hurt In Crash

Carole Rose Skulnick, 28, of 855 Canal Street, San Rafael, was reported in satisfactory condition at Marin General Hospital with a concussion and multiple bruises suffered yesterday when her camper pickup veered off Highway 101 near the Miller Creek overcross. The California Highway Patrol said the mishap occurred at 3:55 p.m.

to bury the dead," he remembered.

Although he similingly told of escaping "cooties," (World War I slang for lice) until he slept in a barracks formerly occupied by Germans, Lasseter said he has never wanted to go back to that part of the world.

Memories of heavy machine guns and unreasonable officers were told by Nicholas Cosgrave, another San Franciscan who served with the 91st.

"All we could find to eat was turnips" in Belgium where, he said, the civilians who had almost no food shared little apples with the soldiers.

After the three veterans of the 91st spoke, Post Commander Francis Mosher called on others in the room to tell of their experiences. Stories of how no parachutes were carried in most World War I planes, spending Armistice Day in quarantine in Hoboken, N.J. and more tales of dumb lieutenants followed.

The evening ended quietly with the old men retiring the colors and a simple prayer for their fallen comrades.

Man Is Found Dead In Hotel

Walter H. (Mutt) Dorrell, a San Rafael bartender, was found dead yesterday by maids cleaning his room at a local hotel.

Dorrell, 41, was last seen alive at 6 p.m. Saturday leaving the Escrow Tavern in San Anselmo, where he had been involved in a fight, according to San Rafael police. His assailant has been questioned and released pending further investigation and a coroner's autopsy report, police said.

Dorrell's fully clothed body was found at noon slumped near a bed at the Fleur de France Hotel at 720 B Street.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

Fairfax Driver's Injuries Minor

A 33-year-old Fairfax man was hospitalized yesterday after he deliberately drove his car off an embankment on the Sausalito lateral yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

David Kron Frank, of 86 Las Guinas, was reported in good condition at Marin General Hospital where he was being treated for multiple bruises and a cut forehead.

The patrol said Frank told them he "wanted to end it all" and drove through a guard rail at 10:45 a.m. yesterday.

Suspect Denies Passing Checks

Robert Wayne Kitzmiller, 33, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to three charges of possessiong checks with intent to defraud.

A jury trial was set for the week of Dec. 8.

Kitzmiller was arrested Oct. 24 by San Rafael police who said that he had passed allegedly stolen checks earlier in the month at two San Rafael bars.

Probation, Fine In Loma Verde Burglary

Glenn Antonhy Richardson, 18, of Novato, yesterday was placed on one year probation and fined $250 by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court for burglarzing a Loma Verde home Aug. 6.

The judge also declared the offense to be a misdemeanor, noting that the youth had taken only some food from the garage of the home.

Woman Recovering From Gun Accident

Sandra Shawn, 25, of 24 Main Street, San Quentin was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital where she was being treated for an accidential gunshot wound.

Sheriff's deputies said that Miss Shawn shot herself in the left thigh last night while cleaning a gun.

Hearing Set Monday In Shooting

Walter Lee Hale, 51, accused of shooting Petaluma officer Vilho Ahola, was arraigned yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court and held on $20,000 for a hearing Monday at 1:30 p.m.

Hale was charged with assault with intent to commit murder and assault with a deadly weapon. Both counts carry maximum sentences of 15 years upon conviction.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon appointed Norman Chown of the Sonoma County Public Defender's office as Hale's counsel. In lieu of bail, Hale is being held in the Sonoma County Jail, Santa Rosa.

Police accused Hale of shooting the officer Friday morning while Ahola was attempting to help Hale's whife, Helen, remove her things from their home at 718 I Street.

Hale owned and operated Walt's Catering Service in Santa Venetia from 1956 to 1961 and Walt's Cafe at 4200 Redwood Highway, Terra Linda, from 1963 to 1965 since moving to Petaluma he has been employed as a driver for the Empire Catering Co.

Ahola, who was shot in the neck, is reported in satisfactory condition at Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital. Doctors reported that it will be several days until the extend of paralysis can be determined.

Another Whale Sighted In Bay

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The second whale sighting in four days in San Francisco Bay was reported yesterday, and a Coast Guard officer speculated that another big mammal might have entered inland waters.

"Maybe we're becoming a new breeding ground for them," said Lt. Gary Hall, referring to reports last Thursday that the first whale was seen moving to river waters at the end of the bay "like a salmon heading up to spawn."

The 30-footer, however, was believed to have turned around and rejoined a school migrating southward along the Pacific Coast.

Descriptions were similar both Thursday and yesterday, "but of course all those big gray whales look pretty much the same," Hall said.

Young Neighbors Face Car Charge

Two Mill Valley youths were booked into Juvenile Hall yesterday on suspicion of possession of a stolen auto after the California Highway Patrol stopped them on a traffic violation.

Booked were Warner Bayley Kingsbury, 16, of 8 Magdalena Court, who was the driver of the car, and John Hanley of 14 Magdalena Court.

The patrol said the youths were stopped for driving on the wrong side of yellow lines on a Highway 101 frontage road in Mill Valley.

Innocent Plea To Burglarizing Firm

Kenneth James Hough, 22, of Novato, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of burglarizing a San Rafael landscape firm Oct. 23. A jury trial was set for the week of Dec. 9.

Hough was arrested after police found him and 16-year-old companion near the Turf and Tree firm at 625 Grand Avenue. He is accused of taking seven chain saws valued at $2,200.

Volunteer Firemen Retire In Novato

Robert J. Busher and Thomas Tharsing retired last night from the Novato Volunteer Fire Department, Novato Fire Chief Jack Kidder announced today.

Busher is a past president and secretary of the volunteers and served as volunteer assistant chief from 1955 to 1959. He was also on the board of fire commissioners from 1961 to 1964, Kidder said. Tharsing is a past president of the volunteers.

when we went up." Cordite is a rope-like explosive material.

The RCA building blast occurred on the 20th floor near a bank of elevators in the 70-story skyscraper.

"It was one hell of a big noise and it scared me to death," said maintenance man William Lynch.

At least half a dozen patrons in the plush Rainbow Room on the 65th floor of the building had to walk down because the elevator was knocked out of service.

At. G.M., the blast ripped through a service elevator on the 19th floor. The one injury was sustained by the elevator operator when his car plunged from the 17th to the 11th floor before it stopped.

At the Chase Manhattan building, the explosion on the 16th floor tore out several plate glass windows and caused other "extensive damage," police said.

Judge Asks Youth Court To Take Case

The case of James Andrew Franz, 18, of 38 Francis Avenue, Larkspur, was referred to juvenile probation officers yesterday by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court for possible transferral to juvenile court.

Franz is accused of burglarizing a Kentfield home Oct. 31.

He and a 17-year-old companion, Stephen M. Waste of 119 Hill Drive, Kentfield, were arrested shortly after Mrs. Dolores Burke arrived at her home at 235 Toyon Way and found the front door open.

As she entered the house, she told police that she heard a horn honk and saw a youth running down the hill behind her house to a waiting car.

Four pills were found outside the back door, but nothing else appeared to be missing, she said.

The youths were arrested after a neighbor spotted the license number of their car.

Woman Driver Denies Charge

Florence Constance Stoltman, 41, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a felony amnslaughter charge stemming from the death of a 6-year-old boy in San Rafael Sept. 23.

A jury trial was set for the week of March 30, 1970.

Mrs. Stoltman was the driver of a car which collided with a young bicyclist, throwing the child from the bike and killing him.

Pot, Motorcycle Stealing Denied

James Robert Chrisler, 20, of Mill Valley, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of possessing marijuana Sept. 10 and stealing a motorcycle in 1965.

A jury trail was set for the week of Dec. 15.

Chrisler was stopped by Mill Valley police for fraudulent registration of his motorcycle, and a check showed that the cycle's number matched that of a machine stolen in 1965. Officers also reported that Chrisler had a bag of marijuana with him.

Burglary Case Trial Date Set

Edgar Raymond Hale, 42, of Novato, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of burglarizing La Petite Auberge restaurant in San Rafael Oct. 7.

A jury trial was set for for the week of March 30, 1970.

Hale was arrested when police who came to answer a silent burglar alarm found him in the restaurant.

IT WAS A MOVING SIGHT

Motorists who happened along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at about 3 a.m. yesterday had an eye-opened when they came across this house moving under the Wolfe Grade underpass. The house, formerly used in Bon Air as a model home for the Schultz Development Co. was on a one-mile journey to a new location on a lot between Laurel Grove Avenue and Broadway, Kentfield. Wacker and Sons of Petaluma, house movers, reported the owner was Dick James. (CHP photo by Sgt. James Duke)

Fairfax Snuffs Candlelight Vigil Plan

Use of the Fairfax park for an evening candlelight ceremony Saturday by the Fairfax Vietnam War Moratorium Committee was denied last night by the city council.

The council approved the committee using the park in the daytime Saturday, though the vote was unnecessary since there are no restrictions on day use.

The council chambers were packed for the lengthy, sometimes bitter discussion, and applause erupted frequently, primarily in response to speeches by persons opposed to the planned demonstration.

Council members against the evening use worried about the welfare of the town, the outsiders who might come in, damage to the park, the apparent lack of persons who will be responsible, safety, police protection and the length of the demonstration.

"We're concerned about the welfare of the entire town," said Mayor Francis J. O'Connell. "We don't know who is going to come in. Somebody has got to be responsible for this."

He repeatedly urged the committee to shorten the demonstration, either by ending at sunset or breaking it into two parts.

Councilman Robert R. Souza questioned police protection and strongly opposed the council being involved in any way. "The group is now asking the city council to endorse their affairs. I really feel it's going to engender some problems" he maintained.

But the council was not unanimous. "I can see being against the march or the rally, but I can't understand people being against a religious service," said Councilman Frank J. Egger.

"I think this is getting to be a political decision," said Councilman Adelaide P. Wilson, maintaining any group that fulfills the requirements should be permitted to use the public facility.

Hugh D. Winn, speaking for the committee, promised the committee would pay for electricity it used and would clean up afterward. If chemical toilets are required, the committee would probably also pay for them, he said.

He said a list of 63 persons who are over 21 and on the committee has been provided the city to indicate responsiblity and offered to have a list of persons as monitors, together with a time schedule.

Any rules regarding safety, such as ones on use of candles, would be followed, he said.

"We want to cooperate, we want to do what's right," said Winn, who is a member of the city planning commission.

The discussion was punctuated with a series of motions and substitutes which left much of the audience bewildered.

Souza first moved to grant use of the park during the day but it died for lack of a second. He then moved to deny use of the park at night.

O'Connell seconded but later withdrew the second and moved to permit use of the park from noon to 3 p.m. and 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Mrs. Wilson made a substitute motion to permit use from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. and that failed 3-2, with her and Egger on the losing end.

Before a vote on O'Connell's motion, Councilman Cornelis Van Vleit substituted a motion to permit use from noon to sundown (the same as Souza's first motion) and it passed, 3-2 with the same split.

Souza then recommended the committee be permitted to use the city stage and the council agreed.

Later in the evening, at the request of Lee Nelder, the mayor declared today Veteran's Appreciation Day in Fairfax.

Council Balks At Hub Thoroughfare Plans

San Anselmo's plans to widen Center Boulevard eventually were stymied last night by the Fairfax City Council in anticipation of the county's balanced transportation study, despite warnings the study would not be a "magic solution."

San Anselmo wants to change the federal aid designation from Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to Center Boulevard because widening Center would cost about half as much as widening Drake, according to Charles R. Leitzell, San Anselmo's director of public works.

For San Anselmo to gain approval for the change, Fairfax would have to ask for a similar switch on the two thoroughfares within its boundaries, Leitzell told the council.

Following a long discussion with San Anselmo officials and residents, Fairfax voted 3-2 to table the matter and obtain more information. Councilmen Adelaide P. Wilson and Frank J. Egger opposed the motion.

Leitzell explained the major difference in the cost of widening the two streets is in right-of-way, a cost the federal government will not pay in its secondary road system.

Mayor Francis J. O'Connell commented, "This could be a piecemeal Highway 17."

"Not at four lanes," Leitzell replied, reporting San Anselmo has said it will not widen Center until the route for 17 is designated and funded.

Sarah Nome, a San Anselmo resident who has strongly opposed changing Center Boulevard and also the reconstruction of the Hub intersection, told the Fairfax council there had been widfespread opposition to the plans.

San Anselmo residents fear Center would become Highway 17, she said. She claimed Widening Center in San Anselmo would cost $7 million, compared to Leitzell's estimate of about $1 million.

"We don't want a freeway through the valley any more than you do," said San Anselmo Councilman James F. Reed. The future street plans of both San Anselmo and Fairfax are predicated on a nearby freeway, probably Highway 17, to West Marin.

Two councilmen had their own solutions to the problem. O'Connell proposed making Center one-way east in the morning and Drake one-way west at night, while Councilman Cornelis Van Vliet commented, "I think we could simplify this by making Fairfax and San Anselmo one city."

The Fairfax City Council Also:

SENIOR CITIZENS — Voted to continue the senior citizens program even if the county quits supplying matching funds.

RECREATION — Approved the appointment of Anthony J. Barbera as part-time parks and recreation director at a salary of $275 a month.

VOLUNTEERS — Authorized volunteer firemen as young as 17 if they have parental permission.

MEETING — Set an adjourned meeting for 8 p.m. Nov. 24 to finish the agenda and to discuss the future of the Fairfax Festival.

Novatan Hired As Marinwood Firefighter

Dennis Gerbich, 25, volunteer fireman from Novato, was hired last night by the Marinwood Fire Commission as a regular fireman in Marinwood.

Gerbich will start at a salary of $631 per month. He succeeds firemane James Jackson, who will leave this Saturday to become a police officer in San Rafael.

Fire Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield reported to the commissioners that the fire department's youth work-experience program is operating successfully.

"It's a pilot program," said Bonfield. "We're working with juvenile hall to furnish training as firemen to boys who want to learn the trade." He said three boys, aged 17 and 18, have taken training with the department so far.

The fire commissioners authorized the fire chief to sell three old fire hoses, each 50 feet long, for the best price he can get.

20-Year-Old Man Admits To Burglary

Allen George Wheeler, 20, of Pinole, admitted yesterday in Marin Superior Court that he burglarized a San Anselmo residence Jan. 16.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson ordered Wheeler to return to court Dec. 15 for sentencing.

Petalumans Seek Parking Off Streets

The Petaluma City Council last night resurrected two committees to develop more off-street parking in the downtown core area so that street parking can be banned on narrow Petaluma Boulevard.

City Engineer David A. Young said the most economical way of increasing the traffic flow on the boulevard without going to the expense of widening would be to ban parking and to encourage trucks to use a bypass.

LANES RISKY

"By banning parking from D to Mary streets and using the street curb to curb, the lanes could be enlarged to 11 or 12 feet," he said, calling the present nine foot lanes very dangerous.

He said that establishing a mandatory truck route using Bridge, Hopper and D streets, that 30 to 50 per cent of the traffic could be removed, thereby prolonging the usefulness of the street for another 10 or 15 years.

The engineer said the same plan to ban parking could also be used to solve congestion problems on Washington Street from Kentucky to Keokuk streets.

Youngs said that 70 parking spaces would be lost on Petaluma Boulevard and 28 on Washington Street. Showing that vacant land is available in the downtown district for more parking, Young named six locations that could provide up to 249 off street parking spaces.

The council agreed that if it were to remove the street parking, it would be part of its responsibility to businessmen ot provide new parking facilities.

REPORT NECESSARY

Councilman Fred V. Mattei, a downtown businessman, said the council would have to prepare a full report on parking plans and detailed costs before the merchants should be approached about participation in a parking assessment district.

Members of two committees which had been working last spring on the core area plan to redevelop the downtown section were asked to resume meetings to consider parking problems.

Mayor Helen Putnam assigned Councilmen David W. Brainerd, Robert A. Brunner and Mattei to meet with the committees and to prepare recommendations for the council on the banning of parking and the locations of possible new parking lots.

Crash Of Plane Is Storm Center

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — The Italian Communist Party tried to kick up a political storm today over the crash of a U.S. Navy jet fighter off Sicily.

Despite official U.S. statements that the Corsair II fighter carried no weapons, the party newspaper L'Unita asked in a headline: "Did (the plane) have nuclear warheads aboard?"

L'Unita said in its story:

"Despite the circumstances in which the accident happened and the very grave hypotheses deduced from it, the Italian authorities have not felt the need for an official clarification."

The paper also carried a detailed story of the 1966 crash of an American B52 carrying hydrogen bombs off Palomares, Spain.

South Viets Hard Hit By Attackers

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese forces have suffered comparatively heavy losses in a week of fighting around the Bu Dop Special Forces camp 85 miles north of Saigon, official sources reported today.

The sources said 15 allied soldiers have been killed, 75 wounded, three armored personnel carriers and four trucks have been destroyed and half a dozen American helicopters have been shot down.

A total of 60 North Vietnamese troops were reported killed, but one officer said the kill ratio — four enemy dead to one South Vietnamese or U.S. soldier — "is substantially on the bad side."

"The casualties are heavy compared to the enemy losses," said another field officer.

Most of the allied casualties have been Vietnamese tribesmen, mercenaries paid and led by American Green Beret troops.

"It's a Vietnamese Army show as far as the ground fighting is concerned," said one American officer. "We are working with them closely. They own the entire area and so they ought to be involved. Back in May we'd have gone in. Now we are working with them. We are up to our necks in Vietnamization."

Mobile Strike Force troops battled about 400 North Vietnamese six miles south of Bu Dop for six and one-half hours last night.

American helicopters from the 1st Air Cavalry Division supported the mercenaries, and two were shot down and a third one hit by machine-gun fire. Two American crewmen were wounded.

A mile away, North Vietnamese troops for the second time in four days attacked an American artillery base called Jerri that was set up last week to support Bu Dop. The North Vietnamese pumped 30 rounds if 120mm and 82mm mortar shells into the base, killing five Americans and wounding five.

Farther south, 67 miles northwest of Saigon, a U.S. reconnaissance plane sighted North Vietnamese troops 10 miles from the Cambodian border and called in dive bombers. Troops from the 1st Cavalry moved into the area after the bombing and found the bodies of 37 North Vietnamese soldiers. There were no U.S. casualties.

In the Mekong Delta, troops of a North Vietnamese regiment continued their attacks on South Vietnamese militiamen guarding the district town of Tri Ton.

U.S. headquarters reported another American helicopter was shot down 51 miles northeast of Saigon, wounding one crewman.

Thirty-three enemy rocket and mortar attacks were reported between 8 a.m. yesterday and 8 a.m. today. The U.S. Command said 13 of the attacks caused casualties or damage and seven Americans were wounded.

Nureyev Accused On Dance Slap

TRIESTE, Italy (AP) — Italian ballerina Giovanna Lisa Mariani filed an assault and injury charge yesterday against Rudolph Nureyev, the Russian ballet star, saying he slapped her during a performance of "Giselle."

Many of the audience who saw Miss Mariani reel back from her partner Sunday thought the slap was a part of the show.

Nureyev was not available for comment.

Wallace Has Talk With Saigon Official

SAIGON (AP) — Former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, third party presidential candidate in 1968, had a talk yesterday with Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam in the South Vietnamese Foreign Ministry.

Wallace, who is touring Southeast Asia, told Lam the American people "are impatient with the war" and want it to end soon "in a context of honor."

Teen Skyjacker To Youth Court

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A 14-year-old high school student who tried to hijack an airliner faces a juvenile court hearing Thursday.

David L. Booth, a freshman at suburban Norwood High School, was weeping when turned over to Hamilton County juvenile authorities by FBI agents after federal officials declined to file charges.

U.S. Atty George Kline of Lexington, Ky., said following the incident yesterday that the federal government does not have facilities to handle prosecution of juveniles.

The youth's father, Norris L. Booth, signed an affidavit charging his son is incorrigible and placed him in the hands of Juvenile Court Judge Benjamin S. Schwartz.

Council, Trustees Plan Joint Session

High density, low cost housing and its effect on the city and schools will be discussed tomorrow at a joint dinner meeting of the Petaluma City Council and board of education at 7:30 p.m. at the Green Mill Inn.

Planning and proposed school sites will also be reviewed at the joint study session.

Cheaper in the long run.

Gas will never cost you much. (You'll get up to 27 miles to the gallon.)

And the amount of oil you use is like a drop in the bucket. (It only takes 2.7 quarts and almost never needs more between changes.)

And the engine is air-cooled, so you don't have to spend a red cent for anti-freeze or rust inhibitors.

And you get more than your money's worth out of a set of tires.

But don't think buying a new Volkswagen is just another get-rich-quick scheme.

You have to wait until the second set of tires wear out.

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 11, the 315th day of 1969, with 50 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1918 fighting in World War I was halted with the signing of the armistice.

In 1921, President Warren Harding dedicated the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery.

In 1965 a United Air Lines jetliner crashed and burned while landing at Salt Lake City, killing 42 of the 90 persons aboard.

Also in 1965, Rhodesia declared its independence from Britain. England declared the action treasonable and announced a series of economic sanctions.

A thought for the day: Eugene Field said, "I'm sure no heart goes wrong that's told 'Good bye, God bless you!'"

The Days When They Were Rare

CALIFORNIA, Mo. (UPI)— When you see an airplane fly over your house these days, you don't even look up. But 50 years ago a plane flight was as newsworthy as today's space flight.

A story printed in The California Democrat 50 years ago reported: "Another aeroplane passed over California Wednesday evening going east. The pilot flew pretty low, and the town cop could nearly get his number and could tell whether he was exceeding the speed limit or not."

Best Course Of Action: Rely On Your Brain, Not A Proverb

The trouble with relying on proverbs and rules is that they steer you in opposite directions. "Don't look a gift horse in the mouth," you are told by the arbiters of etiquette. But "beware the Greeks even when they bear gifts," is advice that you can't afford to ignore. Your best course at the bridge table is to rely on your brain instead of a proverb.

'FREE' FINESSE

West's club opening lead gave South a "free" chance to finesse. He gratefully played a low club from the dummy, only to discover that West's gift bore a price tag.

East won with the queen of clubs and fired back the jack of hearts. South stepped up with the ace of hearts, hoping that he wouldn't have to risk the finesse, but his caution came too late. East got in with the ace of diamonds (South would have been safe if West had held this ace) and led the ten of hearts. The defenders then defeated the contract with three hearts, one diamond and one club.

REFUSE GIFT

South should make his contract by refusing the gift of the club finesse at the first trick. Declarer takes the ace of clubs and leads diamonds at once to force out the ace. Even if East then cashes the top clubs, declarer is safe since dummy's eight of clubs will eventually stop the suit.

Whenever South regains the lead he can take the game and rubber with four diamonds, three spades, one heart and at least one club.

SOUTH UNLUCKY

South was unlucky to find both club honors, the ace of diamonds and the king of hearts in unfavorable position, but he had no need to rely on luck. What's more, the opening lead could not possibly be a fourth-best card and was therefore likely to be the "top of nothing." If so, there was no advantage in trying a finesse that was sure to lose.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠—9 8 3 2
♥—K 8 7 4
♦—8 3 2
♣—7 4

What do you say?

Answer: Pass.

You have excellent trump support for hearts, but the hand is too weak for any response. You would respond if you had a queen instead of any of the low cards.

Canal Proving To Be Expensive Item

HELSINKI, Finland (UPI)— The Saimaa Canal, built by special agreement between the governments of Finland and the Soviet Union, will cost Finland next year 20 times more than it is expected to earn.

The state budget for 1970 estimates the total canal cost at about $3 million, while the revenue is expected to be about $160,000.

'ROYAL HUNT' STAR

From King Lear To Pizarro Role

By GARY TISCHLER

How does an actor immerse himself in the stage flesh of one character when the part insistently prods and haunts him with echoes and fragments of another character?

That's been the problem facing David Stiers, College of Marin actor-in-residence, while parparing for his role as the Spanish Conquistador Pizarro in the College of Marin Drama Department's production of Peter Schaffer's "The Royal Hunt of the Sun," which opened last weekend at the Fine Arts Theater.

Performances also are scheduled tomorrow, Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

Stiers, a six-year veteran of the California Shakespeare Festival at Los Gatos, delivered a critically acclaimed performance as the Bard's "King Lear" in this year's festival, and Pizarro, for at least an act and a half is Lear all over again.

"It's uncanny," said Stiers, a tall, imposing figure who looks suitably solemn with his dark beard. "It was uncomfortable at first trying not to be aware of it. I had to catch myself, trying not to repeat the same gestures, the same moves."

"Pizarro is not mad, but they're both alienated, cynical and disgusted," Stiers added. "They both have an assumed superiority and a failure to believe in anything. The word nothing occurs many times in both their lines. And the last scene in both plays ends over a dead person."

Yet there are differences.

"Lear very rarely speaks to anyone," Stiers explained, "His part is almost all acclamation and statements whereas Pizarro really talks to people."

Stiers, a 26-year-old native of Illinois, has a string of credits with the Shakespeare Festival as well as being a member of the Committee Revue and the Committee Theater. His Shakespearean roles have included Duncan in "Macbeth," Francis Flute in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Sir Andrew Aguecheek in "Twelfth Night," the title role in "Richard III," the Dromio twins in "A Comedy of Errors," and many others.

A professional rooted in traditional theater, Stiers talks about his work knowingly without being academic, enthusiastically without tooting his own ego. He considers the audience a key to the success of a particular performance.

"The best audience we had for 'Lear' was very small," he recalls. "It was only about a two-thirds house. It was perfect cross-section. They didn't come because they felt it was supposed to be good and they ought to see it. It was an unbearably hot afternoon. They were there because they wanted to see it and they literally devoured the play. They had pefect vibes.

"A good audience is responsive and open," he said. "There has to be some kind of group consciousness, a psychic energy at work. You shouldn't have to cry yourself to make your audience cry. Rather, you should show them why there is a reason to cry. That's something totally different."

Stiers seems to have a genuine affection and respect for Shakespeare.

"A lot of it is in the writing," he said. "In Schaffer's play, most of it seems to be two forces butting against each other—Pizarro and the Inca emperor Atahuallpa—a series of confrontrations. I don't think we'll exhaust all the ideas in the play but in Shakespeare, it's something different. He presents so many alternatives. Nothing is black and white. It's all so rich and complex."

Although an admirer of the living theater, Stiers prefers to keep things on a personal level between an actor and audience, and not necessarily a physical one.

"In a performance, you ought to be able to get the audience to focus on their own being — what they are and what they aren't, what they should and should not be," he said. "It works for myself. Sometimes I can dig down into my own unpleasantness, my own follies and ugliness and bring them out to where you can look at it."

Stiers is by no means mired in the Shakespearean groove. He'd like to try other things.

"I've always wanted to do Cyrano, probably because I'm an incurable romantic," he said. "And Hamlet, before I become too old. Some Chekhov. I'd like to do films, but I've never really had a chance. I don't know why. Possibly because they don't really want actors. I did perform for a friend at Stanford who was filming a chapter of Malcolm Lowry's "Under the Volcano" for his graduate thesis. It's something totally different. There's absolutely no continuity."

He's enjoyed working with the College of Marin students on "Royal Hunt."

"They're amazing," he said. "They catch on so fast. And they have the kind of energy and enthusiasm that you tend to lose when you turn professional."

Black Point Master Plan Is Snagged

A legal technicality caused the Novato Planning Commission last night to postpone until 8 p.m., Dec. 8 consideration of the master plan for the Black Point planned community. (Related story, page 17.)

City Atty. Clark M. Palmer Jr. in a written opinion stated that zoning on a parcel of property does not carry over to the city when it is annexed from the county.

This meant that the 710 acres owned by John Kenney, south of Highway 37 and west of Black Point, was not zoned for a planned community. It must be zoned as such before city planners can consider the master plan, according to Planning Director Brian W. Mattson. The master plan calls for 200 single family homes, 300 apartments and 1,800 mobile homes sites as well as a shopping center and a 75-acre lake.

The commission then voted 6-0 with Commissioner William Wilson absent, to ask the Novato City Council to pass an interim zoning ordinance for the land so that the commission can consider the master plan.

Mattson said that his staff would examine past annexations to see if this ruling affected them.

The commission also denied use permits to William Wentworth for a car wash and Dr. John R. Glassmaker for a veterinary clinic, both on the east side on Highway 101, north of Vallejo Avenue. The vote was 4-2 with Commissioners Eugene McGillicuddy and Kay England voting against the denial. Mattson had asked for a continuance until January to see what the city's planning consultants would come up with for the economic use of the land owned by Emil Renati.

An application by Eric L. Hollowell for a variance to construct a carport within 4.5 feet of the side property line at 5 Lambert Way was continued indefinitely at the request of the applicant.

A Dim Outlook Given On Downtown Novato

The downtown area of Novato is so badly fragmented and so limited in function that it cannot compete effectively as a central shopping area without determined action by property owners and the city.

This was one of the findings of the planning consultants Sedway and Cooke in a report on the land uses of the downtown area, presented in a report last night to the Novato Planning Commission. The study was given to the downtown study panel last Thursday.

The study included 437 acres acres in the present and projected downtown area of Novato. Of this, 110 acres or 26 per cent was occupied business and 107 acres were vacant. The remaining acreage is in residential use.

"Large quantities of land for new development are available in the downtown if equitable and economic means can be found to develop them," the report said. It referred to the low swamp land which must be filled before being used.

The downtown area has a small but emerging financial, professional and office role that could be "an important catalyst for development and redevelopment," according to the report.

The report suggests the possibility of a city program to limit development outside the immediate downtown area and property owners, assemblying smaller sites to into larger ones to be held for future development. It did not offer any suggestion on how individual landowners could be made to pool their property for large development.

In the downtown space already constructed, the survey shows that 25 per cent is used for food services, 6 per cent for general merchandise, 4 per cent for clothing and shoes, 8 per cent for furniture, 19 per cent for all other retail, 7 per cent for financial institutions, 11 per cent for offices, 14 per cent for services and 6 per cent vacant.

The area studied is an irregularly shaped triangle from Atherton Avenue on the north, east of Highway 101 to south of Novato Creek, west along South Novato Boulevard and Novato Boulevard coming back to north of Grant Avenue to Highway 101.

City Street Lights Irk Neighbors

Complaining that Marin County requires Los Angeles freeway lights for Tiburon's residential areas, the Tiburon City Council last night directed the planning commission to draft a master street lighting plan for Tiburon Hills.

The action came after residents in the neighborhood complained street lights were far too bright for the newly developed hillside community.

The council also ordered temporary changes for eight lights to provide minimum light in the neighborhood until the master plan is adopted. It also directed City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose to investigate costs of trading in existing "streamlined" poles for something more aesthetic.

Councilman Denis T. Rice, noting the county requires the "streamlined" light standards in all new developments said the lights are the type you'd find on a Los Angeles freeway and that "streamlined is a euphemism for grubby lights."

The Tiburon City Council also:

PREZONING — Approved second reading of an ordinance prezoning property at Mar West Street and Tiburon Boulevard, owned by Fred G. Zelinsky, as a planned development zone prior to the annexation of the property into the city. The property previously was in the City of Belvedere.

SIGNS — Postponed action on a proposed sign ordinance to Dec. 8 when a full council could be present. Councilmen Thomas E. Drohan and William R. Bremer were absent.

RESOLUTION — Slightly modified the resolution declaring the city's intention to condemn property owned by the Northwestern Pacific Railroad along Tiburon Boulevard.

BCDC — Directed Planning Director Wayne E. Moody to attend the board of supervisors and San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission meetings to represent the city's view that public access be guaranteed to the Strawberry Cove waterfront under proposed development plans.

CLOSED SESSION — Took no action following a closed meeting to discuss pending litigation.

The ratel is a badgerlike animal of Africa and India.

Tiburon Still Critical Of County Leash Law

Despite a long and detailed discussion of the county's new animal control ordinance, the Tiburon City Council last night once again postponed action on a proposal to adopt the county's ordinance as its own.

The proposed ordinance was referred again to the public services committee for further study and recommendations.

Action on the ordinance had been postponed until last night so Mel L. Morse, executive director of the County Humane Society, could explain the society's interpretation of the enforcement requirements.

Of the requirement that an animal must be under the control at all times, Morse said the dog catchers would be flexible in applying the rule.

Morse assured Mayor Branwell D. Fanning that a dog playing in its unfenced front yard would not be picked up but that dogs who wer causing a nuisance would be picked up and returned to their owners.

Further, he said, on first violations courtesy notices of violations will be issued and citations, which may cost $20, will be issued only to repeated violators "An owner who obviously doesn't care."

Also, he said, dogs would not be impounded unless dangerous or unless the dog catcher was unable to locate its owner.

He urged the city to take some action to increase the number of patrols in Tiburon noting that 23 dog bite cases had been reported in the city during October alone.

The council also received a petition signed by 61 downtown merchants asking better dog controls. Fanning said that the city's existing ordinance provided "maximum teeth" for the downtown area and merchants need only to call the police or humane society when a problem occurs.

Theater Owner Raps Sex Trend

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American film industry is threatened by movie producers who are attempting "to out-sex or out-violence anything seen before," says the head of the National Association of Theater Owners.

"The most insidious danger today to our box office, and in terms of public relations, is the gratuitous sex or violence scene in films," said Association President Julian S. Rifkin.

"Producers seem to be trying to out-sex or out-violence anything seen before," Rifkin said at the organization's annual convention here.

Nixon Backers Fill Newspages

POTTSTOWN, Pa. (UPI)— The Pottstown Mercury's first four pages are filled today with names of persons who say they support President Richard M. Nixon's Vietnam policy.

"We figured half the adult population of Pottstown signed it," according to city editor Bob Urban. The names appear eight columns across, with an average of more than 200 names per column.

Editor Robert J. Boyle said he thought of the idea following the Oct. 15 Moratorium.

Gina Is Silent On Wedding Plan

ROME (AP) — Actress Gina Lollobrigida and New York real estate man George S. Kaufman aren't telling whether they plan to get married.

Gina, 41, and Kaufman, 35, brushed off newsmen's questions Monday upon arrival at the Rome airport from Lausanne, Switzerland, where she had visited her son Milko, 11, earlier in the day.

"I have nothing to say," said Gina. "Please don't bother me. I don't want to say one single word about this whole situation. I will not confirm or deny or comment in any way."

She chased one photographer, shouting "basta"—Italian for "enough."

A collection of photographs and macrame (knotted lace) by Marin artists is on display through Nov. 25 in the Fairfax branch of the Marin County Library at 47 Broadway.

Freelance photographer John Arms of Stinson Beach displays 12 photographs, many of them beach scenes with children. His photographs of children are featured in "Today is Saturday", a book written by Marin author Zilda Snyder, published this year by Atheneum.

Suzanne O'Hare, also of Stinson Beach, presents a display of nine necklaces and a belt, using raw silk, silk and rayon, linen and Persian wools.

Guilty Plea To Possession Drug

Monte Leon Miller, 20, of San Rafael, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to possessing Seconal and a hypodermic needle Aug. 14 in San Rafael.

After warning Miller that he probably will be sent to state prison because of his past record, Judge Joseph G. Wilson set sentencing for Dec. 1.

Chamber Group Plays Tomorrow

An evening of chamber music will be presented at the Mill Valley Outdoor Club at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Performing will be Annie de Cook, piano; William Clark, harpsichord; Michael Gerling, violin, and Marcelle Mignault Strong, mezzo soprano.

The works of Scarlatti, Bach, Prokofieff and Haydn will be presented.

Tam High District Closes 'Hair' Books

By ALAN JONES

The Tamalpais High School District board officially closed its long-run production of "hair" last night, but was warned by a few members of the audience there might be revival performances of the athletic grooming controversy.

The board, acting before an audience of 300, approved a new policy on athletic department rules, saying rules must be based on valid reasons and setting out appeal procedures.

The new policy, worked out after "millions of words and hundreds of hours," according to board chairman Bette L. Wallace, reads:

"The athletic director shall, at the beginning of each year, confer with his coaches and define appropriate rules and regulations (including grooming rules). Such rules and regulations should be based upon the judgment of the athletic director and his coaches. Each rule and regulation shall clearly relate to a valid educational, performance, health or safety reason.

"Once rules are defined and approved, they may be questioned through appropriate administrative channels, which include the athletic director, the principal, the superintendent, and the board of trustees. While a rule is in effect the burden will be upon the petitioner to demonstrate the unreasonableness of that rule under challenge, and he shall be governed by that rule until such time as a final determination is made by the district."

Application will be in four steps, the board agreed — drafting of the rules, justification of them by the coaches, approval by the athletic director, principal, superintendent and board, and setting of date when they take effect.

Supt. Robert D. Torrey said he will recommend further that the athletic departments call in a cross-section of the school faculty to review the rules and give an opinion on their reasonableness.

That drew objections from some in the audience, one man saying coaches in turn should be given a veto power over home economics classes. But Torrey said he would leave it up to the principal of each school whether to have a faculty review of athletic rules.

The hair controversy, which had been in the wings for two years, became public Sept. 24 when Torrey suspended district grooming rules for athletes pending a study of them.

Robert J. Troppman, Redwood athletic director, publicly announced his resignation from the post in protest, although the resignation never went through.

Last night, Willis C. Bohn of Tiburon complained that the new policy left things just as they were before, but Mrs. Wallace disagreed sharply. "That is incorrect," she said. The new policy, she said, spells out that valid reasons must be given for athletic rules, and sets out appeals procedures.

A long-haired student, who did not identify himself, complained the policy was a compromise to please everyone that would end up pleasing no one. He predicted "we'll be right back with another controversy in a year or two."

Jeff Einstein of Tamalpais High School, a member of the hearing panel, suggested that if Redwood has the only grooming problem, "maybe we should have a separate district for Redwood."

A red-beared man who said he was from Liverpool called the whole thing "an obvious case of pure prejudice combined with jealousy. This could only happen in America."

Mrs. Wallace appointed six of the seven hearing panelists as a liaison committee to keep the board in touch with events as rules are worked out. Dr. George Stone was omitted from the committee because of demands on his time.

Committee members are Einstein, Bart Ziegler of Sir Francis Drake High School, Michael Farley of Redwood, Vaughn Marker, Mary Louise Simonds and Jerrold Ladar.

Court Hears Of Erosion From Logging

OAKLAND (AP) — Skid trails from logging have caused erosion in western Marin County, a naturalist testified yesterday at a hearing on a preliminary injunction against timbering operations on a ranch in the area.

Clerin Q. Zumwalt of Audubon Canyon Ranch, Stinson Beach, showed 20 slides of what he described as sliced earth banks and other conditions which, he said, all added to flood hazards and plugged culverts along Highway 1.

The hearing will determine whether an injunction issued Oct. 3 by Superior Court Judge Robert H. Kroninger will be made permanent.

The order temporarily banned logging by the Matthews, Humber and Walker Timber Co. of Coos Bay, Ore., on a 1,400-acre ranch owned by Dr. Ethel Righetti on Bolinas Ridge, near Point Reyes National Seashore.

The action was transfered to Oakland because Dr. Righetti lives in Alameda County.

Another witness, architectural planner Saul Silver, testified that logging could silt Tomales and Bolinas Basins," and thus damage the county."

Admits Weed

Robert Desmond McKendrick, 35, a former resident of Rancho Olompali near Novato who now lives in Los Angeles, admitted yesterday in Marin Superior Court that he possessed marijuana when arrested March 20 in Point Reyes Station Judge Joseph G. Wilson set sentencing for Dec. 22.

Indians To Press Alcatraz Plans

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An "occupation" of Alcatraz by 14 young Indians has ended, but a spokesman says they will continue to beat the drums for rights to establish a new redmen's "nation" on the onetime prison island in San Francisco Bay.

The youths were removed by a Coast Guard cutter yesterday after illegally hiding out for 18 hours on The Rock, as it was known to hardened convicts.

Authorities said they decided not to press charges because the youngsters, some draped in robes and wearing headbands, left willingly.

Little Activity Set For War Moratorium

Little or no activity is planned at Tamalpais High School District schools on the November antiwar moratorium Friday and Saturday, the district board was told last night.

Principal Donald Kreps said the student council at Redwood High School has scheduled a rally at the end of classes at 2:30 p.m. Thursday, both nothing is planned for Friday.

Principal Raymond J. Bell of Tamalpais High School said no program plans have been submitted yet by students, but there may be a program during the noon hour Friday. A memorial program is scheduled Wednesday for Tamalpais's war dead, including Vietnam War victims.

Harold Allison, Principal of Sir Francis Drake High School, said student leaders tried to organize a Friday program to keep students on campus that day, but have been unable so far to find speakers for all points of view on the Vietnam war.

The board discussed guidelines for organizing special programs on controversial issues, assembled by Director of Instruction James L. Pierce from existing board policies, but took no action.

The Tamalpais High School District board also:

GIFTS — Accepted a gift of four books for the Drake library from art teacher Joe E. Rooney.

GRADUATION — Accepted the new state list of requirements for graduation, which adds mathematics, science and conservation of resources to requirements.

INSURANCE — Approved an insurance program offered by California Dental Service for damage to students' teeth through accidents.

COFFEE — Heard a suggestion by trustee Robert W. Corlett that the board rotate its meetings among the three schools, and open at 7:15 or 7:30 p.m. with informal coffee gatherings in which people could talk in a more friendly atmosphere with trustees.

Nixon Backers Busy Urging 'Silent Majority' To Speak

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are trying to coax more words, wires and letters of Vietnam policy support from President Richard M. Nixon's "silent majority" — with a form letter as part of the campaign.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt took the form letter approach in urging his South Dakota constituents to register their support for the President.

His weekly newsletter supplies a clip-and-mail coupon to be signed and sent back to Washington declaring: "Count me as a member of the silent majority no longer so silent. Please tell President Nixon I support his plans for peace."

Mundt said Nixon supporters are beginning to speak out now, following the President's Nov. 3 speech on Vietnam with its appeal for support.

The Republican National Committee, meanwhile, said the response to Nixon's Nov. 3 speech swamped the White House.

"By week's end he had received more than 70,000 yea wires and they're still coming," the committee's newsletter said.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew urged the nation to recognize "a young silent majority who go to school, and to work, and to war if necessary."

He said they are being overshadowed by "the strident minority" of dissidents.

Agnew also urged the silent to speak.

"Let us not be afraid to raise our voices in spirited defense of the most successful society the world has yet known . . .

But in Washington, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., charged that Agnew was arousing "extreme emotionalism" which was having a bad effect on the nation. Fulbright, a leading critic of the government's Vietnam policy, said he has been receiving "the most threatening and meanest letters" that he has received in 15 years.

"I blame this on the accusation that those who disagree with the administration's Vietnam policy are traitors and the direct charge by Agnew that we (senators critical of the administration's Vietnam policy) are responsible for the continuation of the war and increased battle deaths," Fulbright said.

Pleads Guilty To Possession Weed

Edward Thomas Chorovsky, 23, of San Francisco pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to possessing marijuana June 15 on Highway 101 near Ignacio. A second charge of possessing benzedrine was dismissed.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson set sentencing for Dec. 15.

Trudeau Escorts Barbra On Town

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Barbra Streisand had Canada's bachelor prime minister, Pierre Elliott Trudeau, for a weekend escort to dinner and the theater.

Asked whether a romance was indicated, a Streisand spokesman replied: "I don't know if you could call it dating."

The 48-year-old prime minister dined with Miss Streisand and producer Ray Stark Friday night at a private club and took her to the Polish Lab Theater on Sunday.

The singer and her actor husband, Elliott Gould, are separated.

Point San Pedro Residents Split On Realignment Of Thoroughfare

San Pedro Point area residents clashed last night over which route should be followed for San Pedro Road widening through Bayside Acres.

An unexpectedly large turnout of more than 350 persons jammed the Peacock Gap Country Club to air and hear views on Phase Four of the widening project, from Lochinvar Road to Peacock Drive.

Safety, ecology, open space and the taking of homes were brought up in statements over whether the new roadway should follow the present alignment or swing through bayside marshland at Bayside Acres. The weight of argument went largely in support of the marshland route.

Gathered were members of the Peacock Gap and Glenwood homeowners associations and Bayside Acres Property Owners Association, who were urged to sign petitions or write letters backing their choice.

J. Robert Hunt, president of the Peacock Gap Homeowners Association, reported that association directors support the marshland route because it would be a safer road.

Bernie Heare, president of the Bayside organization, said association members voted in June for the marshland route, but conceded that residents of Bayview Acres "are somewhat divided."

Dr. William F. Upton, former member of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission and resident of Bayside Acres, argued for retaining the marshland.

(The proposed new alignment would swing from Beach Drive to Marine Drive through what is now marshland).

Following the present alignment would result in the minimum dislocation of people and less disruption to ecology, Dr. Upton contended. When the marshland is taken, "it's lost forever," he said.

Eugene F. Sweeney of 761 Point San Pedro Road said the majority of property owners "directly affected" in Bayside Acres favor the marshland route, with safety as a key factor.

Donald R. Frost, Marin County public works director, said following the existing alignment would affect all frontage parcels in Bayside Acres, while the marshland route would require the taking of three homes.

The present alignment would require a split level roadway, separated by a 14-foot wall, while the marshaland alignment would permit a single level roadway, he said.

The cost of right-of-way and construction of a four-lane roadway over the present alignment has been estimated at $1,070,000 and the cost of the marshland alignment, $1,160,000, Frost reported.

James W. Robertson, county traffic engineer, said the marshland route would provide greater safety for traffic and for pedestrians, with a buffer space between the roadway and sidewalk.

Both county officials contended there was a greater hazard of a wrong way entry and a potential head-on crash if the present alignment were followed.

Clinton Lewis of 170 Oak Drive, said persons along Point San Pedro Road should have had reason to expect widening in their area, but residents on the bay side "never suspected that a four-lane highway would be going through their front yard."

Opposing the marshland route where Donald Sinclair of 38 Beach Drive, who recently purchased a home, which he said would be along that route, and Mrs. John P. Mangini of 724 Point San Pedro Road, who would lose her home.

Supervisor John F. McInnis repeated his stand in favor of the marshland route. As for the additional costs, "If it saves any pedestrian from an accident," or avoids a head-on accident, it is more than justified, he said.

Sheldon Bowers, president of the Glenwood Homeowners Assn., urged that a decision on routing be made so the project can get underway.

The proposed timetable is for acquisition of right-of-way in 1969-70, initial work in 1970-71 and completion in 1971-72, as a joint city-county project.

James M. Fairchild, moderator, limited comments to three minutes, and only about a dozen residents spoke. The remainder of the discussion time was alloted to questioning of county officials.

Above Average

New Dialogue Plan For Board Sessions

Listening to a trustee who said there must be a "balance between conscience and representation," the Sausalito School District board last night agreed to try a new format for listening to the public at its meetings.

The board, acting unanimously, decided to give the public two opportunities to express itself at board meetings — before actions were considered and after they were voted on. The trial would be only for the next meeting.

Currently, citizens at the board meetings may comment on any issue as it is being considered by the board.

Only trustee Martha Freebairn-Smith expressed concern that the public should have the opportunity to comment while a matter is being discussed, not before or after.

The change was suggested by trustee David E. Freedheim who said the board over the past few months has suffered from allowing too much discussion. He said "repetitious questions" from the audience were lengthening meetings.

Freedheim also said various pressure groups within the community were constantly trying to push the board one way or another and said there "must be a balance between conscience and representation."

He was mildly critical of the audience at the meetings, saying that it did not listen to what the board said. "Too often, there's a one-way communication," he said.

Members of the audience objected to the format change, saying it would further disassociate the public from the board's business. Barbara Nelson, co-chairman of a group called Citizens for Excellence in Integrated Education, charged that the board already ignores the wishes of the public and Freedheim's suggestion would make it even more difficult for the public—at least at the board meetings — to make its wishes known.

Citizens for Excellence in Integrated Education has representatives at each board meeting but refuses to say how many or who in the Sausalito community it represents other than the representatives present at board meetings.

The Sausalito School District Board also:

BREAKFASTS — Heard Asst. Supt. Joseph Amato report that the free breakfast program would be resumed tomorrow under the supervision of two temporary coordinators. Bus runs will be operated for the program on schedules established before the breakfasts were cancelled last month when the coordinator resigned.

CLOSED MEETING — Held a closed meeting on the employment of three teaching aides, then voted in open session to delay a decision on the hiring until the next meeting.

TRANSFERS — Agreed to submit three interdistrict transfers into the district from San Francisco to the Marin County Board of Education for approval.

MEETINGS — Set a Dec. 1 meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the district office for consideration of salaries and set other meetings for Nov. 24 and Dec. 8 and 22.

Classroom Lease Found Too Costly

A one-year lease of a portable classroom would be prohibitively expensive, the Kentfield School District board was told last night.

The board had considered leasing a portable to relieve crowding at Adaline E. Kent School and avoid bussing, but Supt. Anthony G. Bacich said prices quoted by eight manufacturers ranged around $6,000 for a one-year lease.

The current crowding at Kent is expected to be eased next year with redrawing of school attendance lines.

The board, with an eye toward possible purchase of a portable instead of leasing, told Bacich to investigate the possible long-term uses of a portable in the Kent program.

The Kentfield School District board also:

LEAVE — Rescinded its action granting a year's leave to Jane Gates, kindergarten teacher at Wolfe Grade School, on receiving her letter withdrawing the leave request.

BARGAINING — Took no action on a letter from Worldwide Education and Research Institute offering to handle board negotiations with teachers for annual contracts. The institute is a professional negotiating firm, Bacich reported.

EXPENDITURES — Rejected a proposal by Greenbrae School Principal Roy L. Smith to spend $185 earned by sale of old desks for new audio-visual material. The money will go into reserves, the board said, and the school should submit a detailed proposal for the purchases.

ATTENDANCE — Approved three interdistrict attendance agreements.

Candy Coins Taken

An undetermined amount of change was taken from the candy machine at the Coin Washing Well, Fair-Anselm Shopping Center, between 10 p.m. Friday and 12:40 Saturday, Fairfax police reported yesterday.

Plea Date For Heroin Suspect Set

One of the persons arrested Friday in a raid on a San Rafael apartment where drug agents said they confiscated $11,000 worth of suspected heroin was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Clarence Dale Taylor, 26, of Fairfax, was charged with driving under the influence of narcotics, possessing heroin and being an adict who drove a car. His case was continued until Friday for entry of plea.

No new charge was filed yesterday in court against Michael Gordon Streib, 24, of San Francisco, who also was arrested Friday at the residence of Rosita Dolores Branstetter, 37, of San Rafael. Streib had been arrested in the same apartment Oct. 29 and is charged with sale of heroin from the earlier arrest.

Miss Branstetter, who is accused of earlier sale of heroin, is to come to court tomorrow on the new arrest as is another person arrested at her apartment Friday, Angel John Fernandez, 38, of San Francisco.

Drug agents said they followed Taylor from Miss Branstetter's apartment and, when he was driving erratically, they stopped him. Agents said he had a red balloon containing suspected heroin.

A search of Miss Branstetter's apartment later revealed more suspected heroin found in her king-sized bed, according to agents, who said they also found $5,000 in her wallet in addition to two welfare checks.

No Monument, Yet, For Truman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harry S Truman is the only former president of this century for whom no historic site has been dedicated. But, say National Park Service officials, that's the way he wants it.

Truman has told them he wants nothing done during his lifetime, NPS Director George B. Hartzog Jr. told a House subcommittee yesterday.

"Someday he'll have a memorial, and we want it to be something appropriate," said Rep. John Kyl, R-Iowa. But he added, in reference to memorials for past presidents:

"The further we get from the time they depart, the harder it gets and the more expensive it is, too."

Marin Coroner's Daughter Missing From Hospital

A mentally disturbed and potentially violent 17-year-old Tiburon girl has been reported missing from Langley Porter Institute in San Francisco by her sister, Virginia L Cooke of Sausalito.

The girl, Heidi Cooke, daughter of Donovan O. Cooke, Marin County coroner and public administrator, and Mrs. Gloria Cooke of Tiburon, was last seen at the hospital at 6 p.m. Sunday, Miss Cooke said.

She has been mentally disturbed for the past three years and is in need of medication, Miss Cooke said. She had very little money with her when she left the hospital and possibly is heading for Sausalito or the Haight Ashbury district of San Francisco.

The girl is described as five feet four inches tall, weighing 130 pounds with short dark brown hair and blue eyes. When last seen she was wearing a sleeveless red and white jump suit, Miss Cooke said.

Any information about the missing girl should be reported to the Marin County Sheriff's Department, the San Francisco Police Department or the Langley Porter Clinic.

Lear Abandons Steam Car Try

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — After spending $5.5 million on the project, inventor William Lear says he has given up trying to perfect steam automobile engines to curb air pollution.

Lear told an audience at the University of Michigan yesterday the device is too complex to keep prices down and allow easy maintenance. He said he has turned to gas turbines.

"There is a definite pollution problem," said Lear, father of the Lear jet. "Somebody had better find an aswer to it or we'll all die at the bottom of a sewer of gas."

Mill Valley Trustees Counter Pay Proposal

The Mill Valley School District board last night outlined its counter proposal to a request by district teachers for a 3 per cent salary scale increase, Supt. James A. Collins reported.

The discussion was the first public revelation of the board's position on the salary dispute which has led the Mill Valley Teachers Association to ask the California Teachers Association to investigate the district for possible sanctions.

The proposal, rejected by teachers at a negotiation session Wednesday, calls for committees of teachers and board members to review the existing salary schedule and remedy weaknesses, Collins said.

The board also declared that "at this time it was not willing to change its position" on the across-the-board increase, Collins said.

The board also said it would consider adopting some or all of the committees' recommendations retroactively and that it would continue to negotiate with the teachers.

Collins said the majority of the audience, besides teachers, spoke in support of the teachers' position.

Following the meeting, the board held a closed session to discussi its position for the next negotiation session scheduled for 8 p.m. Nov. 18 at Edna Maguire School. Another closed meeting, also to discuss negotiations, was set for 8 p.m. tomorrow in the district office.

The Mill Valley School District Board also:

RIGHT-OF-WAY — Approved widening the right-of-way at Edna Maguire School.

FIRE — Heard that the insurance company has chosen to repair the library building at Marin Terrace school, damaged by fire believed set by arsonists, and expects repairs to be completed by Jan. 1.

MIDDLE SCHOOL — Heard that bids for construction of the middle school will be advertised Nov. 24 and opened Dec. 22.

LEAVE — Approved maternity leave for guidance counselor Claire Delano.

INTERDISTRICT TRANSFERS — Approved interdistrict transfer agreements for five students into Mill Valley including one from the Presidio in San Francisco, two from Larkspur School District, one from Sausalito School District and one from the San Rafael Elementary School District.

VIETNAM — Recieved a letter from Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hepp outlining objections to material on Vietnam used in current affairs discussions in fourth through eighth grade classes and authorized the addition of the letter, without the Hepps' names, to the Vietnam material to present another viewpoint on the war.

Melkonian Wins Delay On Sentence

A convicted "marijuana martyr" won another delay yesterday in going to jail for a one year term to which he was sentenced two years ago.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court agreed that a new probation report should be written on Melkon Melkonian, 34-year-old Mill Valley mechanic who once said that selling marijuana to youngsters was no worse than selling them beer.

Melkonian appeared in court yesterday after an absence of a year since his conviction had been upheld by a higher court. The week before the Marin district attorney's office had asked a bench warrant be issued for him.

Melkonian was sentenced in October (1967), to spend the year in jail by Judge Wilson after Melkonian pleaded no contest to a charge of possessing 20 kilos of marijuana for sale at his home.

He also was convicted in San Francisco of marijuana sale, and during his trial there nearly 2,000 affidavits were presented supporting them.

Judge Wilson continued the case to Dec. 15.

Petaluma Picks New School Site

Land near the intersection of Casa Grande and Ely Roads was tentatively approved last night by the Petaluma Board of Education as the future site for a new high school.

Supt. Lesly H. Meyer said the district hoped to purchase 70 acres at the location and would first build a combined junior-senior high school facility and then move the junior high grades into a separate building later.

Meyer said the site had already received verbal approval from the Sonoma County Planning Commission and the State Department of Education.

He told the board that two appraisals would be made of the property and the purchase price decided using those figures.

Tax Proposed To Curb California Population

The California Depopulation Commission says the state's growing population could be reduced by levying a tax of $100 on each new resident and paying $100 from the proceeds to each person moving out of California.

The commission, founded by David C. Camp of Ross, said the plan — which it called the "head and tails tax" — was proposed by a member, Art Schnieder of Tujunga.

$3,222 To Two Chambers Of Commerce

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Financial aid totaling $3,222 for the Petaluma and Rohnert Park chambers of commerce was approved yesterday by the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors.

The Petaluma request for $4,385 was pared down to $3,002 by the board which deleted a request of $1,145 for a new city-county entrance sign on Highway 101 and $163 for an industrial survey.

The board approved $572 for a new city-county map; $200 for river and harbor activities, and $2,230 on matching grants based on the number of memberships.

The Rohnert Park chamber received $220 in matching funds based on membership.

Rohnert Park Work Session Set

A work session on park development and new park sites was set last night by the Rohnert Park Recreation Commission for Nov. 24 at 7:30 p.m.

Commission chairman Ronald E. Rasmussen said the commission will be gathering information on possible sites for new neighborhood parks and a regional park as well as information on financing.

Rasmussen said the commission will prepare questionnaires for all residents to determine what types of parks are wanted, whether for leisure activities or sports and what facilities are needed. He said the questionnaires will also seek opinions on financing the projects.

Trustees Bar Sheriff Substation In School

The Lagunitas School District board last night denied use of the old Lagunitas School building as a sheriff's substation.

The board unanimously approved a resolution stating it did not feel the use would be compatible with education, Supt. Marshall J. McCunniff reported.

McCunniff said many residents attended the meeting to speak for and against the proposal and estimated those favoring it outnumbered those against.

The request came from the Central Citizens Committee of the San Geronimo Valley which was organized in August to protect all residents from "lawless and irresponsible elements" which have been plaguing the area since the beginning of the year, according to committee president E.L. Barnett.

However, the board has been negotiation with Lagunitas artist Jean Berensmier who plans to open a cultural center in the school and it was believed the two uses would not be compatible, McCunniff said.

The board also passed a resolution supporting the idea of having a sheriff's substation in the valley and offering its assistance in location it.

The Lagunitas School District Board Also:

KINDERGARTEN — Heard a report on the district's kindergarten program for teachers Kathleen Dewing and Mrs. Clifford Slattery.

UNIFICATION — Took no action on a request from the county Committee in School District Reorganization that the board support its efforts for legislation to eliminate mandatory unification elections.

PERSONNEL — Hired Max Crosley as a teacher of the educationally handicapped at a salary of $7,950 a year.

MEETING — Set a workshop meeting for 7:30 p.m. Monday at Lagunitas School to continue a review of the district's policy manual.

New Teacher Program Is Due Review

A new program to replace the former resources teacher program will be presented to the Dixie School District board for approval at 8 p.m. today in the school administration office, 35 Trellis Drive, Terra Linda.

The resources teacher program, which was discontinued this year, paid teachers additional salary for working both before the fall opening and closing in June, and for additional responsibilities during the school year and after their normal school day.

Under the new proposal, teachers would give districtwide curriculum assistance curing regular school hours. Such teachers would have substitutes relieve them of their regular classroom work for up to 20 days per school year. They would not get additional pay for this curriculum assistance except in exceptional cases where the board approved a job description.

If this program for curriculum assistance by teachers is accepted, Supt. Clifford W. Campbell will ask for appointment of a curriculum assistance position in multi-ethnic studies for next year.

Other items on the agenda include a request that the trustees borrow $100,000 from county reserves to meet the district's December expenses, pending receipt of some $600,000 in local taxes during next month.

If you're under 30 and 'on-the-way'... why get up-tight about life insurance?

Who needs it? It seems so plastic and static. You say, "By making it today, I'll assure my own tomorrows." O.K. That's beautiful. But have you talked to any of the with-it money-makers lately? They're really creative—and they know how to use life insurance creatively. It's simply this: life insurance can be made to be a now-idea, a way of underwriting your life-style. That's what being creative with life insurance is all about. Because we can't spell it out more in this little ad, how about talking to us and pinning us down to more specifics?

Mrs. Harold Griffith Heads Petaluma Chapter

Mrs. Harold R. Griffith of Cotati, president of the Chicken Little Chapter of Children's Home Society in Petaluma, not only heads that organization but is active in the Cotati Firemen's Auxiliary and the citizen's advisory committee to the Cotati School Board.

"Being active in Chicken Little Chapter takes quite a lot of time, but I really enjoy being a part of this group," Mrs. Griffith said. "I feel the help we give to Children's Home Society is worth the time and energy given to Chicken Little. The active members of this group are the kind of women who see a job to be done and do it. It isn't all work; it's fun, too. What can be more enjoyable than helping children?" she says.

MRS. HAROLD GRIFFITH

Mrs. Griffith has served as chapter vice president and treasurer. A graduate of Petaluma High School and the Santa Rosa Junior College School of Nursing, Mrs. Griffith was employed as a registered nurse at Petaluma's Hillcrest Hospital until 1961.

The society's ultimate goal, stressed the chapter president, is happy families — homes for children who need them; help and counseling for natural parents.

Upcoming projects for Chicken Little Chapter are the semi-formal holiday dance to be held on Nov. 22 at the Petaluma Veterans Memorial, and calendared for the spring is the chapter's fashion show and luncheon which will mark the 10th year.

The continuing project of the chapter is the sale of its cookbook, "Taste Teasers," which includes favorite recipes of several state and national officials.

Hobbies enjoyed by Mrs. Griffith include sewing, knitting, gardening, swimming and other water sports. She and her husband, a Petaluma real estate broker, have two children, Karen, 7, and Bobby, 5.

Men's Umbrellas Get Style Going-Over With New Color

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lawrentz Katz was looking around recently at the upheaval in men's fashions and decided to start one of his own. So now you can get men's umbrellas to match your raincoat—beige, dark green, brown, navy blue and even checks and plaids.

Katz, 58, is president of the Polan Katz Umbrella Company of Baltimore, Md., a manufacturer of fashionable umbrellas for women since his father founded the firm back in 1905.

"Take a look at some of the new men's styles," he said. "The new doublebreasted coats, the wide lapels, the fitted shapes. The new shirts and the wide ties. Why if you wear a black umbrella with them you might as well be wearing tennis shoes.

"YOU MUST have something that has the feel of style. If you're still wearing the old fashioned English tab collar with a new tie that is four or five inches wide you will look idiotic. It's the same thing with old fashioned umbrellas—and that includes the color, the fabrics and the handles which are real style items."

Katz also manufactures walking sticks and he predicts a resurgence in them, especially with their new designs and application. By application he referred to the shillelagh, the old Irish walking stick which is traditionally made from the blackthorn and is apt to be as crooked as a dog's hind leg.

"Think how it would look with the new weekend costumes," he said. "Wonderful for walking in the suburbs and it is good protection. As a matter of fact it might not be a bad idea to carry one in the cities."

But umbrellas are Katz's first love and he waxed enthusiastic at the thought of doing away with the tightly furled black English brolly and replacing it with colors to match the new spring raincoats — brass, copper, bronze, Apollo blue (lighter than navy), ivory, cornsilk, British tan.

HE SAID HE had been working with one raincoat manufacturer, Harbor Master, and as new raincoat colors and patterns emerge he will bring out umbrellas to match the coats. The ones on view at the recent Men's Sportswear Buyers Show in New York were fairly subdued but will get less so as men get accustomed to the idea of colored umbrellas, he predicted.

"What if someone brings out a denim blue raincoat for the young man?" he asked. "We will bring out a denim blue umbrella. We're already experimenting with new colors and patterns although now we are pretty much sticking to muted patterns."

But even if you insist on a black umbrella you can carry it in a fancy case. Katz told of some cases in checks and plaids in a nubby material "that will give a lift to an ensemble." "And you could have a bold black and white check or houndstooth case with a conventional umbrella inside," he said.

Handles are a big thing in umbrellas from a style standpoint and he said the traditional handles of fake leather, malacca and whangee which is sometimes called bamboo might become a thing of the past "except for the old never-say-die Ivy League type."

FOR THE 1970s, he said, a man in a new kind of costume might have a handle formed like the opera handle T-shaped or shaped like a golf club or even a dog's head. "We even have a monkey head," he said. "They're amusing conversation pieces."

If a man is a racing nut he could have a handle shaped like a jockey's whip. Or if he likes modern art "we've just got in some Austrian handles that look like a display at the Museum of Modern Art of horses heads by some wild modern artist in light horn and also in rosewood." There's another handle in stitched belting leather in dark brown that would be a handsome accessory to a beige or dark brown raincoat.

UHBRELLAS TO match men's raincoats are the fashion revolution idea of Lawrentz Katz, president of Polan Katz Umbrella Co. of Baltimore, Md. Wearing a beige nylon and brown leather-trimmed raincoat by Harbormaster is model Soulis Mathios. The matching umbrella he is holding also come in brown, navy, vinyl and checks and plaids. Nutrition To Be Issue

An effort by the health and scientific professions to create public understanding of the issues involved in the White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health was announced by Dr. Jean Mayer, special consultant to President Nixon for the Conference.

Dr. Mayer pointed out that the Dec. 2 to 4 conference has a two-fold purpose. One is laying the foundation for a national nutrition policy and advising President Nixon on the best methods to eliminate hunger and malnutrition in the United States. The other is the creation of an awakened public opinion that will seek action on the recommendations made at the Conference.

The American Home Economics Association, with the assistance of the American Dietetic Association, has agreed to spearhead cooperative efforts involving doctors, nurses, public health people, dietitians, food service personnel, and student professionals at the secondary and college levels.

The purpose will be to promote discussion and activities at the community level, including workshops for professionals, television and radio shows, women's club and service club programs, community health inventories, etc.

Cowboy Syndrome May Break Up Marriages

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An emotional state known as "cowboy syndrome" is the major cause of marriage breakups, according to a University of California professor of psychiatry.

Dr. Alfred Auerback Friday blamed sex-oriented husbands for most marital problems.

"These men don't know how to be emotionally intimate," Auerback said.

They are victims of "cowboy syndrome"and try to become "the strong, silent he-man who loves his horse and his girl with equal passion", the doctor said.

"We are educating the males of this country to be predators. They are taught to 'make' girls, but not taught how to understand their needs," Auerback said.

One symptom of "cowboy" syndrome" is a penchant for riding off into the sunset in bigger and bigger cars.

"Cars are the first symbols of the manhood," Auerback said at a press conference, "and they are getting bigger and bigger to prove their manhood."

The doctor said male sexual education comes from watching James Bond Movies, today's advertising and "the Playboy philosophy that it's all fun."

The doctor said the country needs an education in schools that deals not only with sex, but with the needs of a deep and lasting relationship.

Gentlemen Prefer Brunettes—

By GAY PAULEY

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russian men seemingly prefer bruenttes.

The people who run a brand new training school for beauticians here in the Soviet capital say that chestnut brown is the number one color they are making the locks of the Tanyas, the Sonyas and the Valentinas.

But walk around Moscow and you'll see plenty of bright red-haired women and blondes too. For haircoloring has come to the Communist world in a rush.

Last year about this time on a visit to the USSR, I noted some obvious alterations of nature's own coloring. This trip, it is even more obvious, and one of the teachers at the beauticians' school on modern Kalinin Street said coloring now is taken for granted. Most of the products, he added, come from Poland or East Germany.

The fact there is an elite school to train both men and women in all phases of hairdressing is itself a beauty breakthrough for the average Muscovite.

It not only will mean more beauticians trained in the latest methods, but also an upgrading of styling and equipment, both of which by Western standards could stand a lot of improvement.

The school on Kalinin is a spaciousn two-story glass and concrete affair, where 140 men and women currently are enrolled. Enrollment in a six-month course is by competition; those with the most promise attend.

As a result, a woman who gets her hair done by one of the "students" pays a little more than the average salon charges because, as an assistant director explained, they're getting the "cream" of talent.

A shampoo and set costs one ruble 70 kopeks (about $1.75), a permanent is six rubles ($6.66), coloring three rubles 50 kopeks (about $3.75), and a manicure 60 kopeks (about 55 cents). There is no tipping.

In turn, I had shampoo and set in hotel shops for one ruble ($1.11), with a 30 kopek (about 25 cents) tip and the woman hairdresser did not refuse the tip although tipping still is just not a Soviet practice.

Any woman heading for the USSR usually is cautioned: take your own shampoo, curlers, comb and brush, and hair spray. Definitely yes, on the hair spray, for the aerosol age has not arrived and spray in the salons is applied from a bottle powered by a rubber squeeze bulb.

Don't bother with your own shampoo unless your hair needs special care. Soviet shampoos get the hair just as clean as American ones. Do take your own curlers, comb and brush, if you are particular about cleanliness. The salons I visited aren't sterlization conscious.

Teasing or back-combing is going out of style in the United States. It is "in" technique still in the USSR. There is no craze for hairpieces yet, although at the beauty school you'd see an occasional wiglet being attached.

TO PUBLISH ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING STORIES IN THE I-J

Forms for engagement and wedding story information to be printed in the Independent-Journal are available from the I-J offices in San Rafael, Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma.

Wedding forms should be returned promptly to the I-J office in your area and information will be printed immediately after the wedding. Photographers should be urged to submit a print of the wedding picture promptly. Color photographs cannot be used.

The Independent-Journal does not print wedding stories or photographs received more than seven days after the wedding.

An engagement form may be accompanied by a professional black and white photograph, which may be picked up at the I-J office after publication. Snapshots, polaroid or color pictures are not suitable.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

A Ten-Year Old Writes A Letter About Life With A Big Sister

DEAR HELEN:

I have four years to go before I'll be a teen-ager, so maybe you don't use stuff from kids who are almost 10, but I like to read your column, so I am going to write about my

Big Sister

A big sister is someone that you can pick on. And someone that you can't trust to keep secrets. When she's in a bad mood, she teases you and sometimes slaps you, but she also helps you with multiplication tables and makes cookies.

She gets you to talk to boys for her, and she'll ask you what they said about her. She'll try anything to look better, from green stuff that makes her face so stiff it cracks — and then she washes it off — to a drawerful of gunk she puts on afterwards. She keeps asking if she looks all right after she sets her hair or any corny thing she wastes time on. But you gotta admit she does, except you wouldn't tell her that.

Sometimes she comes out with dishes that are good, when she doesn't ruin them with mushrooms and wine. But she hates to wash dishes and, boy, does she use a lot.

She likes to wrestle with me even if I can beat her. Sometimes I let her win to make her feel better.

I guess a big sister is pretty okay. Anyway, if it wasn't for mine, I wouldn't have been able to write this. — A NICE BROTHER

DEAR BROTHER:

I use stuff from people of all ages — especially if they write good stuff like you do — H.

DEAR HELEN:

This may not be advice column stuff, but it will help a lot of kids in their social science and other class reports. These statistics, read by our minister not long ago, really shook me up. Did you know that:

If the three billion people in the world could be represented in a community of one hundred:

Six would be United States citizens; 94 would be citizens of other countries.

Six would own one-half of the money in the world; 94 would share the other half; of the 94, 20 would eventually own virtually all the remaining half.

Six would have 15 times more in material possessions than the other 94 put together.

Six have 72 per cent more than the average daily food requirements; two-thirds of the 94 would have below-minimum food standards, and many would be starving.

The life span of six would be over 70 years. The life span of 94 would be about 39 years.

Of the 94, 33 would come from countries where the Christian faith is taught. Of the 33, 24 would be Catholic and nine would be Protestant.

Less than one-half of the 94 would have heard the name of Christ, but the majority of the 94 would know of Lenin.

Among the 94 would be three communist documents which outsell the Bible.

By the year 2,000 one out of every two persons will be Chinese. — COLLEGE STUDENT

LITTLE PIGGY PROFIT

Mrs. Aubrey Howerton of Pudy, Mo., got tired of sitting around the house with little to do and less to spend when she retired from work in a small town store, so she took up pig farming. She and her carpenter husband now have 21 sows, seven gilt and two boars and are making good money selling them through the Missouri Farmers Association telephone auction sales.

Sam Levenson Defender Of Innocence In Society

NEW YORK (UPI)—Someone asked the little boy if he knew the difference between the sexes and he replied seriously:

"Of course I do. Women are the ones who dance backwards."

From this and other examples of the fresh and innocent view of life held by the young, Sam Levenson has drawn the theme of his book, "Sex and the Single Child," his first since his autobiography, "Everything But Money" made the best-seller charts a couple of years ago.

Levenson described his book in an interview as "a defense of innocence against the conscious pressure for sex in everything in our society."

"Unfortunately," he said," "we seem to be creating a world in which all innocence must be eliminated immediately because it is equated with ignorance. At the same time we are attacking the awe and wonder with which children have always learned about the world. Children instinctively avoid the scientific approach. They are more interested in creation—who am I?—than procreation.

"Believe me, at three he's already worried about immortality. He wants to know if 'they' sent him and 'they' take him back."

Levenson said the book represents years of thought on the subject.

"What happens between two people should be love, not sex. I think a child who believes in God has a very good start. He has a feeling that comes from eternity, a feeling of the universality of life—and not an obsession with the plumbing. We used to say 'what's your hurry to grow up?' Now we pressure cook our children into maturity."

Levenson said sex was a three-letter word into which people were trying to put too many four-letter words. For this he blames "the intellectuals" wildly theorizing as though humans were a brand new species.

"My own introduction to a new brother or sister were the words 'move over' from my father. What's wrong with that?"

Quick Party

Holiday hospitality is easier to extend when you keep convenient foods, such as a variety of cheeses on hand. Arrange cookies and fruit cake attractively on a tray and your guests will feel your warm welcome. If there is need for a heartier snack, a cheese tray can be quickly assembled. To make it more decorative, Cheddar, Brick or Provolone can be cut with cookie cutters into shapes symbolic of the holiday. Serve the cheese with any of the multitude of asserted crackers.

Bosom Kit Has Make-Up For The New, Nude Look

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeature

Now, it's rouge for the bosom.

Kenneth, the well-known hairdresser, has come up with this piece de resistance in make-up.

"I got the idea when I was reading a novel about the Caribbean in the 19th century and it told how women rouged their bosoms," he says. "Some put water in front so that the rouge could be seen through the dresses. This became so popular that a lot of women died of pneumonia."

Kenneth advises you to avoid the water bit.

"At first, women may wear it in private," he says. "But I think public nudity is upon us. It is in the theater, it is in the books we read. Everybody is body-conscious and newsstands are loaded with books and magazines that promote the idea. And let's face it this is a very bosom-conscouus nation."

His new bosom kit contains three products — one to brush on in the way you shade and highlight your face, neck and legs.

There is a gleamer that is used with the fingers, and something called "tip rouge." It would have delighted the burlesque queens of long ago.

Kenneth had no trouble finding "fairly bare dresses" for models who exhibited the bosom make-up at a show for 200 fashion editors who were in New York for the Couture Group's fall and winter showings.

What did they think of it?

"I don't think anyone got terribly upset over it," he says. "The most amazing thing was that some people assured me that they couldn't wait to use it."

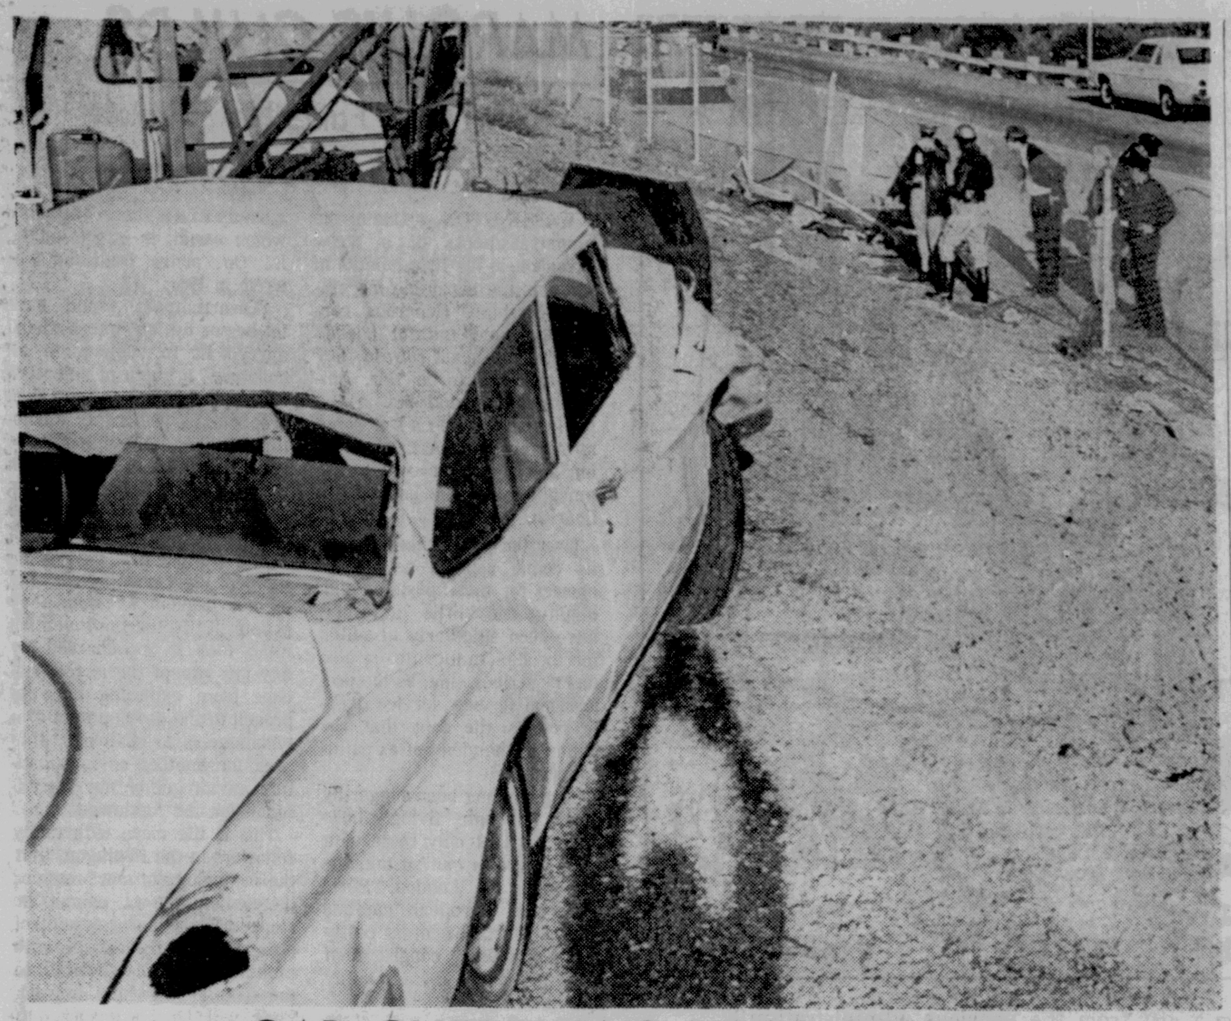
THIRD SECTION — SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1969 — 17



CAR OVERTURNS NEAR BRIDGE

A mother and her 2-month-old son were injured about 9 a.m. today when this car overturned and crashed into a fence on Highway 17, west of the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge. California Highway Patrol officers inspect the damaged fence. The woman, Valerie L. Ascencio, 19, of 216B Bodega Avenue, Petaluma, was admitted to Marin General Hospital for observation after treatment of a severe scalp cut. Her son, Brent, was treated for a scalp abrasion. The child was thrown from the car. (Independent-Journal photo)

Twin-Tower Design Upsets Planners

A $2.5 million office building, with seven-story towers overlooking the Civic Center, drew mixed reactions from Marin County planning commissioners last night.

The commissioners deadlocked 3 to 3 on Margaret Azevedo's motion requesting the San Rafael City Planning Commission to call for redesign of the building before it is approved.

Voting with Mrs. Azevedo were Hugh Dougherty and chairman Michael Praszker. Opposed were Niels Schultz Jr., Walter F. Freitas and Jack G. Nixon. Eugene R. Trombley had left by the time it came to a vote about 7 p.m.

The large structure, to be built by American Pacific Life Insurance Co., of San Francisco, will be located on a six-acre hill immediately north of the new Veterans Memorial Auditorium. The land is within the area newly annexed to the City of San Rafael. The San Rafael Planning Commission has scheduled a hearing on the project tomorrow night.

Gilbert Oliver of San Francisco, architect for the developer, presented plans showing a long horizontal block of three stories sitting at the side of the hill, with two seven-story towers in the center, facing the Civic Center.

"This hill forms one of the natural backdrops of the Civic Center site," said Werner von Gundell, chief of current planning. "It should be as unobtrusive as possible."

"Why should this be less unobtrusive than the Civic Center?" asked Niels Schultz Jr. "The Civic Center has a vertical element and this has a vertical element. I see no conflict."

The towers will be 90 feet tall, but the entire building sits on a plateau about 90 feet above Highway 101 and will be hidded from highway view, said Oliver.

Gross floor area will be 90,000 square feet, and three levels of parking will be provided on a flat area on top of the hill.

"The intent of Frank Lloyd Wright was to build in the valleys and to keep the hilltops intact," said Praszker. "This sort of tops the hill and dominates . . . Isn't there any way you can switch things around and let the natural surroundings dominate?"

Oliver said the building covers only 11 per cent of the six acres, and its corners are rounded to lessen the impact on surroundings.

"If the county doesn't want somebody to build a building not to its liking, let the county go out and buy it," said Freitas. "To tell people you have to build to conform to our style is unfriendly and unneighborly . . . I'm not in favor of telling San Rafael to change the design. I don't think we should meddle."

"This is what I might call a brash building," observed Mrs. Azevedo. "I'd like to see the commission recommend a redesign. In fact I move it."

When the vote deadlocked 3 to 3, the commissioners decided that a report on the split vote be sent to the San Rafael Planning Commission.

"I don't think the building is atrocious or bad," concluded Praszker. "I just prefer less domination of the hills."

North Marin Homeowners Urge Moratorium On Mobile Homes

North Marin homeowners yesterday demanded a moratorium on mobile home construction in their area because 10 per cent of the population is already in mobile homes, and such homeowners "do not pay their fair share of taxes."

Arnold Baptiste, president of the North Marin Federation of Homeowners, made the plea before the Marin County Planning Commission.

Planning commissioners agreed that some tax inequity exists but decided not to take immediate action until further study.

On a motion by Hugh Dougherty, commissioners continued the matter until some future meeting and asked County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker to draft an interim ordinance that would put the brakes on mobile homes until studies can determine the extent of economic drain caused by mobile homes.

Dougherty urged immediate action against mobile homes, but other commissioners asked for more time. Dougherty wanted to ask the Marin County Board of Supervisors to include in its 1970 legislative program these two points:

Abolish in lieu taxes on mobile homes, which are at present classified as vehicles, and impose the same ad valorem tax levied on conventional homes.

Slow down in some fashion the further proliferation of mobile home parks.

Chairman Michael Praszker suggested a one-year moratorium on mobile homes to give the county time to determine the impact of mobile homes on the community.

Praszker declared that the classification of mobile homes as vehicles is subterfuge and hypocrisy. "They're houses with tires painted on them. There's no doubt it's subterfuge."

Niels Schultz Jr. objected to a moratorium as arbitrary. "I'm opposed to the inequity in taxation but I don't think we should plunge in on a single party discussion and ban mobile homes for any length of time."

"Give me one reason why a childless person in a dilapidated home should be made to pay more taxes than a person in a mobile home with tires painted on them," demanded Praszker.

Margaret Azevedo said she favors an interim ordinance to slow down mobile homes "because it would then oblige us to study the information provided by the North Marin Federation."

Baptiste compared taxes now paid by a mobile home, assuming a value of $18,000, and a conventional single family home with a value of $28,500. The mobile home pays $275 while the conventional homes is slapped with a $816 tax, he declared.

"We already have 1,000 mobile homes approved," said Baptiste. "Now Kenney (John Kenney of Alameda Homes Corp.) would add 1,800 more mobile homes. If that park (at Black Point) becomes family oriented, the annual school deficit would be $300,000. Compare that deficit with the total city budget supported by local property taxes of $450,000!"

He estimated that the 1,000 mobile homes approved would account for 4,000 to 4,500 population, or 10 per cent of the total population of Novato. "If the Kenney project goes in, we may end up with 20 per cent of the population in mobile homes. Then, I think I'll move into a mobile home!"

For every $3 in overall tax paid by the conventional homeowner, the mobile homeowner pays only $1, said Baptiste. For every $3.50 in school tax paid by a conventional homeowner, only $1 is paid by a mobile home.

He charged that the mobile homeowner in Novato will not pay one penny in taxes to the Novato Fire District, Novato Sanitary District, North Marin Water District, County Library District, Marin Junior College District, Novato Flood Control Zone, Mosquito Abatement District, Air Pollution District, etc.

"Nonetheless, mobile homeowners can vote on all tax and bond issues and for elected officials of these special districts," Baptiste declared.

Spirit Week Shifts Goals At Tam High

Casting aside the old name of "spirit week," Tamalpais High School launched "together week" yesterday in an attempt, according to its backers, to get the students "involved with one another."

The homecoming week, to be climaxed with a football game and dance Saturday, was kicked off with a general assembly yesterday and the school's homecoming parade from Old Mill Park down Miller Avenue to the school and a dance last night.

Joseph Petterle, director of student activities, said the week's activities are designed to "make the student body more tolerant of each other."

He characterized the high school as a gathering place that "uniquely lends itself to divisiveness" because of the widely differing backgrounds of students. Adding to this this year, he said, is the high feeling about this weekend's antiwar moratorium activities.

Although traditional homecoming week activities are scheduled, Petterle said some new "get it all together" activities are also on tap.

The schedule for the week includes: a "share a flower with a friend day" tomorrow; "depression day" on Thursday featuring an extended lunch period with soup lines on the front lawn of the school; homecoming queen election Thursday; "string pickers say" Friday with students invited to "bring your own instrument and share your thing."

The football game with Novato is at Tam High at 1:30 p.m. Saturday and the homecoming dance is at 8 p.m. Saturday at Ruby Scott auditorium.

Remodeling Sought

The San Anselmo Design Review Committee will consider an application by Senor Alfredo Restaurant, 115 San Aselmo Avenue, for exterior remodeling when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow at city hall.

Concern Grows Over Marin Strip-Mining

The Marin County Planning Commission yesterday called for legal research to see what can be done to control strip-mining which has scarred about 20 acres in northwest Marin.

Request for action came last night from Harold E. Gregg, president of the Marin Conservation League, who showed colored slides of strip-mining operation by Butte Gas and Oil Co., on the A.R. Gambonini Ranch on Marshall-Petaluma Road.

"We are concerned that Salmon Creek will be silted, that Tomales Bay will be silted, and that the people of Marin will be required to pay for dredging and restoration," said Gregg.

By 1980, said Gregg, the United States Department of Interior estimates that five million acres will have been laid bare by strip-mining in the United States. "Imagine all of Rhode Island, all of Connecticut and all of Delaware made completely barren of topsoil, with all their foilage gone, all their wildlife gone, and all their streams polluted."

"I do think we have the obligation to set up rules so that Humpty Dumpty can be put back together," said Commissioner Hugh Dougherty. He suggested that the county counsel research the law to see what controls can be imposed.

"I'm for that," seconded Margaret Azevedo. All other commissioners agreed.

Marin County Planning Commission Also:

Santa Venetia, at the corner of North San Pedro Road and Merriam Drive. On a motion by Walter F. Freitas, the commissioners gave unanimous approval, despite objections from residents that 26 units would create too much density.

ANNEXATION — Continued until Nov. 24 a discussion of a proposed county policy to encourage annexation of county land to cities through restrictive zoning. Several commissioners said they are opposed to restrictive zoning for the sole purpose of coercing annexation.

PROTECT TIDELANDS — Asked the public works and the planning departments to thrash out the wording of a new ordinance to control building and filling on all tidal waterways, listing any differences they cannot iron out. One of the controversies is a definition of tidal waterways — whether it should include all land below an elevation of 7.5 feet or 12.5 feet above mean lower low water.

MARINVIEW — Asked the county planning staff and Allan-Marin Co., to try for a compromise on whether or not sidewalks should be required in Marinview Unit 1 in Tennessee Valley. Kenneth A. Frost, engineer for the developer, declared that plans for the subdivision were approved without sidewalks, but Planner Werner Von Gundell said the project would not have been approved had he known sidewalks were missing.

SHELL SIGN — Permitted Manuel Angeja, who operates a Shell service station at 789 Redwood Highway, Strawberry Shopping Center, to withdraw his request for a portable free standing sign to advertise gasoline prices. Shell officials said they would apply for a permanent sign housed in a redwood container with roof on top so that it would blend with the surroundings.

DUPLEX — Granted Rose S. Paul 26 units of duplex apartments on 2.5 acres of land in

Herkenhoff Future Still Not Decided

No decision was reached last night by the Marin Junior College District board in a closed meeting on the release of Louis H. Herkenhoff as acting superintendent-president, board president Robert E. Rogers reported.

Herkenhoff, whose contract runs until June, 1970, will be succeeded by John A. Grasham, possibly as early as January. Herkenhoff's contract says the board is to determine his assignment after a permanent superintendent is hired, Rogers said.

Herkenhoff's future position probably will be discussed at the Nov. 22 board meeting, Rogers said.

Shelter Ridge Development Wins Nod

The Shelter Ridge development of 453 townhouses, apartments and some single family homes, was approved unanimously last night by the Mill Valley Planning Commission, Planning Director Harvey E. Bragdon reported.

Bragdon said the commission called for further study of 80 units of proposed moderate housing to be constructed on the lower eastern slope of the ridge behind Goodman's Lumber Co. on Highway 101.

Developer Warner C. Odenthal was asked to investigate various construction methods which would be eligible for federal low cost housing funding, Bragdon said.

Odenthal's architect, Charles Warren Callister of Tiburon, said the moderate priced apartments could be constructed in modular units. to provide a variety of interior arrangements at a low cost.

Bragdon said the oveeall density for the 73 acre project is 40 units less than approved by the city council several months ago. The development will be located on the ridge mainly on the east side of the ridge between Highway 101 and Enchanted Knolls.

The commission also directed that the two acres behind Goodman's Lumber Co. be rezoned to commerical to make it more compatible with the existing strip zoning.

A change in density for the 26 acre Alto Bowl development from three to 5.4 units per acre was approved also by the commission, Bragdon said.

Final action on the density change will come Dec. 8, Bragdon noted, when a master plan calling for clustered apartments at the base of the bowl, informally approved last night, will receive final approval. The plan calls for the hillsides to be left undeveloped, he said.

Suspect Arrested In Forgery Probe

An 18-year-old Novato Man, who tried to cash a $15 check signed by a person who had been dead for a year, was arrested at 11:30 a.m. yesterday on suspicion of possession of a forged document, police reported.

Released on his own recognaisance from Marin County Jail was Valient G. Nims III of 94 Washington Street. He is scheduled to appear Monday in Marin Municipal Court.

No Charge Filed In Fence Dispute

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against two fueding Tiburon neighbors who were arrested Sunday on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon after a fight over a property line.

Freed were Nathaniel Marans, 51, of 2312 Sapnish Trail Road, and James L. Green, 49, of 2300 Vista Delmar Lane.

Sheriff's deputies said the men placed each other under citizen's arrest and called authorities after the fight in which Green allegedly used a fence post and Marans reportedly wielded garden clippers.

Hub Forgery Suspect Denies Count In Court

LeRoy Raymond Willey, 38, of San Anselmo, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of forging a check Sept. 21.

A preliminary hearing was set for next Tuesday.

Something Really New In Children's Education

This is National Education Week, and it has been chosen appropriately for launching a major experiment in teaching pre-school youngsters via television.

The program is called "Sesame Street." It is produced by the Children's Television Workshop, affiliated with National Education Television, and funded by the U.S. Office of Education and Office of Economic Opportunity plus the Ford Foundation, Carnegie Corp., Learning Resources Institute, and Corp. for Public Broadcasting. It started yesterday on 179 educational television stations, including KQED in San Francisco (channel 9), which airs it from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

"SESAME STREET" is a street in a big city. An assortment of people — including children — live on it, and it is visited by story tellers, "muppets," clowns, and other assorted characters who enter into the activities with the children.

Besides showing what happens on "Sesame Street," the program employs animated cartoons to give children some painless — and, its producers hope, entertaining — instruction in the alphabet, simple words, etc., prior to their entering school.

It is an experiment. If it works, we may expect to see much wider use of television for home instruction of youngsters. The educational TV stations, which up to now have carried a few programs shown in classrooms plus evening "talk shows," "panel shows", travelogues and occasional musical and dramatic productions for adults, will have a much-expanded role.

IF IT SUCCEEDS, "Sesame Street" may also lead educational TV into other programs for older children, designed to educate at the same time as they entertain.

It may supplement or it may even supplant such early-education programs as "Head Start."

It may do quite a few things to change the education — and the entertainment — of children.

The very least it can be expected to do is to furnish the youngsters not yet in school with something better to watch than the few daytime children's shows that have been offered so far by commercial television.

EVEN THOSE who have no young children may want to have a look at "Sesame Street" to see what kind of program it is, and form their own conclusions as to what results it may bring.

There is seldom anything really new in education. Most of the changes consist of reverting to something that has been tried and discarded but is revived in slightly different form. This, however, looks like something really new. Its effects could be far-reaching.

Next Campaign: Save Our Ocean

Many conservation-minded Marinites who recently were mobilized in the "Save Our Bay" campaign might do well to begin laying the groundwork for an international "Save Our Pacific" campaign. And if anyone thinks we are kidding, let him guess again.

For too long man has regarded the ocean's vastness as a kind of magic, self-purifying garbage pail into which he could throw all his waste and it would disappear. "A drop in the ocean" is a favorite cliche. And the idea that the oceans are going to continue to accept tons and tons of sewage, pesticides, detergents, petroleum, salts, acids, erosion silt, heat and radioactive substances without protesting is cliched thinking.

No one can say for certain what this drastic altering of the ocean will result in. Probably fewer fish for the world's hungry millions will be one result. Already, the Bureau of Fisheries reports that the haddock catch off New England is only a fifth of what it was in 1963. Pollution is thought to be one of the reasons.

We need to abandon the magic, self-purifying garbage pail concept of the ocean and make some realistic studies to find out where we are heading.

GOLDEN GATE VIEW

Couple Of Democrats Eye Race Against 'Invincible' McCarthy

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Marin's moribund Democratic Party may see some life yet in the coming contest for the Fourth Senatorial District seat held by Republican John F. McCarthy.

Even Democrats have tended to assume that the only significant struggle for the seat would come in the Republican primary. But the old rule that one party's bloody primary helps the other party's nominee in the general election may get a real test this time.

IGNORING the prospective candidate's usual coy blush is Richard M. Adams of Belvedere, 39-year-old attorney, businessman, member of the Marin County Democratic Central Committee, and — for a little political sex appeal — formerly an employee of the Central Intelligence Agency.

His first problem will be to confront the usual response to his candidacy-on-the-brink: "Who?" He has lived in Marin for 11 years, but is not well known within the county. Most of his work has been in San Francisco, especially in federally assisted housing.

It has been some time since a strong candidate has been found by the Democrats around here, and Adams is testing his ability to convince them that he can be the man. He reportedly has been busy lining up an organization and money, which can't be said of many other Democrats.

Adam's professional work has varied from legal counsel for California Development Co. in Marin City. (which won't do him much good either there or elsewhere in the three-county district) to founder of the corporation developing the $250 million community of Rossmoor in Walnut Creek.

ALSO HEARD scratching about for support of a possible Democratic candidacy for the senatorial contest is Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael. Formerly research director with the California Labor Federation, he now is with the University of California.

Peevey made news some time ago when he helped spearhead a successful citizen campaign to stop plans for a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge.

Meanwhile, back at the GOP an SOS was heard. . .

ARE YOU COUGHING even though you gave up smoking? Maybe it's the air.

Well, here's something you can do with your last gasps: help a citizens campaign to force effective state control of air pollution. Mrs. E. P. Franklin of Fairfax is Marin chairman of the statewide drive to gather initiative petition signatures, and the deadline is Nov. 26.

Even if the campaign failed to get its tough, complicated measures on the 1970 ballot, it well may light a fire under the legislature to step up its pressure on the internal combustion engine and on industrial polluters.

You'll be doing your share after Dec. 31 by finding some way of getting rid of rubbish other than by backyard burning, so let's make the bandwagon big enough for Detroit and industry.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Discrimination In Letters Charged

I cannot help but notice the obvious discrimination on the part of the Independent-Journal with regard to its "Letters to the Editor."

When I took the effort to write a letter in regards to the Humane Society situation, I could hardly recognize the "edited" copy the I-J printed — yet, in the Nov. 6 edition of your newspaper, I noticed the lengthy letter printed from Mr. (Abe) Blumenfield, of the theater chain, demonstrating that size is not the reason.

If your paper boasts to be so "family" and "local", why is it that you destroy a reader's commentary? I can hardly wait to see what this letter looks like in your paper after it is edited.

Search For Former Residents Assisted

Your issue of Sept. 30 carried the story of our search for two former residents of Marin County. One was William E. Leibing once of Sausalito and the other Thomas O'Connor a former resident of San Rafael.

The reader reaction to the article brought several hundred letters within a week. It seemed that many were former friends, neighbors and others who believed they knew one of the sought people. Other letters came from readers who found old yellowed stock certificates that were lying around their homes for many years and asked that we determine if the old paper had any cash surrender value. The latter assignment will take several weeks to complete and our long experience has shown that some 15 to 20 per cent will turn into real hard cash.

After checking the leads offered by your readers we have finally established that Mr. Liebing left Sausalito in 1934 and now resides in Victoria, B.C. We have this day written to him. As for O'Connor, we have followed many leads to a conclusion and found several Thomas O'Connors' but they are not the one we are seeking . . .

A Way To Cut Down On Crime

We have lived in Phoenix, Ariz., for the past 13 years, but my wife had to move to California for health reasons and residing in the Fairfax area, we are appalled at the number of burglaries, car thefts and other crimes in the Marin County area.

Perhaps it is noticed more in a smaller city than a larger one. Phoenix had the same problem but came up with an answer about thee years ago. They put into effect Operation Crime Stop which cut this type of crime rate about 50 per cent. The radio, TV stations advertised a special police number over the air and the banks gave out special coin and key chains with this number on them. If a person saw something suspicious they just called in and were not required to leave their name or address unless they wanted to . . . They wanted to get the people interested in their neighbor's activities by this type of advertising. It sure worked . . .

Something like this could be put into effective force in the Marin County or even all of Northern California. If you feel there is some merit in the plan I am sure the Phoenix Chamber of Commerce would be more than willing to give you more detail and the results.

Nursing Program Must Have Funds

It has come to the attention of the alumni association that due to the defeat of one of our recent bond issues, the registered nursing program at the College of Marin does not have adequate funds available to maintain its membership in the National League of Nursing's Council of associate degree programs.

It would be most unfortunate if we allowed our membership to lapse for several reasons as we derive many benefits from such an alliance . . .

As a member of the first graduating class, I remember how excited and interested the community was about a nursing program which was available, not just to graduating high school students, but men and women of all ages in the county. Students didn't have to commute to San Francisco to classes as we utilized hospitals in Marin for field work . . .

A great majority of the graduates from College of Marin have stayed in the county and have helped meet the local need for qualifed nursing personnel.

I feel the residents of Marin have received as many beneits from the program as the graduates. I would like to see the community become as enthused about the financial problems which now exist for the nursing program as they were about its inception.

The nursing program has graduated three classes. An alumni association has recently been formed. We are a young association but an active one. The alumni is now starting a financial drive to help raise the necessary funds which would have been available if the bond issue had not gone down to defeat. We need your help!

Contributions may be sent to: Department of Nursing Education, C/O Alumni Association, College of Marin, Kentfield, Calif.

Pollution Linked To Vietnam War

If anything was made crystal clear at the College of Marin three-day symposium on the earth's environment, it is that the problems of pollution and destruction of our natural resources, coupled with exploding populations, are at a crisis point.

Indeed, in addition to all the other reasons for getting out of Vietnam and addressing ourselves to man's and this planet's survival, this conclusion can be drawn: As long as this tragic war continues, we are like children squabbling over sandcastles at the beach, while behind them the ocean rises in a tide that will sweep away both them and their prizes.

If we do not, and quickly, learn to use our knowledge with wisdom, we may well be driven from this Garden of Eden, this once green and lavish earth, by the inexorable consequences of our own stupidity.

Youngsters Write To Save Seashore

I think it is significant that some youngsters while learning about convervation and our form of government in Mr. Robert Goldstein's fifth grade class at Tamalpais Valley School, are writing letters to the President and to members of Congress in response to the urgent necessity to preserve Point Reyes as a National Park. . .

We hope that others who wish to preserve this priceless seashore will also write our representatives urging them to purchase it.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Nov. 11, 1959

A 70-year-old San Rafael man suffered a broken hip when a golf cart went down a 150-foot embankment, across a ditch and through a fence before it spilled him out.

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 11, 1949

Nearly 1,000 Marin residents attended Armistice Day ceremonies in Mill Valley, marking the 31st anniversary of the close of World War I — "the war to end wars."

Canada revealed it was building a huge radar system which would give warning against possible air attack on big cities and other vital targets.

Nixon May Face New Revolt Over Choice Of Ambassador

WASHINGTON — One of the embarrassments of a new president in his first months in office is the scramble for ambassadorships. Generous contributors and faithful friends feel that the least reward they can expect is to be "Mr. Ambassador" — and not in the sweltering capital of some struggling new African state but in Europe where the amenities and the honors still flourish.

Over the years this has had its comic aspects as certain choices for these posts of high dignity and little influence have been singularly ill suited for the diplomatic life. It also has its serious side, as the professional foreign service deeply resents the fact that the plums are handed out as political rewards.

Congress has been niggardly about adequate living allowances, so that only those with private wealth can sustain the embassies in London, Paris and other European capitals where entertainment is costly and junketing congressmen drop in for free meals at any and all times.

MR. NIXON is having his troubles in this department. The theory is that a president is privileged to pick his own ambassadors since there is a certain personal as well as official relationship between the chief executive and his legate. With very few exceptions, this precedent has been respected.

The president last Aug. 5 sent a nomination to the Senate that has lain queitly in the recesses of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee ever since. And if chairman J. William Fulbright has his way it will stay there.

For ambassador to Morocco, Mr. Nixon nominated Robert Strausz-Hupe, director of the Foreign Policy Research Institute at the University of Pennsylvania. Born in Vienna, Austria, in 1903 and naturalized in 1938, Strausz-Hupe is a passionate cold war warrior. He believes in a "protracted conflict," the title of one of his books, with the Soviet Union, and the concept of coexistence he regards as a deadly trap.

THE STAFF of the foreign relations committee has prepared a dossier on Strausz-Hupe covering some of his more far-out positions. He opposed the nuclear nonproliferation treaty and testified that he would be for the limited test-ban treaty only if conditions were attached which would, in effect, nullify it. On arms limitation he wrote in 1965:

"Disarmament would have to begin by an international agreement to subject, in all countries, a quota of scientists and technologists to surgical prophylaxis, preferably lobotomy. If there is anything to be learned from the Washington treaty on the limitation of naval armament and from the Geneva negotiations in the interwar period, it is that disarmament agreements not only do not prevent evasion, they prompt it. To tell the inventive mind that it is debarred by any law except the law of science from exploring one approach to the development of a technique is to challenge it to seek for another or to substitute an altogether novel technique for the 'outlawed' one."

This is the view, with many followers in the Pentagon, that the technology of new weapons development cannot be stopped. It is the argument of those pushing the missile with multiple warheads (MIRV) to the testing stage and beyond. They will be an unseen but powerful force opposing any agreed moratorium on MIRV with the Soviet Union as the strategic arms limitation talks begin in Helsinki.

Strausz-Hupe's foreign policy institute came out with a book, "Safeguard: Why the ABM Makes Sense," strongly backing the administration's policy on deploying the anti-ballistic missile.

THE AMBASSADOR to Morocco is unlikely to exert any great influence on American policy. Yet the larger question of the selection of qualified men with diplomatic experience remains. When the President named Walter Annenberg, the Philadelphia publisher and one of the most-valued clients of the Nixon law firm, to be ambassador to Britain a muffled outcry arose from the professionals and those who look on the court of St. James as the star on the top of the diplomatic tree.

Not until there is a frontal attack on the system itself will the Foreign Service and the State Department be equipped to do a thorough professional job. So far as the outsider can tell, the present administration is simply drifting with the current of the past, and anguished cries come out of Foggy Bottom of demoralization and disarray.

Common Market Nations Face Decisions On Future

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

On Nov. 17-18 leaders of six West European nations will meet at The Hague to draw up a balance sheet on a grave new world they entered 12 years ago and to decide where they go from here.

They are France, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg, members of the European Common Market that came into being on March 25, 1957.

IN THE BEGINNING, the market itself was seen only as an interim step on a path which would end not only in economic unity but political unity as well, a United States of Europe with a population of 300 million.

The dream of political unity faded quickly and today is held by a comparative few.

But as an economic union it had fantastic success and its members entered upon an era of prosperity greater than any they had known before.

A 12-year transitional period was to provide total agreement on subjects ranging from abolition of tariffs to free movement of labor and from atomic energy to money and agriculture.

On Dec. 31 the transition period comes to an end with deep fissures appearing.

THE MARKET has been split on issues of nationalism as exemplified by Charles de Gaulle.

There has been no agreement on agriculture. When France and West Germany respectively devalued and revalued their currencies, neither followed the rules of advance notice and consultation.

The market has stalled on dead center and even now could disintegrate.

Britain, barred twice from the Common Market, is losing interest in achieving membership.

The British, enjoying a favorable trade balance for the first time in many years, are gaining new confidence that they can go it alone.

The European Free Trade Association which Britain sponsored has enjoyed economic success almost equal to the Common Market.

Can Collegians Learn To Live With Townfolk, And Vice Versa?

The theories of the generation gap and communication gap are far outshadowed by the value gap between Sonoma State College students and residents of Rohnert Park.

As shown at a joint meeting two weeks ago, the diverse groups can get together and talk, but deep down there are large differences that will be hard to overcome.

Students usually shun the suburban community and reject the life style of the commuters with 3.2 children, 1.8 cars and a 25-year-mortgage on their tract homes.

Since the college found its permanent home on East Cotati Avenue, the mailing address has been Rohnert Park, although the campus property actually lies in an unincorporated area. The mere postmark association with Rohnert Park has caused some members of the associated students to complain and propose the mailing address be changed to Cotati.

While the students seem to feel more at home in the rural setting of Cotati, the stark, white concrete college buildings blend better with the modern city.

WHETHER THE FEELING of admiration is mutual in Cotati remains to be seen. A resolution changing the names of the main thoroughfares, East Cotati Avenue and West Sierra Avenue, received mixed reactions from the city planning commission and is due to meet public opposition before the city council on Dec. 4.

City officials and developers in Rohnert Park took the leadership seven years ago in locating the college nearby, but students cringe when individuals vie for personal credit.

Cotati businessmen, who include many students, are generally more respectful and friendly toward the collegians. In Rohnert Park, the students still have difficulty cashing checks and many have charged apartment owners with discrimination by banning hippies as tenants.

For the most part, students have tied the image of Rohnert Park as being filled with money-hungry developers and landlords while the slow-paced Cotatians seem more akin to the new student culture which allows everyone to do his own thing.

ROHNERT PARK city council effort to promote better understanding, but admit to many frustrations. At the joint meetings called in the past several years, students with different complaints appeared at each session, preventing any continuity in discussion of the development of trust.

Dr. Warren E. Tappin, dean of students and unofficial liaison between the students and city, sees promoting greater understanding as an important goal.

As he so aptly put it at the close of the latest session, "If we don't grow together, we'll grow apart. But one thing's for sure, we're both going to grow."

Early-Day Atom Scientist Dies

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Harrison M. Randall, 98, a pioneer physicist whose work in the early part of the century contributed to the theory of atomic structure, died yesterday.

He broke a hip in a fall at his home a month ago and had been at University Hospital in Ann Arbor where he underwent surgery.

He was a specialist in infrared spectroscopy. In 1940, the year he retired, Randall became the first University of Michigan professor to have a building named after him.

After his retirement as a U. M. professor, Randall became active in the study of bacteriolgy.

30 Days In Jail Plus Fine Of $150

Clayton Blackmore, 37-year-old Corte Madera carpenter who was convicted last month by a Marin Superior Court Jury of selling a small quantity of hashish to a narcotics agent in February 1968, yesterday was ordered to spend 30 days in jail.

Judge E. Warren McGuire also placed Blackmore on one-year probation and fined him $150.

Energetic Burglar Takes Top Of Dryer

An energetic burglar last week stole the entire top of a clothes dryer in order to get the attached coin box from the laundry room at 1563 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

The amount of money in the box is unknown, but it will cost more than $30 to replace the dryer lid, they said.

How Did President Nixon Get All Those Telegrams So Quickly?

WASHINGTON — The most interesting thing to me as far as President Nixon's speech on Vietnam went, was to see the large stacks of Western Union telegrams on his desk in the White House. The President called in the press, news and TV photographers to prove he had the vast support of the American people the day after he made his speech.

What surprised me was how President Nixon got the telegrams so fast. Anyone who has dealt with Western Union in the last few years knows that sending a telegram via Western Union is no problem — it's getting them to deliver the telegrams that takes a bit of doing.

THIS IS HOW the conversation usually goes:

"I'd like to send a telegram."

"What is the party's name and telephone number?"

"What do you want to know his telephone number for?"

"So we can phone the message to him."

"Look, if I wanted to phone him, I'd call him myself. I want to send a telegram."

"What we do is call your party and then mail him the telegram. He should have the wire in a few days."

"If I wanted to write him, I'd send him a letter. I want to send a telegram, and I want it delivered to him."

"Well, why didn't you say so? We'll deliver it for you for an extra 75 cents charge, above the cost of the telegram."

NOW, I'M NOT attacking the Western Union Co. for trying to make the delivery of a telegram a profitable business. The snappy WU boy of yesteryear, dressed in his uniform, is a thing of the past; and WU probably makes more money selling candygrams than telegrams.

All I'm doing is raising the question of how President Nixon managed to get Western Union to deliver the telegrams on the same day without making the sender pay the extra 75 cents.

What probably happened was that right after the President's speech, he received a phone call.

"IS THIS President Nixon?"

"Yes, it is."

"What is your first name, please?"

"Richard — the middle initial is M."

"We have a telegram for you. May I read it?"

"Yes, go ahead."

"'Wholeheartedly support your wonderful speech, which laid it on the line and gave courage to the Great Silent Majority. Keep socking it to them.'"

"That's wonderful. Who signed it?"

"It's signed Julie and David."

THE PRESIDENT hung up and the phone rang again.

"President Nixon? We have a telegram for you."

"Read it."

"'You certainly took care of the effete snobs and bad apples. My prayers are with you. Love — Spiro.'"

All night long the phone kept ringing and either the President, Mrs. Nixon or Tricia has to write down the messages. They were groggy at breakfast, and finally the President realized he wasn't going to get any work done. So he called a meeting of the National Security Council and it was suggested that the attorney general ask Western Union if they might deliver the telegrams to the White House instead of phoning them in, despite the fact that most senders had not paid the extra 75 cents.

WESTERN UNION, in a wave of patriotism, agreed to the request, on the condition that the President wouldn't tell anyone that he was getting his telegrams on the same day without payment of an extra fee.

The President agreed, but he was so overwhelmed by the nember of wires he received that he forgot his promise and called in the press. Now Western Union is in a helluva jam because the Great Silent Majority has suddenly discovered it can send a telegram and have it delivered on the same day without paying 75 cents.

It's the first break the Great Silent Majority has had in years.

Fewer Make Journey Into Golden State

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Fewer people followed their dreams or their jobs to California last year than in any year since 1948.

State Finance Department experts estimated yesterday that in the bookkeeping year ended last June 30, the population went up only 1.5 per cent.

That included a migration from out of state of 105,000, the lowest since the estimated 82,000 of 1948.

The experts put the number of residents at 19,856,000 as of July 1, and said that should push the state to 20 million population between next January and April.

However, they said the trend toward a smaller and smaller number of immigrants which began in 1964 still continues. At the same time, a decline in births which began in 1962 reversed last year.

The eight counties making up Southern California now have 58.4 per cent of the entire population, up 1 per cent. The nine San Francisco Bay Area counties remained stable at about 23 per cent.

Five counties number more than one million — Los Angeles, Alameda, Orange, San Diego and Santa Clara.

Orange registered the biggest numerical jump in the last year, 59,800, but among major counties the most sizable growth rate came in Ventura, up nearly 5 per cent in one year.

Little Mono County zoomed 15.6 per cent by picking up 700 new residents, for a total of 5,200.

Alpine remained at the bottom of the estimates with an unchanged 500 residents, while others not recording changes were Mariposa and Plumas.

Loss of residents was tallied in Modoc, San Francisco, Trinity, Butte, Glenn, Kings, San Luis Obispo, Sierra and Solano counties.

The experts said 11 counties account for more than 80 per cent of California growth since 1960. They are Los Angeles, Orange, Santa Clara, San Diego, San Bernardino, Ventura, Contra Costa, Alameda, Riverside, Sacramento and San Mateo.

Education-Work Conclave Slated

A luncheon conference to discuss ways of closing the gap between education and the world of work will be held Thursday noon at Sabella's Restaurant, 555 Redwood Highway, Mill Valley.

The no-host luncheon has been planned by Edward W. Bullard, Sausalito manufacturer, "to discuss the problems and find solutions."

Donald P. Krotz, vice president of the Chevron Research Co., and president of the Northern California Industry-Education Council and Virgil S. Hollis, Marin County superintendent of schools, have been asked to speak at the conference, which is open to the public.

120—New Cars For Sale

Buying Your New Car In Marin COSTS YOU LESS!

Here's Why

1. You KNOW your local dealer. He's been in business in Marin for a long time — and will continue to be.
2. Cost of doing business is lower in Marin than in San Francisco.
3. Sales tax is less in Marin than "ACROSS THE BRIDGE."
4. Service is local — from the dealer you KNOW.

DOCTORS, NURSES VOLUNTEER

Free Clinic Spots Marin City Youngster's Seeing Troubles

By PAT ANGLE

A 10-year-old Marin City boy who hated school has started to enjoy his classes because, for the first time, he can see clearly for more than a few inches.

The child's severe myopia was discovered and treated recently at a new pediatric clinic in Marin City whose goal is to improve the health of low-income children in Southern Marin.

Purpose of the facility is to provide free medical treatment for children whose parents cannot afford to take them to doctors.

To this end, 26 Marin pediatricians and about 25 nurses have agreed to spend one evening a month at the facility. Each doctor is also "on-call" for the clinic one day each month and makes himself available for emergency services one weekend every few months. Their services are free.

Dr. Stephen F. Kent, a Terra Linda pediatrician and a spokesman for the physicians, said the clinic was begun at the request of Marin City residents. He said the operation is primarily geared toward "preventive care," detecting and treating minor illnesses before they become serious problems.

Although a clinic had been in the talking stages for almost two years, nothing definite happened until May when a pediatrician at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael decided to act.

The pediatrician, Dr. Festus Adebonojo, approached the county pediatricians and met with a positive response. Thus heartened, he obtained a $13,000 grant through the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council — of which he is chairman — from the William Babcock Memorial Endowment, a Marin philanthropic foundation. Offices were donated in the Manzanita Center in Marin City and a program director, Charlene Anderson, was hired to oversee operations.

The clinic has funds for a medical aide and plans to train a low-income Marin City woman (not yet chosen) for the position.

The clinic opened Oct. 1, treating about two children a night during its hours, 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. After five weeks of operation, the number has grown to 10 children each night because, according to Mrs. Anderson, "the word has gotten around."

Educating parents about the need for preventive care is still a problem, Mrs. Anderson said. "It's not that the parents don't care about their children — they love them very much," she explained. "But when you have to worry about where your next meal is coming from and how to get money to buy shoes for your family, a physical examination for a child who doesn't seem ill is a luxury.

"It is hard for parents who have so many economic problems to worry about to notice the small signs which may mean an illness or a problem."

The examinations have already helped numerous children, Mrs. Anderson said. One little girl, for example, mentioned to the examining doctor she had trouble hearing. A minor ear problem was easily corrected and now the child's hearing is normal.

The clinic does not stop at simply treating physical ailments, according to Kent. Family counseling and help with problems such as bedwetting or school difficulties are also available. "If a child's father needs a job badly, we try to help in that way, too," the pediatrician said.

Kent said the problem of attracting parents whose children really need the service will not be easily solved. "But as parents see for themselves the value of what we are doing, I think more and more will bring their youngsters to the clinic."

The facility, which offers free examinations and treatment to children in Marin City, Mill Valley, Sausalito, Tiburon and Belvedere, was located in Southern Marin because "some families simply have no way to get to doctors in Northern Marin," Mrs. Anderson explained.

The idea is catching on rapidly, according to Kent, who said other cities have shown interest in the program and several physicians who treat adults have volunteered their services. "We would like to set up a free adult clinic eventually if we can find the money," the pediatrician said.

The children's clinic is funded through March. "By that time, we expect to have shown what a great need exists for this kind of service," Kent said.

'Black Monday' Marchers Jailed

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Leaders of a black coalition called for a continuing school boycott and another protest march today after a "Black Monday" demonstration ended in a clash with police.

The coalition said the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and one of 53 persons arrested, would lead today's noon parade to City Hall.

Police using tear gas fogging machines, dispersed protesting crowds after the officers were pelted with rocks and bottles following the arrest yesterday of march leaders.

Today's march would not conflict with a police ban on traffic-snarling evening demonstrations in the city's heart. It would follow a Veteran's Day parade planned by service groups in the city.

Abernathy and other demonstration leaders were told by the police at a barricade at Hernando and Beale Street that the "Black Monday" march could not proceed because it would snarl traffic in the downtown area.

By prior agreement with the police the leaders then submitted to arrest and were loaded on a city transit authority bus bound for the city jail. All were released on bail of $26 each or on their own recognizance.

Both sides had worked through the day to avoid a confrontation. The arrests on disorderly conduct charges were devised as a face saver for both city officials and the city's coalition of Negro groups, pressing demands for more representation in school affairs and recognition by a hospital of a mainly Negro union.

Most of about 800 persons in the line of march left the scene after the arrests but some 100 youthful demonstrators lagged behind. Despite efforts of their own parade marshals, they turned and headed for a street barricade about one-half block away.

Police stayed behind the barricade as rocks and bottles sailed through the air, but as officers were hit, they moved out to disperse the demonstrators with the tear gas foggers.

Later, scattered trouble was reported during the night in the mainly Negro South End of the city, including minor fires, looting, window smashing and other vandalism.

It was the fifth consecutive "Black Monday" for the city. School officials said 46,241 pupils—more than one-third of the enrollment—participated in the weekly boycott of classes.

Sheriff Spews Profanity During Marijuana Hearing

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Profanity and insults marked the reaction of Sacramento County Sheriff John Misterly to critical remarks aimed his way by a professir and long-haired youth during a legislative hearing on marijuana.

At one point or another during yesterday's hearing, the outspoken law enforcement officer told the youth he was speaking "drivel," twice called the professor "a God xxxx liar" and said the medical profession has more narcotics addicts than any other.

His remarks, which generally drew laughter from an audience which at various times included Girl Scouts and teen-agers, came during a hearing of the Assembly Health and Welfare Committee's subcommittee on drug abuse and alcoholism.

The committee took no action and came to no conclusions, seeking only to hear testimony for possible use during the 1970 legislative session.

Misterly, a former state narcotics agent, told a panel of five — either doctors or professors — that "there is not one profession with as many addicts in it as the medical profession."

Later, Dr. J. Thomas Ungerleider of UCLA, a psychiatry professor, complained "the sheriff has denigrated, demeaned the medical profession."

Sitting next to him, Misterly shot back "you are a Goddamn liar!" and complained about "some of those educated far beyond their intelligence. I have specific reference to you."

At another point, a long-haired youth told the cigar-smoking sheriff that he had smoked a cigar during the lunch break, felt dizzy and far stranger than he did on marijuana.

Misterly said he wouldn't listen to such "drivel," and the youth was told to go away. He did.

Dr. Edward Bloomquist of Glendale, chairman of Gov. Reagan's Inter-Agency Council on Drug Abuse, testified that it is erroneous to criticize law enforcement for enforcing tough laws on marijuana.

Check Case To Superior Court

John Curtis Gipson, 46, of San Francisco, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on three bad check charges and a count of auto theft after a preliminary hearing in municipal court.

He is to appear in court Monday for arraignment.

Gipson is accused of having checks stolen from Mill Valley Interiors last month as well as taking a car Oct. 23.

Nixon Approves Law Cutting Toys Peril

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon has signed into law a measure allowing removal from the market of toys which are dangerous because they expose children to heat, electricity or mechanical hazards.

The measure, which extends a ban on toys for other reasons such as toxic paint, requires reimbursement of buyers by retrailers and retailers by distributors or manufacturers.

Kremlin Expels Toronto Newsman

MOSCOW (UPI)—The foreign ministry yesterday ordered correspondent Aaron Einfrank of the Toronto Telegram to leave Soviet Union within 72 hours.

Einfrank said a foreign ministry press department official told him he was being expelled "for writing unfavorable articles on the Soviet way of life" and for "showing the grim side of life in the Soviet Union'.'

Several stories by Einfrank have appeared in the Independent-Journal.

Weather For Launch On Good Side

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The weatherman today forecast good conditions for Friday's launching of the Apollo 12 astronauts on man's second moon-landing voyage.

The prediction came as two of the astronauts called off plans to sharpen their flying skills in a helicopter and a jet plane.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration originally said that Charles Conrad Jr. and Richard F. Gordon Jr. planned to fly the vehicles. Conrad was to operate the helicopter as if he were hovering before selecting a landing spot on the moon.

CHANGE MINDS

An official said later that the astronauts had changed their minds and decided to relax in their crew quarters studying their flight plan.

The third astronaut, Alan L. Bean, ran through emergency checkout procedures in the lunar module training vehicle. He and Conrad are to land on the moon while Gordon orbits in the command ship.

The Weather Bureau's space flight meteorology group said a cold front would pass through the Cape Kennedy area Thursday but that conditions Friday would be satisfactory, with partly cloudy skies, moderate northerly winds and temperature about 60 degrees.

ABORT AREAS

The forecast for potential abort landing areas calls for moderate winds and seas.

At the launch pad everything continued on schedule as crews prepared the Saturn 5 rocket and the two spaceships for launching at 11:22 a.m. (EST) Friday.

At 9 a.m. today the count entered a 16-hour built-in hold to provide the launch team with rest. When it resumes early tomorrow, liquid Hydrogen and liquid oxygen will be pumped into the command ship's power-producing fuel cells.

Ross Ex-Official Picked By Reagan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A former Ross town councilman has been named by Gov. Ronald Reagan to the board of administration of the Public Employees' Retirement System.

He is Dr. W. James Dawson, 39, an orthodontist practicing in San Rafael. Dawson lives on Fernhill Avenue in Ross.

Bartlett T. Grimes, 30, of San Francisco, also was appointed to the board. Both appointees are Republicans.

The positions pay $25 per day when working and expenses.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Overweight Teen-Agers Often Victims Of A Fat Environment

VAN DELLEN

Overweight teen-agers are a challenge to the medical profession. Many of these youngsters do not want to reduce or change their eating habits.

Gluttony plays a minor role in that some obese boys and girls do not eat as much as teen-agers of normal weight. The majority do not exercise or help in any way to burn up the extra calories.

EXCESSIVE WEIGHT in teens usually stems from subconscious fears, boredom, frustration or tension. Heredity does not always play a role although living in a fat environment is an important condiseration.

A child with one overweight parent has a 40 per cent chance of being fat, and this goes to 80 per cent if both parents are obese. Something must be done early in life because four of five chubby children become obese adults.

Many methods have been advocated to motivate teen-agers to take off weight and to keep it off. Parents often do not know why Mary refuses to reduce. Furthermore, they may add to the confusion through misguided statements, threats, or shame.

Best results usually are obtained via group therapy at a school, camp, or clinic.

IN HER NEW BOOK, "Help Your Child Lose Weight," Mrs. Gussie Mason, owner-manager of Camp Hanley for boys, explains how her campers lose an average of 25 pounds in 8 weeks through low calorie menus and exercise.

A Delware high school program also has been successful cia discussions where the fatties are encouraged to aks questions and to find their own answers through disciplined eating and exercise habits.

AT THE Adelaide Children's hospital in Australia, Dr. G. M. Kneebone uses drug therapy in addition to diet. In a group of 240 obese children, a large percentage improved considerably on triiodothyronine. In some cases, an appetite suppressant was added.

MILK AND SPASTIC COLON

T.N. writes: Is it all right for a person with colitis to drink milk?

REPLY

Yes, provided the individual is not allergic to or has an idiosyncrasy to milk. Others have a biochemical problem that involves lactose, a sugar found in milk and milk products. The lactose remains in the intestine where it encourages fermentation and causes cramps, gas, diarrhea, and abdominal distention.

TOILET TRAINING

Mrs. A. R. writes: In toilet training, should a tot be left on the chair until he is successful?

REPLY

Yes, but take him off the chair if enough time has elapsed and he becomes fidgety. Our leaflet on bowel and bladder training may be obtained by sending a stamped self-addressed envelope with request.

BLOATING AFTER EATING

G. A. writes: What causes some women to become bloated after eating?

REPLY

Gas accumulates in air swallowers and in those whose digestive juices encourage excessive fermentation. A poorly functioning gallbladder, for example, may not supply the amount of bile needed to assimilate dietary fats.

INTRANASAL PROCEDURE

C. R. writes: What does an intranasal procedure mean when the person has a sinus condition?

REPLY

This may mean surgery for a deviated septum or resection of part of the nasal membrane. The idea is to promote drainage.

HEART VALVE REPAIR

A reader writes: Is surgery the only cure for mitral valvular disease?

REPLY

Yes. The condition is relieved by replacing the scarred and narrowed valve with a prosthesis.

LAUGHS, THEN WHEEZES

Mrs. I. O. Writes: My husband suffers from asthma and whenever he laughs, the wheezing gets worse. Have you heard of such a peculiar reaction?

REPLY

Yes. It is well-known that symptoms of this allergy may get worse when the individual is frightened, cries, laughs, coughs of overexerts. In other words, bronchospasm is aggravaged by the mechanics of laughing in addition to emotional reactions. Many smokers with chronic bronchitis also cough following a laughing jag.

JARRED BRAIN

L.F. writes: Does a brain concussion heal itself without treatment?

REPLY

Yes, in most instances, with rest. In severe concussions, where there are signs of additional pressure, treatment is needed.

TELEVISION IN REVIEW

Old Friends Prove To Be Tops In Ratings

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Television this season seems to be proving. if nothing else, that old friends are best friends.

In the most recent national Nielsen ratings lists, every one of the 10 most popular TV series is at least two years old—and six have survived for six or more years.

The report, covering shows broadcast between Oct. 27 and Nov. 2. is typical of the season's showing. NBC's "Laugh-In" is in first place and is two years old. A close second is CBS' "Red Skelton Show," age 19. Third is "Gunsmoke," now 15.

Then there is NBC's "Bonanza," 10; CBS' "Mayberry, R.F.D., which, if you count its years as "The Andy Griffith Show", is seven; NBC's "The Wonderful World of Disney" on the networks for 16 years, and CBS' "Beverly Hillbillies," eight.

The younger crowd in the Nielsen elite group includes "Family Affair," four, and Glen Campbell's variety hour, two. A bit farther down the list there are "Here's Lucy," starring a performer who has been on television for 18 years, and "My Three Sons" which started 10 years back.

"Gunsmoke, leading the list a week ago and in show position this time, is probably a source of pride and embarrassment to CBS executives. Only a couple of seasons back the show was abruptly canceled—not so much for inadequate numbers of viewers but because many of them were older and nonurban.

There were loud howls of rage, a blizzard of mail and "Gunsmoke" was reprieved. It was moved out of its late time spot and, with some of its raw action removed, became more popular than ever in an early evening time period that attracted a young family audience.

In the current ratings, only one new show, Bill Cosby's situation comedy, has stuck like a burr in the top 20 shows. But Cosby can hardly be counted a new face in TV after those "I Spy" seasons.

NBC, incidentally, jumped back in the lead in the weekly averages, building a 19.7, to CBS' 18.9. ABC followed with 15.4. Although CBS and ABC plan to replace their weakest shows at midseason, it seems likely now that NBC will stick with its original entries through the winter although there may be some reshuffling of time spots.

Steve Douglas—Fred MacMurray—after 10 years as a widower in "My Three Sons" will be married on the Nov. 22 show to a widow named Barbara—Beverly Garland. If theirs is like other TV nuptials, it will be attended by extremely high Nielsen ratings. The home folks just love to watch weddings.

Senate Rejects Span Fund Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Warned it might leave American astronauts figuratively stranded on the moon, the Senate has rejected a proposed $100 million cut in the U.S. space budget.

"You chop a big chunk out of here and ... you won't have enough left to bring those poor fellows down," pleaded Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., before the 46-22 roll call vote yesterday to drop the cut.

Pastore said the cut, proposed by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., would "crucify the entire program."

Proxmire, who objected to the $3.7 billion earmarked for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in this fiscal year, said Americans already have paid $24 billion to see television record man's first steps on the moon.

Environment Uses Urged By Reagan

SAN FRANCISCO ((AP) — Members of America's real estate boards were told by Gov. Ronald Reagan today that once the nation's resources are totally polluted they are gone forever "and so are we."

He made a strong plea for wise use of the environment in a message for the National Association of Real Estate Boards convention. It was delivered by a previously done tape recording, since he didn't return from a European trip until last night.

The governor urged adoption of a uniform code of sound use of the nation's resources that would apply everywhere.

"We are responsible for the kind of world we create," Reagan declared. "Let us be certain we fully understand the consequences if we come up with the wrong definition of 'wise use" of the land. Once our land and . . . our air, and our water is gone or totally polluted, they are gone forever. And so are we."

California's governor noted that the state is expected to be home for 38 million people in the year 2000, and asked:

"What kind of houses will they live in?

"Will the air be clean enough to breathe — the water pure enough to drink?

"Will there be enough land for baseball diamonds, football fields, trees and parks?

"Will there be sufficient land and water for an old swimming hole or a quiet trout stream?

"The answer to those questions . . . rests, to a very great degree, in your hands."

Youth To Superior Court In Drug Case

James William Thomas, 22, of Fairfax, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of selling marijuana to a narcotics agent May 12 and possessing it at his home when arrested Sept. 11.

He is to appear in court Monday for arraignment.

Fails To Appear

A bench warrant with bail set at $2,500 was issued yesterday for Harry Elmer Chapman, 43, of Mill Valley, when he failed to appear in Marin Superior Court to answer charges of possessing methamphetamine and a hypodermic needle March 8.

Question: Is it dangerous to use baby foods containing M.S.G.?
Answer: Unfortunately, nobody really knows the answer to this question yet. Monosodium glutamate (M.S.G.) is used in many other meat and vegetable products on the market besides baby foods to enhance flavor. Babies don't need it, and neither do adults. Its safety, especially in baby foods, has been questioned recently. While Gerbers, Heinz and Beechnut announced on October 25 that they were discontinuing the use of MSG in their products, it will probably be at least several weeks before these MSG-free baby foods reach our shelves.

To Avoid MSG, Read Labels. You'll find most baby meats, many vegetables and all baby fruits and desserts free of MSG already. "High Meat Dinners" and "Dinners" usually, but not always, contain MSG. If you want to be sure what you're getting, read the ingredient statement on the label.

49er Coach Dick Nolan Running Out Of Thumbs

Dick Nolan, coach of the San Francisco 49ers, must feel like the one-armed paper hanger.

Or the guy trying to plug up the dike; just when he gets one leak plugged, out pops another Mr. Nolan, I'm afraid, is running out of thumbs.

That's the way it's been with the rag-tag Niners all season. If the offensive line doesn't collapse, then it's the kicking game. The defensive line may play a great game only to be betrayed by the defensive backs. Etc., etc., through 12 losses and 1 tie.

"We just can't seem to put it all together at once," more than one 49er player has told me all year.

Sunday's 41-30 loss to the Rams in L.A. was not as dishonorable as the previous week's debacle with Detroit, yet a loss is a loss is a loss.

Scoring 30 points against L.A. is impressive, yet yielding 41 seems to indicate a weakness. After giving the matter much thought, I have come to the conclusion that the defense was the culprit Sunday. Yep, I figured it out all by myself. The defense gave up 34 points, the other Ram score coming on an intercepted pass and you can't blame that on guys who at the time were sitting on the bench, slurping up Gatorade, snatching whiffs out of the oxygen tanks and ogling the dollies in the band.

Two Pass Plays In Particular

Actually, a lot of Ram pass plays hurt the Niners Sunday, but two in particular come to mind: The first was on the first play of the game, a 93-yard Roman Gabriel to Wendell Tucker TD strike; the second a 55-yarder, Gabriel to Tommy Mason, that took the Rams out of a hole late in the game and assured their eighth victory without defeat.

Kermit Alexander, veteran defensive back for the Niners, was a guest of the Marin Chapter, 49er Boosters Club yesterday, along with center Forrest Blue, to face the question firing squad.

Recuperating from a shoulder separation ("I should be able to play within a week or two,"), Alexander said the first Ram bomb was the result of a mixed up defensive signal and that Alvin Randolph was responsible for covering Tucker. Added Alexander: "Randolph had some problems so the coach took him out (later) to give him a chance to think about it."

Vanderbundt Lost His Gamble

The Gabriel-Mason key play, Kermit said, was rookie linebacker Skip Vanderbundt's responsibility, but he took great pains to explain the reasons for such mistakes, including Vanderbundt's inexperience, the heat of battle and the gamble that defensive men have to take — "He didn't read the play correctly, gambled and lost. What it comes down to is flipping a coin. You either win or lose. Remember, Vanderbundt's a relative newcomer out there and there are veterans who make mistakes on those same plays. If it (Vanderbundt's mistake) is not justifiable, it's understandable."

An articulate former All-American out of UCLA, now in his seventh season, Alexander said he was disappointed in his own performance this year.

"Last year I thought I had a great year," the all-time 49er pass interception leader said, "but I haven't progressed as well this year and I think other players feel that way about themselves, individually. It (the losing record) is as much my fault as anyone else's. Believe me, we've yelled at each other and have tried everything. If you have any suggestions just give us a call. We'll entertain any constructive criticism you have.

About the uncoming game Sunday at Kezar against Baltimore, Alexander observed: "Coach (Don) Shula will have those Colts ready for us. They'll be so fired up they may run right through the end of the stadium on their first touchdown. Our job is just to keep our mistakes as close to zero as possible and force them to make errors. We've found out they are human."

MEMORABLE NIGHT

More To Football Game Than Just The Statistics

By GARY TISCHLER

A good many of the 4,000 people who tuna-packed themselves into San Rafael High School football stadium for the Redwood-Terra Linda game Saturday will tell you that it was one heck of a ballgame. It was, but not in the usual sense.

You couldn't tell it by the statistics, which were practically dead even, and, except for Dewey Forry's 126 yards rushing, nothing to write the scouts about.

The game was exciting, and puzzling, not so much for what happened, but for what didn't happen.

CLINCH TITLE

True, Terra Linda won the game, 14-8, which may have injured prides on both sides. The Trojans thus clinched at least a fourth straight Marin County Athletic League title tie and sorely chilled Redwood's chances for a piece of the cake.

But there were things in that game that never maaerialized. Redwood, with its imposing stable of big backs, never could run effectively. Mike Farley, who only a week ago, shredded San Rafael for some 90 yards, was smothered all night long. Only sophomore Jay Lehman looked respectable and none of the backs gained more than six yards on any particular run.

Terra Linda, the team with the league's best throwing quarterback, threw only five times, and completed four. It was like a Miss America contest in which you only got to see Bert Parks.

EXTRAS

However, there were memorable things in that game that will never show up in anybody's statistic. For instance:

The air of expectancy, prodded by the jam-packed stadium, that hung over everything throughout the game.

The ferocious tackling for the whole length of the game, especially by Mike Bridges, Dan Trondsen and Chris Fenton of Terra Linda and Andy Anixter of Redwood.

Phil Simon's quick and alert work at middle guard for Redwood, dumping quarterback Tom Jackson for big losses twice, then getting nailed for overeagerness on a Terra Linda touchdown drive.

FRUSTRATED

The frustrated, obviously dejected and disappointed Redwood linebacker Rick Puccinelli, dressed up in full gear, but unable to play except for kickoffs. Puccinelli, who has missed the last two games with bone calsification, is, according to his coaches, a boy who lives and sleeps football and for him to miss this particular game was an excercise in sad frustration.

There was Fenton's tremendous line play, both offensively and defensively.

Forry's helter-skelter style of running, looking very much like a scarecrow with solid stuffing.

HUSH

The way the entire assembled crowd lowered the noise to a complete hush when Terra Linda came up with its half-time performance, a solemn, imperfect and strangely moving tribute to Veteran's Day and America's war dead. The message, prodded by renditions of "Taps" and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," paid tribute to those who died for peace and made a special plea that no more of our young people should have to die in this way.

It was an incongrous setting for that kind of message, but strangely enough it worked. And if you have seen and heard some 4,000 people suddenly go still, you'll get an idea of the feeling involved.

And there was the surprise at the way Terra Linda's players went "ape" after they had clinched the game and the title, as if nobody had ever won a football title at the school. And the quiet frustration of the Redwood gridders, who, with no time outs left, could only watch and grit their teeths as Jackson protectively laid on the ball three times after a Redwood fumble near the end of the game.

All in all, it was a memorable night.

Nolan Plans No Changes; Brodie To Start Sunday

REDWOOD CITY (AP)—John Brodie's passing arm is back in shape and he will start at quarterback Sunday for the San Francisco 49ers against the Baltimore Colts.

Coach Dick Nolan, in making the announcement yesterday, also said he expected no changes in the 49er lineup that lost 41-30 Sunday to the Los Angeles Rams.

The 49ers have won just one game all season and that was against Baltimore, with substitute quarterback Steve Spurrier passing while Brodie rested his arm.

"I wouldn't have any question about putting Steve in," Nolan said. "He has shown me that he can do a lot of things too." Nevertheless, the coach decided to go with his veteran.

The Baltimore-San Francisco game will be in Kezar Stadium.

Baltimore has a 5-3-0 record while San Francisco is 1-6-1.

Sid Gilman Resigns— Ulcer

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Sid Gillman is gone as head coach of the San Diego Chargers and with him goes a tradition of victories, excitement and teaching, the game will find hard to match.

An ulcer which cropped up after a 34-27 victory over the New York Jets Sept. 28 and has persisted despite a strict diet has caused Gillman to relinquish his club to offensive backfield coach Charlie Waller, although he will remain as general manager.

REMOTE

When asked if he would be back as head coach, Gillman replied, "The probability is remote."

Tears came to Gillman's eyes as he continued, "It was die with football or continue to live. I felt I wanted to get feeling good again.

"This is a hell of a poor time to do what I'm doing," he sighed.

In 25 years as head coach, Gillman had three losing season, 1956 and 1959 with the Los Angeles Rams and 1962 with the Chargers. This year appeared to be the fourth as his club was 4-5.

BATTING .660

His teams had a .660 percentage of victories and he had won six pro division championships.

"He's the boss now," Gillman said pointing at Waller.

The 47-year-old Waller is a veteran of 23 years of coaching although his only head coach experience was with Decatur (Ga.) High School.

"I have no feelings of joy to get the job under these circumstances," Waller said. "I'd rather he win the Super Bowl and then retire."

NO QUESTION

"I had discussed this with Mr. (Gene) Klein before," Gillman said referring to the Chargers' owner. "And there was no question in my mind but what Charlie would be my successor.'

Waller replied, "The first thing in my mind is my feeling for him (Gilliam) — we've been through those years—I have confidence I'll vindicate the faith he has in me.' '

Waller has been with the Chargers four years.

Daryle Takes A Few Blows

OAKLAND (AP) — Quarterback Daryle Lamonica, a bruise under his right eye, couldn't be faulted if he winced a little watching films of his Oakland Raiders' 41-10 triumph over Denver.

Coach John Madden said yesterday: "Daryle was being hit a lot, a number of times after he threw the ball."

Lamonica said it "was close some of the time, whether I was getting it after I threw. But I didn't take much of a beating."

The Raiders entertain the San Diego Chargers Sunday and are assured a sellout crowd.

CROSS COUNTRY

Novato Runner Tops The Field

Ron Elijah, the Novato senior who has broken records on every Marin County Athletic League course he set foot on this year, ran away from a classy field to take individual honors in the MCAL cross-country meet at Lake Lagunitas near Fairfax yesterday afternoon.

Elijah was never in trouble over the three-mile course which wound around Lake Lagunitas. He finished in 15:28, a full 22 seconds ahead of runner-up Kevin Pusser of Redwood.

CLOSE RACE

Redwood, which was supposed to run away with the team title, got entangled in a close race. The Giants, who were undefeated in dual-meet competition this season, won as expected, but not before getting a battle out of Tamalpais.

The Giants, behind Pusser, Jay Neuhaus (fifth) and Tim Taylor (sixth), had 33 points. Tamalpais, with Mike Arago third at 15:53, and Vian Collier fourth at 15:54, had 41 points.

Those two teams were the ballgame as Novato, despite Elijah's finish, was third with 81 points, followed by San Rafael, 86; San Marin, 142, and Terra Linda, 145.

SEVENTH

Lowery McFerrin of Tamalpais took seventh, followed by Tom Weindell of San Rafael, Lee Hotchkin of Redwood and Steve Elias of San Rafael.

San Rafael won frosh-soph team honors with 32 points, as Bulldog Doug Greene won it in 10:48 over two miles. He was just ahead of Eric Moller of Redwood, who finished in 10:55.

Third was Dan Hutton of Novato, followed by Mark Elias, San Rafael, and Dave Hutton, Novato.

Redwood war runnerup in team results with 39 points, followed by Novato, 80, and Tamalpais, 88.

Joe Clark of Redwood took individual honors in the junior varsity meet, winning in 18:21. There were no team results kept, since not enough of the schools had entries, according to meet director Krieg Vezie of Tamalpais.

Broncos Lose Two Wide Receivers

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Broncs said yesterday two wide receivers have been lost for the American Football League season because of knee injuries suffered in Sunday's 41-10 loss to Oakland.

Both Mike Haffner, the second leading pass receiver on the team, and Billy Van Heusen, punter who saw his first action as a receiver Sunday, were to undergo surgery this afternoon.

How Candlestick Bonds Were Saved From Defeat

Several bond proposals were clobbered at the polls last week by San Francisco voters who were in a tough economy mood because they received sharply increased tax bills just before the election.

If the new Candlestick Park bonds had been on the ballot they would have been clobbered, too. But a clever refinancing plan for Candlestick improvements kept that issue off the ballot.

CANDLESTICK originally was built with $5 million general obligation bonds approved in 1954 by San Francisco voters, plus $5.5 million bonds issued by Stadium, Inc., a non-profit organization set up by the city to operate Candlestick.

The $5.5 million bonds of Stadium, Inc., were not the obligation of city taxpayers. They were revenue bonds to be retired at 5 per cent interest from Candlestick revenues. During the past decade Candlestick revenues have averaged $500,000 a year, more than enough to meet interest payments on the revenue bonds.

BUT THE $500,000 annual income (primarily from rent paid by the Giants and parking fees) hardly could cover $9.1 million Candlestick improvements okayed by the Board of Supervisors.

Even with the added revenue the 49ers will provide when they move into Candlestick next year, between $200,000 and $400,000 will be needed annually to pay interest on the new bond package.

HOW WAS it done without going to the taxpayers for approval? The original Stadium, Inc., bonds and the new $9.1 million were rolled into a new $15 million package.

Naturally, investors couldn't be expected to buy a $15 million package backed only by Candlestick revenues. Even an attractive tax exempt privilege on the bonds couldn't lure investors into such a deal. Smart bond buyers want sure-fire guarantees on interest payments.

THIS IS where the clever refinancing comes in. The city of San Francisco will rent Candlestick from Stadium, Inc. The rent will be determined by the difference between Candlestick revenues and annual interest on the new $15 million bond package. Interest over a 40 year retirement period of the new bonds will be around $1 million annually.

THE YEARLY rent could range between $200,000 and $400,000. If it's $200,000 then the cost will be one cent on the San Francisco property tax rate. If $400,000, it will be two cents.

In their economy mood when they went to the polls this week San Franciscans would have dinged that but they had no say in the matter.

Boys' Basketball League Forming In San Rafael

San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department, in cooperation with the San Rafael and Dixie school districts, will conduct an organized recreation boys basketball program starting Dec. 6.

The program will include instruction in basic fundamentals, organized teams, league play and tournaments.

Registration for interested boys will be held at each elementary school playground now through Dec. 6. Boys can also register at an elementary school basketball clinic at San Rafael High School on Dec. 6.

After school playgrounds where boys may sign up are:

Sun Valley School (Mondays and Wednesdays); Glenwood School (Mondays through Thursdays); West End School (Tuesdays and Thursdays); Hartzell School (Mondays through Thursdays); Bahia Vista School (Mondays through Thursdays); Nova Albion School (Mondays through Thursdays); Laurel Dell Intermediate School (Tuesdays and Thursdays); Don Timoteo School (Mondays through Thursdays); San Pedro School (Mondays through Thursdays); Gallinas School (Mondays through Thursdays); Coleman School (Mondays through Thursdays), and Oak View School (Tuesdays and Thursdays.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG

Although the slight hook is highly recommended for all bowlers, many women find it more comfortable to roll the straight ball. If you're consistent with this, more power to you. Start slightly farther right in the approach lane to get a better angle at the 1-3 pocket. At release, your hand should be behind the ball, the thumb at about "1100" (as indicated by the white stripe on the ball in today's illustration).

Forrey Takes Over Prep Rushing Lead

Dewey Forry, Terra Linda High School's blossoming rambling wreck on wheels, has, in the space of two games, rambled right into the Marin County Athletic League rushing lead and stands a good chance to win it all with only a game left in the season.

Forry picked up 126 yards in 24 carries in a key 14-8 win over Redwood Saturday to vault past San Rafael's Scott Duncan and into first place with 364 yards. Forrey picked up most of the yardage (280 of it) in just two games getting 156 yards against San Marin a week earlier.

TAKES LEAD

Mark Silverman of Drake took over the league pass receiving lead with 14 receptions, sneaking past Clifford Hall of Tamalpais, who has 12, same as Steve Francis of San Marin.

Ron Petroni of Tomales made the 1,000-yard circle for the second straight year as his 160 yards in a 38-6 win over Upper Lake gave him 1,154 on the season.

Battered Seals Return To Oakland

BOSTON (AP)—Outshot in 13 consecutive games, winless in five, and victims of eight-goal assaults twice within four days, the Oakland Seals head home today to meet the tough Montreal Canadiens tomorrow night.

The Boston Bruins had a five-game winless streak of their own going in the National Hockey League when they clobbered the Seals 8-3 here last night. Only last Friday the New York Rangers won at Oakland 8-1.

TWO GOALS

Johnny Bucyk and John McKenzie scored two goals each, and Bobby Orr regained the NHL scoring lead with three assists that ran his total to 20, plus two goals.

Boston had 63 shots to Oakland's 31 and got four goals against Gary Smith in the first two periods on 45 shots.

TOSSED OUT

Smith was ejected by referee Ron Wicks for swinging his stick as Wicks skated by after an argument between the two at 18 seconds into the final period, just after Dallas Smith's goal put the Bruins ahead 5-1.

The Seals had two-man advantages when Mike Laughton scored Oakland's first goal at 2:33 of the first period and Ted Hampson got the Seals last goal at 16:08 of the third period. Gerry Ehman made the other Oakland score on a power play at 8:11 of the third period.

Pittsburgh Mark

NEW YORK (UPI)—No team in the National League has finished a baseball season with an over .700 won-lost percentage since 1909, when the pennant-winning Pittsburgh Pirates had a 110-42 record for .724.

Warriors Edged At Buzzer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors came home today for a clash with the New York Knickerbockers after a final-second 100-99 loss to San Diego in Salt Lake City.

Don Kojis connected with a 30-foot jump shot at the buzzer to win it for the Rockets.

Sparked by Nate Thurmond and Jeff Mullins, the Warriors had moved ahead slightly in the third period, but San Diego came back with a surge led by Elvin Hayes.

Thurmond was the game's high scorer with 30 points and Mullins had 25.

Hayes, who scored with timely shots in the last quarter, paced San Diego with 23. He had been erratic earlier, however, and was benched for a spell after the first quarter.

Hayes returned to action midway through the second period and scored several times before connecting on a long jumper as the half ended 51-all.

Tonight's Knicks game begins at 8 o'clock in the Cow Palace.

Marin's Dick Read Expects Tough Game In Santa Rosa

"It's going to be a really tough, physical game," said College of Marin head football coach Dick Read about Friday's upcoming game with long-time rival Santa Rosa Junior College.

The Tars, still trying to forget about last Saturday's 44-30 loss to Contra Costa J.C. of San Pablo, take on the Santa Rosa Bear Cubs Friday night at 8 o'clock at Santa Rosa J.C.

TIED

Marin and Santa Rosa each have 1-3 win-loss records in Camino Norte Conference action, bettering only the record of winless Solano J.C. of Vallejo, 0-4, Marin's 2-5 on the season.

Marin and Santa Rosa have had a rivalry going since the early 1930s. It was discontinued from 1951 through 1961, and then reborn. Since then, Santa Rosa has had the edge, winning from 1962 through '66. Marin won the last two years.

Read and his coaching staff spent part of the time yesterday going over the films of Marin's Saturday game with Contra Costa. It confirmed what Read thought right after the game.

'TERRIBLE'

"We were terrible," Read declared. "It was a comedy of errors. You name something wrong and we did it. Getting off to its worst start since anyone can remember, Marin was trailing 36-0 before the first half was even over. It was 36-8 when the half mercifully came to an end.

There is going to have to be much improvement if the Tars want to clip the Bear Cubs.

Santa Rosa plays out of a Wishbone T formation, the fullback in a little closer to the quarterback than the two halfbacks. It's a good formation for a running game, which is handled by a couple of good ones in fullback Jerry Peterson, 195 pounds, and Robert Fobbs, 181-pound halfback.

BIBER OUT

Marin will be without the services of Mike Biber, who was knocked dizzy by a hard blow on the head during a downfield block in the game against the Comets of Contra Costa. Marin's leading pass catcher, Biber wasn't around long enough to even catch a pass Saturday. Biber had been out of the Tars' lineup earlier in the year with an injured ankle.

Luther Brown, cornerback for the Tars' defensive unit, will be back in the lineup after missing last Saturday's game with an injury.

DISCOVERY

Amidst the shambles there was one bright spot for Marin in Saturday's game. The Tars finally found the wide receiver they've been looking for all season, in the person of Pete Carroll. He's a defensive back, who's listed in the program as a quarterback. He caught four passes for 80 yards and two touchdowns.

COMMUNICATION GAP

Black Grid Coach Resigns

SEATTLE (UPI) — Carver Gayton, assistant football coach at the University of Washington, has resigned because of what he said was a communication gap between himself and head coach Jim Owens.

The "communications chasm," he said, had nullified the most integral part of his job as mediator between Owens and the black athletes.

FORMER PLAYER

Gayton, a former player under Owens, was hired about 15 months ago as a black coach to establish liaison between the coaching staff and black athletes.

His resignation was the latest in a series of events which began Oct. 30 when Owens suspended four black players on grounds they had failed to express a "100 per cent commitment" to Washington football.

Owens reviewed the suspensions and Sunday reinstated three players but made permanent the suspension of halfback Harvey Blanks who had been sidelined last spring with a broken ankle.

DIFFICULT

Owens described Blanks as one of the most difficult athletes he had ever coached and criticized Blanks' statement to the news media to the effect that the Husky football problem wasn't a "black and white" issue but a coaching problem.

"I am dismayed that Harvey Blanks was not reinstated," Gayton said. "Harvey is an outstanding athlete who has contributed a great deal..by his performance on the field, recruitment of athletes and his insatiable desire to perfect all aspects of the game."

Gayton said he would continue to counsel the black athletes as long as he remained in Seattle.

Bullheads Good Bait To Catch Big Stripers

Buck Eddings of Buck's Landing in Santa Venetia called to say the striped bass fishing had really picked up this past week. Using bullheads out by the Pumphouse area and the S.P. Buoy, Buck landed two 20-pounders and a 25-pounder last Thursday.

Sam Knoles and I were out there too, along with about 20 other boats. I had two pickups, one on a bullhead and one on a ghost shrimp. I connected on one which turned out to be a 28½-pound bass. Sam caught four flounders, but he used ghost shrimp, as he isn't on to this bullhead fishing.

I HATE TO mention this, but Frank Sue went over on the east side Friday out of Rodeo, taking his boss. Well, Frank took a 38-pound, 3-ounce bass along with a 19-pounder and a 13-pounder for a 70-pound limit, using bullheads. Sue's boss, a novice at this business, is rapidly learning the techniques because he too took a limit of three up to 15 pounds. That darned Frank won the post office derby last week, and this week he took over first place in the Nisei Club derby which runs all year.

Bullhead fishing for stripers can be a very rewarding method of fishing. Sam and I launched at Loch Lomond, where we were able to purchase six live bullheads for $2 at the bait barge there. Out on the fishing grounds, we each used about two ounces of weights to get to the bottom. We used the sliding sinker system with about 36 inches of leader between the sinker and the hook. I used a 4/0 hook, hooking the live bullhead through the back just below the dorsal fin.

CASTING OUT and letting the sinker go to the bottom is simple enough with your bullhead bait causing the rod tip to shake occasionally. The difficult part of this method is to wait when you get a pickup. Usually the rod will bend; it is here that most people fail. Let the fish take the bait even if 20 or 30 feet of line runs out. You must use a reel that can be left in free spool to do this.

Usually the fish stops, then starts a second run. Frank Sue thinks the fish swallows the bait on the stop. On the second run, throw the reel into gear, and set the hook lightly, and you should have your fish on. The less resistance on the reel when the fish is running, the better the chance that he will not let it go. Using light test monofiliament, say 15 to 20-pound test, also makes less drag.

THERE IS some question as to the value of live bullheads over dead ones, though each expert swears by his particular method.

I've used dead bullheads with good success, although I make some changes in the hookup. First, I cut the head off the bullhead, then run the hook, usually a 6/0 hook, through the tail, bending the bullhead so the hook shank fits inside the fish, but the point and barb come out near the forward fin.

Then tie a clove hitch (a double half-hitch) around the tail which keeps the hook in the proper position as the pull when casting. This method, with the bait cut open, gives off more bait smell, and probably serves as an attraction down current. Again, let the fish run with the bait for a considerable distance. Some fishermen set the hook after the 20 or 30-foot run without waiting for the fish to stop. The fish are often mouth-hooked this way, where as letting the fish have it longer results in a stomach hookup.

IF THE FISH, after a short run, drops the bait because of too much drag, leave the bait there, and give him free line; the fish often times will return and again take the bait. Lightly guide the line out to prevent a backlash.

If you use a fly rod and fly reel, it's best to pull out 20 or 30 coils on the deck of the boat, holding the line in your hand, guiding the line out when you get a strike, as the drag of the reel is too much for the fish to take line freely enough.

There were no reports of any sturgeon being taken, but bullhead fishing is almost strictly for bass, though if sharks are in the area you will get fooled. Sharks, especially leopard sharks, will really latch on to the bullhead baits.

IT'S POSSIBLE to catch your own bullheads, using the small fish trap or the hook and line method. The better places are in the small sloughs and canals, or even under your boat if docked somewhere. The live trap is best, as it keeps your bait fresh and alive. If you freeze these baits, don't keep them too long as they tend to dry up; they also lose their slime. None of the experts will use a bullhead without the natural slime. Maybe it's the part of the bait that gives it the attraction for those big stripers.

CORRECTION — Last Friday's column mentioned that "Tomales market crabs are illegal to take." It should have read, female market crabs are illegal to take.

SLIM CHANCE AT ROSES

Stanford Is In Need Of Football Miracle

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—How important, somebody asked Stanford Coach John Ralston, are the national college football rankings?

"Well," Ralston told the Northern California Football Writers yesterday, "If Washington doesn't beat UCLA, than a high national ranking is important."

MIRACLE

For those two upsets to take place in the course of a single weekend—which is what Stanford needs to go to the Rose Bowl — something just this side of a miracle would be needed and Ralston is aware that those are in short supply.

So Stanford will have to be happy with its No. 13 spot in the current AP poll and a perhaps chance to improve it by beating Air Force at home this weekend.

The Falcons have won five games in a row—their two losses were by a total of four points —and are currently ranked 20th.

"We hope they're pointing for Notre Dame," said Ralston of the Air Force opponent one week later. "Gary Baxter is an outstanding thrower and they've been able to move against anybody."

RECORD MAN

Air Force also has halfback Ernest Jennings, who caught five touchdown passes last week against Utah State, tying a national collegiate record held by Howard Twilley and Ron Sellers.

Stanford will be missing defensive lineman Dennis Moore, who injured a knee in a 21-7 win over Washington last week and is out for the season. Miles Moore, a defensive back, also hurt a knee and is doubtful.

Cal Coach Ray Willsey blamed his team's 35-3 upset loss to Oregon State on the fact that "some of our younger players took the day off. Oregon State become stronger and stronger by the quarter and we became less and less effective."

VS. SAN JOSE

The Bears, 4-4, host San Jose, 1-7, Saturday ,and will probably be without defensive back Bernie Keeles, who suffered a bruised kidney.

San Jose Coach Joe McMullen said he was pleasantly surprised at the fine reception his team got when they arrived in Provo, Utah, to play Brig-Young. The Spartans wore black armbands to protest racial policies of the Morman Church, which runs BYU.

But on the field, San Jose was more rudely treated, getting beaten 21-3 despite the fact the Spartans moved the ball well.

"We know we're going to be outmanned against Cal this week," said McMullen.

FAR WESTERN

Hayward State can clinch the Far Western Conference title by beating UC Davis Saturday and Coach Les Davis says his team knows a berth in the Camellia Bowl may depend on it. The Pioneers assured a tie for the title by beating Humboldt State last Saturday.

The writers named Jim Plunkett, Stanford quarterback, and Bernie Oliver, Hayward halfback, as backs of the week. Paul Press, University of the Pacific offensive guard, and Steve Haag, USF linebacker, were named linemen of the week.

Plunkett Nears Pac-8 Record

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Stanford quarterback Jim Plunkett is only 142 yards shy of the Pacific-8 passing record that he set last year as a sophomore, league statistics released today showed.

Plunkett, who has completed 153 of 257 passes for 2,014 yards and 16 touchdowns, is also just one scoring pass shy of the Pac-record set in 1953 by Stanford's Bobby Garrett.

MORE JIM GILMARTIN

Blue, a hulking 6-foot-5, 260-pound second year man, discounted newspaper rumors about dissension in the offensive line between players and assistant coach Ernie Zwahlen. "I know there's been a lot of conjecture about that," he said, "but I can't say there's any dissension. It's just that people are trying to find a reason for our troubles and take a stab at one thing or another. All of us get along just fine (with Zwahlen)."

Blue, like Alexander a No. 1 draft choice, said he figures the 49ers will go into the next player draft with thoughts of ". . . a really great running back, but I can't think of one in college this year, so we'll probably have to trade for one"; a backup guard or tackle (on offense) and a good backup defensive end.

And, perhaps, another thumb for Coach Nolan. His dike runneth over.

Mel Gray Wins Honors; Cousy Raps Red Auerbach

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The only thing Mel Gray doesn't like about Missouri is the winter. But the freezing temperatures are nothing compared to the breezes Gray blows up when he goes after the football.

The 5-foot-9, 170 pound junior split end from Santa Rosa set sail with six passes in Saturday's 44-10 rout of Oklahoma and before he was caught he had accounted for a school record 171 yards and two touchdowns.

That performance earned him Lineman of the Week honors from the Associated Press.

The breezes Gray stirs up when he takes off for a football come from his 9.3 sprinter's speed, which earned him victories in the 100 and 220-yard dashes at the Big Eight Championships, the 100 at the Drake and Kansas Relays and the Kennedy Games, fourth in the NCAA 100 and fifth in the 220.

BASKETBALL

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Royals' Coach Bob Cousy last night accused Boston Celtics' General Manager Arnold "Red" Auerbach of applying "pressure" to stop his latest effort to return to the court as a player in the National Basketball Association.

Earlier, NBA Commissioner J. Walter Kennedy put a damper on the move to let Cousy wear a Cincinnati uniform as a parttime player.

"Under no circumstances would I approve a plan that called for Cousy not to play against Boston or that would give Boston the right to select a jury to decide on compensation," Kennedy said.

"He's been a great help in the whole thing, hasn't he," said Cousy sourly, after hearing Kennedy's statement.

"Auerbach probably put pressure on him to take off the heat. That takes him off the hook," Cousy said.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Switching Bonds Is Advantageous

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I bought bonds in years past only to watch quotations fall from 100 to the 70s. These, of course, will be redeemed at par in the year 2000 but by then it won't matter to me. It seems to me by switching to other bonds I would still get the same income and also have cash to play with from the tax loss. Would you discuss this in your column? — E. K.

A. Your proposal makes good investment sense. However, I suggest that in the future you purchase bonds with near-term maturities since these tend to hover close to par. As you have discovered, long-term bonds fluctuate more widely in accordance with money rates and economic conditions.

A good choice in short-term issues, Philadelphia Electric 8s of 1975 are call-protected to maturity and sell at a slight premium. Older high-rated bonds such as you describe carry coupon rates of 4.75-5.25 per cent. Sale of these would allow the purchase of seven Philadelphia 8s for each 10 of the bonds you now hold. Your current annual income would actually increase from $475-$525 per 10 bonds to $560 for the seven new bonds.

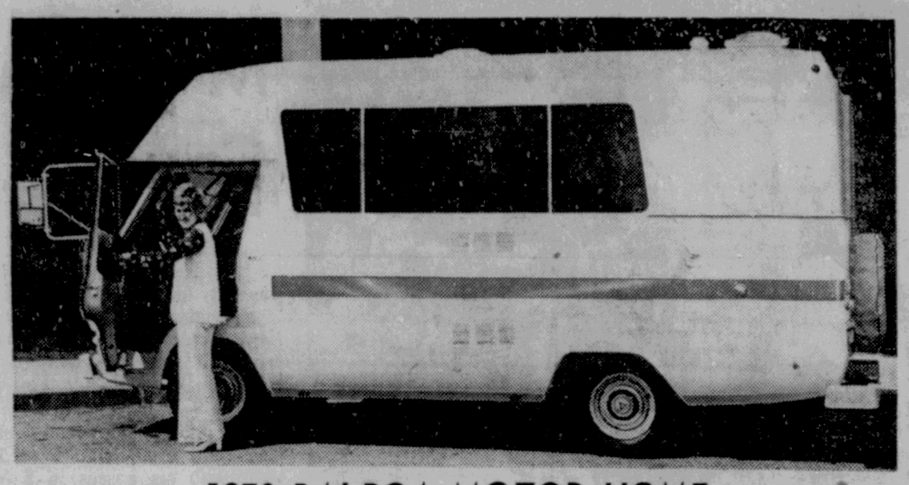
Q. Since income is our objective, most of our money is invested in 6.75, 7 and 8 per cent bonds. We also have 600 shares of American Hospital Supply. Do you feel that the prospects for this stock exceed the 8 per cent we would get on bonds? — A. H.

A. AHS, unlike your fixed-income bond holdings, is your only hedge against inflation. In the last decade sales have risen about 18 per cent annually, a record that is expected to continue. Sales gained 17 per cent in the nine months through September while earnings showed a 20 per cent increase to 55 cents a share. Proceeds from the proposed sale of 1.7 million common shares will be used for expansion. Until the shares are absorbed, market action will be sluggish. AHS products cover a wide range of medical, hospital and surgical needs, putting this well-established firm in the forefront as a beneficiary of the booming health market.

Hartford Group Backing Merger

HARTFORD (UPI) — Shareholders of Hartford Fire Insurance Co. have approved the proposed merger with the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.

At a special meeting yesterday, 17,681,057 shares of common stock or 80.37 per cent, were voted in favor of the merger, while 611,588 shares, or 2.78 per cent, where voted against the proposal.



1970 BALBOA MOTOR HOME

Built by Jensen Marine on a Dodge chassis, this self-contained Balboa motor home, sleeping four adults and two children, is short enough to be driven locally as a second car. A 200-horsepower V-8 engine and automatic transmission are standard. It is being shown this month at the Northern California Boat and Sport Show in Oakland and is sold in the North Bay by Artie-Vee Associates in San Rafael.

Wall Street Declines In Light Trade

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks declined today in lighter activity.

Turnover of around 10,000,000 shares was about two-million shares below that of the previous session.

Analaysts attributed the lag in activity to absence of participation by the banks, closed in observance of Veterans Day, and to a lack of stimulating news factors.

Shortly before the final bell, the UPI marketwide indicator showed a loss of 0.43 per cent on 1,570 issues crossing the tape. There were 843 declines and 454 advances.

The Dow Jones average of 30 blue chip industrials was off 3.36 at 859.69 near the close.

Herman Roseman of Argus Research Corp., an invtstment advisory service, said there was little in the news background to move the market either way.

He said there may be some hesitation among investors due to the antiwar march on Washington scheduled for this weekend.

Among the most active issues on the big board were Benguet, City Investing, Grolier Inc., Chrysler, and Computer Sciences.

Prices backed off on the American Stock Exchange in moderate trading.

New Maternity Shop Sets Opening In Northgate Mall

A new store called Mother To Be Maternity Shop will open Friday at 5200 The Mall, Northgate Shopping Center.

Owner Adelane Joseph of Greenbrae has leased 1,000 square feet next to Stribley's through Coldwell, Banker and Co. She has been in the maternity goods business for over 20 years. She will carry all popular lines but says she will have about six exclusive lines never shown in Marin before.

Regular hours of the shopping center will be observed throughout the week by the store, with evening openings on Wednesdays and Fridays. After Dec. 1, shopping hours in the center for the Christmas season will include evening openings during the entire business week.

HUGH TURNER of Novato, president and general manager of Radio KTIM in San Rafael, has been named a charter distributor of Earl Nightingale Communications, a division of Nightingale-Conant Corp., Chicagi, headed by radio personality Earl Nightingale.

Turner has completed a seminar in the company's management motivation and leadership training courses for business, industry and individuals. He will set up dealer organizations in this area.

GERHARD SCHMIDT-PETERSEN of Santa Venetia has been named to direct Security Pacific National Bank's international banking operations at Northern California headquarters in San Francisco as assistant vice president. He began his banking career 14 years ago in Hamburg, Germany, and resumed it in San Francisco in 1960. He is president of the German Language School of Marin in San Rafael.

Schmidt-Petersen Stuart

CHARLES R. STUART JR. of Larkspur, Bank of America vice president and director of advertising, has been elected a director of the Bank Public Relations and Marketing Association for a three-year term. He has been with the bank 18 years, has headed the advertising department since 1957 and has been a vice president for two years.

SMALL BUSINESS OPERATORS will find a wealth of information in Bank of America's recent Small Business Reporter edition on advertising. It lists step by step advertising plans that include budgeting, distribution of the budget, preparation of the advertising message, selection of media and checking results. Copies are available at all Bank of America offices.

LAURENCE E. (LARRY) McDERMOTT of San Anselmo has joined the creative staff of Hoefer, Dieterich and Brown, Inc., San Francisco. He was formerly head of a creative group at Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample, Inc., creative director at Lenne and Newell and a copywriter at Guild, Bascom and Bonfigli.

Blumenfeld Goldsmith

REAL ESTATE: Two new sales staff additions at the San Rafael office of Frank Howard Allen and Co. are Mrs. Betty Blumenfeld of San Rafael, and Mrs. Olga Goldsmith of Marinwood. Experienced in real estate, Mrs. Blumenfeld has returned to Marin with her husband from Oregon after an absence of 14 years. Mrs. Goldsmith was formerly a secretary in the production department at Crown Zellerbach Corp. for nine years.

CHARLES SCHWAB, president of Investment-Indicators, San Rafael, Marin County's only home-based (no load) mutual fund, reports that it recently topped the $21 million mark — an increase of 30 per cent since July 30 when the stock market hit its low for the year. The fund now has 11,000 shareholders throughout the United States.

Navy Contract

DALLAS (UPI) Collins Radio Co. has obtained an $8 million contract from Lockheed Aircraft Corp. to develop a communications system for the Navy's S3 A aircraft.

FIRST WORLD WAR

Memory Of 'Lost Idea'

By MARY LEYDECKER

A dwindling band of World War I veterans gathered in Mill Valley last night to reminisce about their war on the eve of what used to be Armistice Day, and after 51 years, they still couldn't find many pleasant things to remember.

Memories of living on turnips pulled from Belgian fields, lice-infested barracks, overbearing officers and lost conrades were quietly told by a handful of members of American Legion Post 284 and their guests.

William P. (Doc) Duhamel, retired Marin veterans service officer, seemed to speak for all the old veterans when he said sadly that "we've lost the idea — that we could gain peace in the world."

"There have been too many, too many of these wars," he added, saying that the meaning of Armistice Day has been lost after successive wars and an attempt to commemorate all veterans in one Veterans Day.

Duhamel, who served with the 91st Division in World War I, said that he didn't remember any real celebration on the first Armistice Day. "Nobody believed it," he said, and added that his unit spent the day playing cards and imbibing on the top floor of a house where a Signal Corps unit was quartered.

However, Armistice Days that followed were celebrated with much ceremony, he said. Duhamel remembered an early Armistice Day in Seattle where the street cars stopped running and all other activity ceased at 11 a.m. After a period of silence, taps sounded and the rest of the day was spent in rejoicing.

Although "all that is lost now," Duhamel's saddest thought was that a government which promised to take care of veterans, now has no more room in cemeteries in which to bury them.

Raymond Lasseter of San Francisco, another veteran of the 91st division, agreed with Duhamel that he "couldn't think of anything pleasant" to tell about World War I.

"The Germans and British had fought over Flanders for four years. There was no time

DAMAGE FROM BOMB — Rubble clutters a corridor on the 19th floor of the General Motors Building at Fifth Avenue and 59th Street in New York after a bomb exploded there this morning. At nearly the same time bombs also went off in the RCA Building in Rockefeller Center and in the Chase Manhattan Building in the financial district. The explosions were believed part of an antiwar demonstration. (See another picture, page 2.)

Bombs Rip Centers Of Business Giants

Explosions Believed Antiwar Act

NEW YORK (UPI) — The world headquarters of three business giants were heavily damaged by almost simultaneous bomb explosions early today in what appeared to be a carefully conceived protest against the Vietnam War and large corporations.

The explosion set to go off about 1 a.m. blew out walls, windows and elevator shafts at the RCA Building in Rockefeller Center, at international headquarters of the Chase Manhattan Bank in the Wall Street area, and at the new, gleaming General Motors Corp., headquarters on Fifth Avenue. Only one person was reported injured.

PHONE WARNINGS

Telephone warnings before the blasts were credited with keeping down the casualty toll.

United Press International today received an unsigned special delivery letter in which the writer claimed responsibility for the three bombings. The neatly typed letter, mailed yesterday afternoon in Manhattan, said: "During this week of antiwar protest, we set off explosions on the offices of Chase Manhattan, Standard Oil and General Motors."

The executive offices of the Standard Oil Corp., are located in the RCA building.

The letter attacked the Vietnam War and large U.S. corporations and specifically named "the rarely seen men like David Rockefeller of Chase Manhattan, James Roche and Michael Haider of Standard Oil who run the systems behind the scenes."

MAJOR TRIO

David Rockefeller is president and chairman of the board of Chase Manhattan. James M. Roche is chairman of General Motors and Michael L. Haider is chairman of Standard Oil of New Jersey.

In addition the Rockefeller family has some holdings in Standard Oil and they own the sprawling Rockefeller Center complex of office buildings.

The letter was mailed at the Grand Central station of the Post Office about 12 hours before the explosions and stated that custodians of the three buildings would be telephoned "30 to 60 minutes in advance to insure that the buildings would be clear of people." In each instance such a call was made.

The letter also noted that the bombs were set off "during this week of antiwar protest..."

The letter was turned over to the FBI which began an immediate investigation of the three explosions.

SAME TYPE

Deputy Fire Chief Anthony Costa said he believed the same type of explosive was used in at least two of the blasts—at G.M. and RCA.

Police Capt. William Maugh said at the RCA explosion site "we could smell the cordite

Explosion Hits Munitions Plant

HANOVER, Mass. (AP) — An explosion and fire ripped through a production building at a sprawling munitions plant here today, freeing an undetermined quantity of a riot control agent similar to tear gas.

Fire officials declared the blaze under control about an hour after it broke out and canceled orders for an area-wide evacuation.

Several firemen were overcome by the fumes, but their condition was not believed serious.

There were no reports of injuries as a direct result of the fire or explosion.

The agent was identified by a plant spokesman only as "CS." Its effect is similar to that of tear gas, he said.

A brisk wind and light rain kept the fumes from collecting in the area in any great concentration, firemen said.

Gas masks and resuscitators were rushed to the scene to aid the fire fighting efforts.

The building was used in the production of cartridge launchers for the CS substance, the spokesman said.

The initial explosion was thought to have originated in the launcher assembly area, but this could not be confirmed immediately.

Initial reports said one of the employees in the building sensed something wrong prior to the explosion and sounded an alarm that enabled everyone to get outside before the blast hit.

The building was damaged heavily, firefighters said.

At the height of the blaze, flames were jumping 75 to 100 feet high, firefighters reported, and there were fears the fire would spread to other parts of the plant.

The facility—owned by Atlantic Research Corp., a division of Susquehanna Cor.—also makes ammunition, land mines and hand grenades for the military.

A explosion and fire at the plant two years ago killed one person and injured 14 others.

The CS substance was stored in cannisters which began popping in the intense heat.

"They were blowing apart like popcorn," one firefighter said.

Hollis Enthusiastic Over Youth Conclave

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An adult attending the governor's conference on children and youth said today he believes the meeting will result in constructive long-range work toward solution of young people's problems in his community.

"All of us are looking with optimism" to future work by Marin County's 110-member delegation, most of them aged 11 through 25, said Marin schools Supt. Virgil Hollis told a reporter.

He said some of the Marin group was skeptical about what might come out of the two-day conference, one of two being held in the state to formulate California's report to next year's White House conference on youth.

But he said the enthusiasm of the majority is "welding the group together."

The Marin delegation includes youths from higher income families in Marin County, the poor, College of Marin students, Synanon, and "the hippie element."

Groups such as the Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary Club have helped pay the way of those who couldn't pay for themselves. The group came to Sacramento in Marin County school buses.

"We really have a live wire group," Hollis said. "They are well briefed on what will be encountered.

"Most of our youngsters want to really put these things into action. They want desirable changes. One of the things I like about our yongsters is the fact they are acting with responsibility," he said.

"They want change, but they want to do it within the existing framework. I think they're learning how this can be done through positive programs. For those who want little more agressive approach, they are being shown a constructive way to get change."

One evidence of their sincerity: The youths were much more interested in attending a "rap session" with state legislators than a dance scheduled at the same time, Hollis said.

Leader Of Baptists Hits Antiwar Foes

ATLANTA (UPI)—Dr. W. A. Criswell, president of the Southern Baptist Convention, charged last night that antiwar demonstrators were "traitors" and that liberals are termites who ought to get out of the Baptist church.

Criswell, of Dallas, Tex., preached the main sermon at the opening of the 148th Georgia Baptist Convention where he attacked arch liberals in the 11-million member Baptist denomination and then held a news conference where he denounced antiwar demonstrators.

The Baptist leader termed the liberals "termites who would destroy the church" by doing away with baptism by immersion. He said they would "throw our denomination into a Presbyterian form of government and no longer believe in the authority of the scriptures."

Emotions Mixed As War Dead Honored

WASHINGTON (AP) — America honored her veterans and the dead of all her wars today amid demonstrations of support for President Richard M. Nixon's course in Vietnam.

But as a presidential wreath was gently placed at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier amidst the autumnal reds and golds of Arlington National Cemetery, preparations continued for massive protests against the Nixon policy on Vietnam.

Perhaps 3,000 persons attended the traditional Veterans Day observance at the cemetery, many carrying miniature American flags that had been handed them on arrival at the national shrine.

When Mahalia Jackson sang the National Anthem, and during the singing of "God Bless America," many of the well-dressed spectators waved their flags.

Nixon, meanwhile, paid a visit to a Washington veterans' hospital, shaking hands and talking football with hospitalized veterans of conflicts dating back to the Spanish-American War—and including the present combat in Vietnam.

Many supporters of Nixon's Vietnam strategy had seized upon the holiday to show their support for the administration and to try to signify that there is in fact a "great, silent majority" as Nixon had said in his Nov. 3 Vietnam address.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said the day is "of special significance not just to veterans, but to all of us."

"At this late hour," Mansfield said, "it will serve no useful purpose to assess blame. Our joint responsibility is to strive to shorten the path to peace."

The date, which marked the end of fighting in World War I in 1918, was observed as Armistice Day until 1954. For the past 15 years it has been Veterans Day, a salute to American veterans of all wars.

Veterans Day 1969 comes only a week and a day after Nixon asked the nation for support on Vietnam and only two days before the start of a new round of war protests which are to wind-up with a mass rally in Washington Saturday.

Ardent supporters of the President hoped today's activities would become a counterdemonstration to the war protest. Civic, fraternal and veterans' organizations came up with or announced support for ad hoc groups opposing moratoriums and other "get out of Vietnam now" demonstrations.

Tydings Opposes Nixon Nominee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., said today he is opposed to confirmation of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., for the Supreme Court because his actions "have cast a shadow over his ethical sensitivities."

"The incursion of this shadow upon the sanctity of the Supreme Court at a time when its general reputation is at low ebb is something this great institution can ill afford," Tydings said.

Tydings, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee minority that voted against recommending confirmation of Haynsworth's nomination, made public a statement of his individual views.

Voting Violence

MANILA (AP) — Reports of violence poured in today as Filipinos voted for a president, vice president and members of Congress. It appeared that the number of political killings had passed 50 since the campaign opened in June.

British Argue Pay Increase For Queen

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson informed Parliament today that Queen Elizabeth II is running into the red financially and that a committee would be appointed to consider giving her a raise.

The announcement followed Prince Philip's comments on the royal finances in an American television interview, although Wilson told Parliament the decision to consider a royal increase had already been taken before that.

Philip's remarks on the drain in the Queen's wallet set off a clamor between royalists and antimonarchists in Britain.

The queen receives $1.14 million in annual income from the state plus $480,000 from property owned by the crown.

Wilson said that from 1951 to 1961 the queen's allowance as a whole showed a surplus, "although with wages and other costs steadily rising in the late 1950s and early 1960s the saving was very small in the last two years up to 1961."

"From 1962 onwards deficits were incurred, small at first, but increasing steadily each year."

Wilson said that last year it became clear that the annual royal grant was "falling far short of the total cost for which it had been provided."

It was estimated that the reserve would be exhausted and the queen would move into deficit on her state allowances by the end of 1970, he said.

Tanker Owners Pay $7.2 Million Damages

LONDON (AP) — The American owners of the Torrey Canyon paid $7.2 million to Britain and France today to settle oil pollution claims filed after the giant tanker grounded off southwest England two years ago.

Lloyd's insurance brokers said they believed it was the biggest settlement in marine history over oil claims. Some 35 million gallons of oil spilled from the broken tanker and fouled French and British beaches.

GIs Warned Against Protests In Uniform

WASHINGTON (A) — The Army says servicemen who wear their uniforms in this week's "march against death" demonstration in the nation's capital will be arrested, turned over to their commanders and perhaps court-martialed.

This warning came as the Pentagon alerted several thousand troops outside the Washington area for possible capital duty should violence erupt at the war protest demonstration.

"Army personnel who participate in these activities while in uniform will be in violation of Department of Defense and Department of the Army directives and regulations," the Army said

"Violators will be subject to apprehension and referral to their commanding officers for appropriate action."

Maximum punishment for "violating or failing to obey any general order or regulation" is two years at hard labor plus a dishonorable discharge.

Commanding officers could chose some form of less severe administrative-type discipline.

The armed forces police detachment of the Military District of Washington has been assigned to watch for violations during the scheduled activities from Thursday through Saturday.

Representatives from the Pentagon met with officials from the Justice Department on yesterday to discuss, among other things, where servicemen would be jailed for engaging in the demonstrations.

Basis for the arrests would be the Pentagon's Sept. 12 directive restricting "off-post demonstrations by members."

It reads in part: "Members of the armed forces are prohibited from participating in off-post demonstrations when they are on duty, or in a foreign country, or when their activities constitute a breach of law or order, or when violence is likely to result, or when they are in uniform . . ."

Under this provision, military authorities feel they can deal not only with those in uniform, but with dissident servicemen who wear civilian clothing. The Justice Department has said violence may be expected. And a serviceman not in uniform would be violating the regulation if he participated in some activity for which no permit has been issued.

In a closely related matter, Pentagon legal experts were debating whether action could be taken against servicemen who allow their names to be used publicly in behalf of war protest activities.

A full-page advertisement appeared in the Sunday edition of the New York Times listing what was said to be the names of 1,365 active duty personnel opposed to American involvement in Vietnam.

"We resent the needless wasting of lives to save face for the politicians in Washington," the ad said. "Join us in Washington Nov. 15 to bring all the GI's home now."

Draft Lottery Way Is Cleared

WASHINGTON (AP) — The way was cleared today for Senate approval of President Richard M. Nixon's proposal for a draft lottery as advocates of broader reforms agreed to deferral of the question until next year.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., leader of the draft reform forces, told reporters after a meeting with senior Senate leaders and members of the armed services committee that he will join their moves to block any amendments to the bill permitting a lottery.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., the committee chairman, said "I feel greatly encouraged that a bill can move along and will pass the Senate without amendments."

NEW YORK BOMB TARGET

A bomb blast on the 20th floor of the 70-story RCA building in New York City wreaked this damage early today, as a rash of bombings hit three major office buildings. (See story on page 1.) (AP Wirephoto)

New Airline Fare Hikes Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board says airline fares which went up only a month ago may have to be raised again.

Secor D. Browne told the annual convention of the National Passenger Traffic Association that air transportation still is underpriced even after the latest boost.

He did not indicate when the new fare rise might come or how much it would be.

To Build Plant

DETROIT (UPI) — B & T Machinery C. has announced plans to build a 135,000 square foot plant in Holland, Mich., to consolidate its die castings and rejection molding machinery manufacturing operations. B & T is a subsidiary of Ex-Cell-O Corp.

Ninth Of New Cars Fail Safety Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has given the public its first look at files showing new automobiles have failed an average of one in nine independent safety tests.

A portion of 800 reports on performance of 1968 and 1969 American and foreign automobiles in six standard safety tests was released yesterday by the Department of Transportation.

The department has promised, under heavy pressure from consumer champions in Congress, to bare the rest of the reports, a few at a time, during the next 30 days.

Summarizing the 800 reports, the department said the failure rate of the cars was 11.5 per cent, or one in nine. Tests of individual automobile components showed a failure rate of 10.1 per cent, or one in 10.

The tests, conducted by independent research firms under contract to the government between May 1968 and this September, turned up in individual vehicles defects in brake systems, unsafe tires and wheel rims, weak safety belts and safety belt anchors that came loose under pressure.

Dr. Robert Brenner, acting director of the department's National Highway Safety Bureau, warned against drawing drastic conclusions on the basis of the reports.

"We emphasize that each of these are initial test results, and that a pass rating is no more of an indication that all such vehicles are in conformity with the standards being attested, any more than one test failure is proof that it is not in conformity."

He added, however, "I don't think anyone can be very happy with that kind of failure rate."

When reports of a specific defect are checked back with the automobile manufacturer, Brenner said, they often are found to be in compliance with federal safety standards.

In three years the bureau has brought action against only two tire manufacturers and the maker of the Fiat auto for alleged safety violations.

Uniroyal Inc. was served notice last week that three of its tire brands are suspected of noncompliance. Some 80 investigations are in progress, Brenner said.

The six vehicle tests and the percentage rate of failure were: brake systems, 13.7; tires and rims, 12.3; steering control, 0; seat anchorage, 5.4; seat belt anchorage, 10.8; fuel tank spillage, 28.6.

The separate components tested and percentages of failure included brake hoses, 9.3; lamps, brake fluids, 11.8; tires, steering columns, doorlocks and seat belt assemblies, 13.8.

Russians Plan Fastest Auto

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Institute for Automobiles and Roads at Kharkov is trying to build the world's fastest car.

The newspaper Pravda Ukrainy reported that the institute is building a car it expects to reach the speed of sound—742 miles an hour.

The vehicle will be 33 feet long with gas turbine engines developing 5,500 horsepower.

Because of the high speed, the first tests will be remote controlled by radio rather than driven by a man, chief designer Vladimir K. Nikitin said.

Planes Duel Over Suez Canal Again

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli and Egyptian planes dueled over the Suez Canal today, and the Israelis claimed their airmen shot down three of the Egyptian jets.

This raised to 57 the number of Egyptian planes which Israel claims to have destroyed since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. The last claim was on Oct. 6, when the Israelis said they shot down three MIGs over the Israeli-occupied Sinai desert.

Israel admits to the loss of only 14 warplanes in action against all its Arab neighbors since the 1967 war.

Israel said all of its planes returned safely from the dogfight today.

An Israeli spokesman said the air battle took place about 8:30 a.m. over the southern part of the blocked waterway during an Israeli air raid on Egyptian targets.

The Israeli fliers brought down the three Egyptian jets with air-to-air missiles and gunfire, the spokesman said. He reported all the planes went down on the Egyptian side of the canal, that one disintegrated, the wings of another fell off, and the pilot of the third bailed out.

The dogfight raged from low levels up to a height of 20,000 feet, the spokesman said.

It was the second day of intense air activity over the canal. On Monday, Egyptian planes attacked Israeli positions at the northern and southern ends of the waterway, while Israeli planes attacked the Egyptian side of the Gulf of Suez and hit Egyptian military targets along the central sector of the canal.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Bomb Found

BERLIN (AP) — A package found in the West Berlin Jewish Community Center contained a two-pound plastic time bomb, police reported today.

The bomb did not go off, a spokesman said, because an alarm clock attached to the device did not function.

Bomb experts dismantled the device yesterday after it was found and the clock had stopped ticking.

Police said the bomb was set to go off at 11:30 but it could not be determinde which day.

Police believe it was put into the center sometime Sunday, the 31st anniversary of the Nazi "Crystal Night" when Jewish houses of worship in Germany were burned.

University Clash

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Eighty state police armed with nightsticks and mace forced more than 200 protesters out of a University of Texas cafeteria yesterday, then clashed with a larger crowd outside.

At least five men between 17 and 26 years old were arrested and two co-eds were injured outside when 2,000 persons, shouting "Pigs Off Campus, Pigs Off Campus," tried to keep police trucks from leaving. Glass doors were broken and dishes and overturned tables littered the cafeteria floor.

Seale Returns

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Black Panther leader Bobby Seale says he might act as his own attorney again at his retrial on conspiracy charges in Chicago even though his lawyer is now well and able to defend him.

"There's a point to be made," Seale told newsmen at San Francisco's Hall of Justice. "I might try to defend myself to make an example of what a black man is up against with the power structure."

Seale was flown from Chicago yesterday by commercial airliner under guard of three black federal marshals to await extradition of a Connecticut murder conspiracy indictment.

He was sentenced last week to four years in prison for contempt of court by U.S. Dist. Court Judge Julius Hoffman.

Ninth Tremblor

PASADENA (UPI) — The ninth in a series of earthquakes to hit Southern California since Oct. 1 was recorded yesterday, centered 30 miles off the coast from Point Arguello.

The California Institute of Technology Seismology Laboratory here said the temblor registered 4.5 on the Richter Schle. The shock was not felt on the mainland.

Turkey Woes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of turkeys found to contain heptachlor residue may have picked up the powerful pesticide from land treated for control of chiggers, according to Agriculture Department sources.

Chiggers, the same small mites which can cause humans to itch after working on lawns, are troublesome to turkey growers who want a nice, smooth bird to sell.

The department announced last Friday that 150,000 live turkeys and some four million pounds of turkey meat were held off the Thanksgiving market after heptachlor residue was found in some birds on Oct. 9 at a Minnesota processing plant.

About 90,000 of the turkeys were found to contain varying amounts of heptachlor epoxide, the pesticide's residue form.

Daring Escape

BERLIN (AP) — A 19-year-old East German corporal disarmed another border guard he was patrolling with at dawn today and escaped to the British sector of West Berlin before his companion could give the alarm, police reported.

The youth arrived with his submachine gun, 60 rounds of ammunition and the bolt from the other guard's carbine.

The police said he was the 513th uniformed East German to escape to West Berlin since the wall went up in 1961.

Egyptian Killed

HANNOVER, Germany (UPI)—Ali Naguib, 29, son of former Egyptian president Mohamed Ali Naguib, died of a fractured skull Sunday. Police said five students had been arrested in the death of Naguib, a student at Hannover Technological University. Police got an anonymous phone call saying a student had been injured in a duel, went to the school and found Naguib injured.

Up To Jury

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A jury should decide whether community standards were violated by a sketch in the show "Oh Calcutta," Judge Gerald J. O'Gara has ruled.

"The people are as much entitled to a jury trial as are the defendants, the municipal court judge said yesterday, rejecting a motion to dismiss charges and turning down a request for a pretrial hearing.

Actor Joe Roma and actress Ronda Copland are charged with giving a lewd performance.

Defense attorney Vasilios B. Choulos argued the arrests violated the constitutional right of free expression.

Shootout In Store Leaves Five Hurt

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A shootout in a downtown Houston department store today left five persons wounded, including three policemen and a woman clerk who had been taken hostage by a gunman.

Police identified the gunman who was also wounded, as a former convict, Frank Danfort Dick, 38. He was sought on a robbery warrant.

The wounded officers are Lt. Leo L. Michna, 40, in critical condition; detective Kenneth Waycott, 63, critical, and patrolman R.E. Carver, 46, in satisfactory condition.

Mrs. Elia Narvaez, 20, an employee of Foley's Department store, was shot in the side by a stray bullet.

About five minutes before the shooting, the Aaron Wolfson Jewelry Store was robbed about two blocks from the department store. An undetermined amount of cash and jewelry taken from the store was recovered after the shooting.

Witnesses said the man who robbed the jewelry store fled on foot and entered the main street entrance at Foley's.

Hamilton Wing To Change Name

The 78th Fighter Wing at Hamilton Air Force Base will adopt the name of the historic First Fighter Wing on Jan. 1, it was disclosed yesterday.

The First Fighter Wing, now assigned to Selfridge Air Force Base, Mich., but scheduled to be dissolved under recently announced Pentagon military cutbacks, fought in World War I and II and counted Capt. Edward V. Rickenbacker and Lt. Lloyd Andrews Hamilton, after whom Hamilton Air Force Base was named, among its members.

Col. Donald H. Lynch, commander of the 78th Fighter Wing, said the name change will have no effect on the composition of his 1,955-member unit. The wing will remain the parent organization of the 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Hamilton.

Flying Whatsit In Marin Skies

A smoking object with a colored tail — possibly a meteorite — or falling space debris — flashed through Marin skies shortly before 5 p.m. yesterday.

An unidentified woman telephoned Novato police to report that an object with a red tail had streaked through the sky and fallen in trees at the end of Rowland Boulevard. No object was found.

Other conflicting reports said the object fell east of Mount Tamalpais, San Rafael and in Fairfax.

Two Youths Deny Marijuana Count

Kent Allie Fishburn, 22, and Jeffrey Glyn Conti, 21, both of Santa Cruz, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of marijuana possession Sept. 10.

A jury trail was set for the week of April 6, 1970.

The two men were arrested when California Highway Patrol officers stopped their car for speeding. They said that a box in the rear of station wagon contained marijuana and reefer butts.

Guilty Plea To Possessing Weed

Paul Edward Giampoli, 20, of San Rafael, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to possessing marijuana at his home Sept. 26. A second felony charge of cultivating the weed was dismissed by Judge Peter Allen Smith.

Giampoli is to report to superior court Monday for setting of a sentencing date.

Hurt In Crash

Carole Rose Skulnick, 28, of 855 Canal Street, San Rafael, was reported in satisfactory condition at Marin General Hospital with a concussion and multiple bruises suffered yesterday when her camper pickup veered off Highway 101 near the Miller Creek overcross. The California Highway Patrol said the mishap occurred at 3:55 p.m.

to bury the dead," he remembered.

Although he similingly told of escaping "cooties," (World War I slang for lice) until he slept in a barracks formerly occupied by Germans, Lasseter said he has never wanted to go back to that part of the world.

Memories of heavy machine guns and unreasonable officers were told by Nicholas Cosgrave, another San Franciscan who served with the 91st.

"All we could find to eat was turnips" in Belgium where, he said, the civilians who had almost no food shared little apples with the soldiers.

After the three veterans of the 91st spoke, Post Commander Francis Mosher called on others in the room to tell of their experiences. Stories of how no parachutes were carried in most World War I planes, spending Armistice Day in quarantine in Hoboken, N.J. and more tales of dumb lieutenants followed.

The evening ended quietly with the old men retiring the colors and a simple prayer for their fallen comrades.

Man Is Found Dead In Hotel

Walter H. (Mutt) Dorrell, a San Rafael bartender, was found dead yesterday by maids cleaning his room at a local hotel.

Dorrell, 41, was last seen alive at 6 p.m. Saturday leaving the Escrow Tavern in San Anselmo, where he had been involved in a fight, according to San Rafael police. His assailant has been questioned and released pending further investigation and a coroner's autopsy report, police said.

Dorrell's fully clothed body was found at noon slumped near a bed at the Fleur de France Hotel at 720 B Street.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

Fairfax Driver's Injuries Minor

A 33-year-old Fairfax man was hospitalized yesterday after he deliberately drove his car off an embankment on the Sausalito to lateral yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

David Kron Frank, of 86 Las Guinas, was reported in good condition at Marin General Hospital where he was being treated for multiple bruises and a cut forehead.

The patrol said Frank told them he "wanted to end it all" and drove through a guard rail at 10:45 a.m. yesterday.

Suspect Denies Passing Checks

Robert Wayne Kitzmiller, 33, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to three charges of possessiong checks with intent to defraud.

A jury trial was set for the week of Dec. 8.

Kitzmiller was arrested Oct. 24 by San Rafael police who said that he had passed allegedly stolen checks earlier in the month at two San Rafael bars.

Probation, Fine In Loma Verde Burglary

Glenn Antonhy Richardson, 18, of Novato, yesterday was placed on one year probation and fined $250 by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court for burglarzing a Loma Verde home Aug. 6.

The judge also declared the offense to be a misdemeanor, noting that the youth had taken only some food from the garage of the home.

Woman Recovering From Gun Accident

Sandra Shawn, 25, of 24 Main Street, San Quentin was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital where she was being treated for an accidential gunshot wound.

Sheriff's deputies said that Miss Shawn shot herself in the left thigh last night while cleaning a gun.

Hearing Set Monday In Shooting

Walter Lee Hale, 51, accused of shooting Petaluma officer Vilho Ahola, was arraigned yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court and held on $20,000 for a hearing Monday at 1:30 p.m.

Hale was charged with assault with intent to commit murder and assault with a deadly weapon. Both counts carry maximum sentences of 15 years upon conviction.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon appointed Norman Chown of the Sonoma County Public Defender's office as Hale's counsel. In lieu of bail, Hale is being held in the Sonoma County Jail, Santa Rosa.

Police accused Hale of shooting the officer Friday morning while Ahola was attempting to help Hale's whife, Helen, remove her things from their home at 718 I Street.

Hale owned and operated Walt's Catering Service in Santa Venetia from 1956 to 1961 and Walt's Cafe at 4200 Redwood Highway, Terra Linda, from 1963 to 1965 since moving to Petaluma he has been employed as a driver for the Empire Catering Co.

Ahola, who was shot in the neck, is reported in satisfactory condition at Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital. Doctors reported that it will be several days until the extend of paralysis can be determined.

Another Whale Sighted In Bay

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The second whale sighting in four days in San Francisco Bay was reported yesterday, and a Coast Guard officer speculated that another big mammal might have entered inland waters.

"Maybe we're becoming a new breeding ground for them," said Lt. Gary Hall, referring to reports last Thursday that the first whale was seen moving to river waters at the end of the bay "like a salmon heading up to spawn."

The 30-footer, however, was believed to have turned around and rejoined a school migrating southward along the Pacific Coast.

Descriptions were similar both Thursday and yesterday, "but of course all those big gray whales look pretty much the same," Hall said.

Young Neighbors Face Car Charge

Two Mill Valley youths were booked into Juvenile Hall yesterday on suspicion of possession of a stolen auto after the California Highway Patrol stopped them on a traffic violation.

Booked were Warner Bayley Kingsbury, 16, of 8 Magdalena Court, who was the driver of the car, and John Hanley of 14 Magdalena Court.

The patrol said the youths were stopped for driving on the wrong side of yellow lines on a Highway 101 frontage road in Mill Valley.

Innocent Plea To Burglarizing Firm

Kenneth James Hough, 22, of Novato, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of burglarizing a San Rafael landscape firm Oct. 23. A jury trial was set for the week of Dec. 9.

Hough was arrested after police found him and 16-year-old companion near the Turf and Tree firm at 625 Grand Avenue. He is accused of taking seven chain saws valued at $2,200.

Volunteer Firemen Retire In Novato

Robert J. Busher and Thomas Tharsing retired last night from the Novato Volunteer Fire Department, Novato Fire Chief Jack Kidder announced today.

Busher is a past president and secretary of the volunteers and served as volunteer assistant chief from 1955 to 1959. He was also on the board of fire commissioners from 1961 to 1964, Kidder said. Tharsing is a past president of the volunteers.

when we went up." Cordite is a rope-like explosive material.

The RCA building blast occurred on the 20th floor near a bank of elevators in the 70-story skyscraper.

"It was one hell of a big noise and it scared me to death," said maintenance man William Lynch.

At least half a dozen patrons in the plush Rainbow Room on the 65th floor of the building had to walk down because the elevator was knocked out of service.

At. G.M., the blast ripped through a service elevator on the 19th floor. The one injury was sustained by the elevator operator when his car plunged from the 17th to the 11th floor before it stopped.

At the Chase Manhattan building, the explosion on the 16th floor tore out several plate glass windows and caused other "extensive damage," police said.

Judge Asks Youth Court To Take Case

The case of James Andrew Franz, 18, of 38 Francis Avenue, Larkspur, was referred to juvenile probation officers yesterday by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court for possible transferral to juvenile court.

Franz is accused of burglarizing a Kentfield home Oct. 31.

He and a 17-year-old companion, Stephen M. Waste of 119 Hill Drive, Kentfield, were arrested shortly after Mrs. Dolores Burke arrived at her home at 235 Toyon Way and found the front door open.

As she entered the house, she told police that she heard a horn honk and saw a youth running down the hill behind her house to a waiting car.

Four pills were found outside the back door, but nothing else appeared to be missing, she said.

The youths were arrested after a neighbor spotted the license number of their car.

Franz is to return to court Nov. 24.

Woman Driver Denies Charge

Florence Constance Stoltman, 41, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a felony amnslaughter charge stemming from the death of a 6-year-old boy in San Rafael Sept. 23.

A jury trial was set for the week of March 30, 1970.

Mrs. Stoltman was the driver of a car which collided with a young bicyclist, throwing the child from the bike and killing him.

Pot, Motorcycle Stealing Denied

James Robert Chrisler, 20, of Mill Valley, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of possessing marijuana Sept. 10 and stealing a motorcycle in 1965.

A jury trail was set for the week of Dec. 15.

Chrisler was stopped by Mill Valley police for fraudulent registration of his motorcycle, and a check showed that the cycle's number matched that of a machine stolen in 1965. Officers also reported that Chrisler had a bag of marijuana with him.

Burglary Case Trial Date Set

Edgar Raymond Hale, 42, of Novato, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of burglarizing La Petite Auberge restaurant in San Rafael Oct. 7.

A jury trial was set for for the week of March 30, 1970.

Hale was arrested when police who came to answer a silent burglar alarm found him in the restaurant.

Requiem Mass for Fred Tovani, a versatile amateur artist who had lived in Marin for 25 years, will be offered at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow in St. Anselm's Church, San Anselmo, with entombment at Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

Tovani, 75, died Sunday in a local hospital after a brief illness.

A native of Lucca, Italy, he had lived in California for 65 years, in San Francisco before moving to Marin.

He was a retired cement mason, last with the Barrett Construction Co. in San Francisco for 25 years.

As a hobby, Tovani made and played his own guitars. He also did decorative copper work, oil painting and wood carvings.

Survivors are his wife, Velma Tovani of the home at 20 Sierra Avenue, San Anselmo; a daughter, Jane Anderson of San Luis Obispo; a son, Gordon Tovani of San Rafael; a brother, Americo Tovani of Berkeley, four sisters, Nina Spencer of San Anselmo, Josephine Crall of Los Gatos, Albertina Frediani and Stella McDonnell of San Jose, and four grandchildren.

He was a member of the Holy Name Society of St. Anselm's Church and the El Retero Retreat Association, Los Gatos.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo. Spiritual bouquets are preferred.

PAUL ZIMMERMAN

Graveside services for Paul F. Zimmerman, 55, of Claremont, Los Angeles County, one-time San Rafael resident, will be held at 10:30 a.m. Thursday at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Zimmerman, western regional manager for Libby Products Division, died Sunday in Claremont after a short illness.

He previously had worked for Libby out of the Merchandise Mart in San Francisco, and had lived in San Rafael for a short time in the late 1940s. He was a native of Richmond.

Zimmerman was a member of the advisory board of Mount St. Joseph's Orphanage in San Francisco, a member of St. Mary's College Associates, the Knights of Columbus and the Sierra Club.

He served as a captain in the infantry during World War II and was awarded the Purple Heart and Bronze Star Medals.

Surviving are his wife, Mary, three sons, Stephen, William and Peter, and four daughters, Jane, Joanne, Mary and Susanne, all of Claremont, and three brothers, Carl H. of San Rafael, Frederick A. of Mill Valley and J. William Zimmerman of Kentfield.

A Requiem Mass will be celebrated at 9 a.m. tomorrow at Our Lady of Assumption Church, Claremont. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at the church.

IT WAS A MOVING SIGHT

Motorists who happened along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at about 3 a.m. yesterday had an eye-opened when they came across this house moving under the Wolfe Grade underpass. The house, formerly used in Bon Air as a model home for the Schultz Development Co. was on a one-mile journey to a new location on a lot between Laurel Grove Avenue and Broadway, Kentfield. Wacker and Sons of Petaluma, house movers, reported the owner was Dick James. (CHP photo by Sgt. James Duke)

Fairfax Snuffs Candlelight Vigil Plan

Use of the Fairfax park for an evening candlelight ceremony Saturday by the Fairfax Vietnam War Moratorium Committee was denied last night by the city council.

The council approved the committee using the park in the daytime Saturday, though the vote was unnecessary since there are no restrictions on day use.

The council chambers were packed for the lengthy, sometimes bitter discussion, and applause erupted frequently, primarily in response to speeches by persons opposed to the planned demonstration.

Council members against the evening use worried about the welfare of the town, the outsiders who might come in, damage to the park, the apparent lack of persons who will be responsible, safety, police protection and the length of the demonstration.

"We're concerned about the welfare of the entire town," said Mayor Francis J. O'Connell. "We don't know who is going to come in. Somebody has got to be responsible for this."

He repeatedly urged the committee to shorten the demonstration, either by ending at sunset or breaking it into two parts.

Councilman Robert R. Souza questioned police protection and strongly opposed the council being involved in any way. "The group is now asking the city council to endorse their affairs. I really feel it's going to engender some problems" he maintained.

But the council was not unanimous. "I can see being against the march or the rally, but I can't understand people being against a religious service," said Councilman Frank J. Egger.

"I think this is getting to be a political decision," said Councilman Adelaide P. Wilson, maintaining any group that fulfills the requirements should be permitted to use the public facility.

Hugh D. Winn, speaking for the committee, promised the committee would pay for electricity it used and would clean up afterward. If chemical toilets are required, the committee would probably also pay for them, he said.

He said a list of 63 persons who are over 21 and on the committee has been provided the city to indicate responsiblity and offered to have a list of persons as monitors, together with a time schedule.

Any rules regarding safety, such as ones on use of candles, would be followed, he said.

"We want to cooperate, we want to do what's right," said Winn, who is a member of the city planning commission.

The discussion was punctuated with a series of motions and substitutes which left much of the audience bewildered.

Souza first moved to grant use of the park during the day but it died for lack of a second. He then moved to deny use of the park at night.

O'Connell seconded but later withdrew the second and moved to permit use of the park from noon to 3 p.m. and 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Mrs. Wilson made a substitute motion to permit use from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. and that failed 3-2, with her and Egger on the losing end.

Before a vote on O'Connell's motion, Councilman Cornelis Van Vleit substituted a motion to permit use from noon to sundown (the same as Souza's first motion) and it passed, 3-2 with the same split.

Souza then recommended the committee be permitted to use the city stage and the council agreed.

Later in the evening, at the request of Lee Nelder, the mayor declared today Veteran's Appreciation Day in Fairfax.

Council Balks At Hub Thoroughfare Plans

San Anselmo's plans to widen Center Boulevard eventually were stymied last night by the Fairfax City Council in anticipation of the county's balanced transportation study, despite warnings the study would not be a "magic solution."

San Anselmo wants to change the federal aid designation from Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to Center Boulevard because widening Center would cost about half as much as widening Drake, according to Charles R. Leitzell, San Anselmo's director of public works.

For San Anselmo to gain approval for the change, Fairfax would have to ask for a similar switch on the two thoroughfares within its boundaries, Leitzell told the council.

Following a long discussion with San Anselmo officials and residents, Fairfax voted 3-2 to table the matter and obtain more information. Councilmen Adelaide P. Wilson and Frank J. Egger opposed the motion.

Leitzell explained the major difference in the cost of widening the two streets is in right-of-way, a cost the federal government will not pay in its secondary road system.

Mayor Francis J. O'Connell commented, "This could be a piecemeal Highway 17."

"Not at four lanes," Leitzell replied, reporting San Anselmo has said it will not widen Center until the route for 17 is designated and funded.

Sarah Nome, a San Anselmo resident who has strongly opposed changing Center Boulevard and also the reconstruction of the Hub intersection, told the Fairfax council there had been widfespread opposition to the plans.

San Anselmo residents fear Center would become Highway 17, she said. She claimed Widening Center in San Anselmo would cost $7 million, compared to Leitzell's estimate of about $1 million.

"We don't want a freeway through the valley any more than you do," said San Anselmo Councilman James F. Reed. The future street plans of both San Anselmo and Fairfax are predicated on a nearby freeway, probably Highway 17, to West Marin.

Two councilmen had their own solutions to the problem. O'Connell proposed making Center one-way east in the morning and Drake one-way west at night, while Councilman Cornelis Van Vliet commented, "I think we could simplify this by making Fairfax and San Anselmo one city."

The Fairfax City Council Also:

SENIOR CITIZENS — Voted to continue the senior citizens program even if the county quits supplying matching funds.

RECREATION — Approved the appointment of Anthony J. Barbera as part-time parks and recreation director at a salary of $275 a month.

VOLUNTEERS — Authorized volunteer firemen as young as 17 if they have parental permission.

MEETING — Set an adjourned meeting for 8 p.m. Nov. 24 to finish the agenda and to discuss the future of the Fairfax Festival.

Novatan Hired As Marinwood Firefighter

Dennis Gerbich, 25, volunteer fireman from Novato, was hired last night by the Marinwood Fire Commission as a regular fireman in Marinwood.

Gerbich will start at a salary of $631 per month. He succeeds firemane James Jackson, who will leave this Saturday to become a police officer in San Rafael.

Fire Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield reported to the commissioners that the fire department's youth work-experience program is operating successfully.

"It's a pilot program," said Bonfield. "We're working with juvenile hall to furnish training as firemen to boys who want to learn the trade." He said three boys, aged 17 and 18, have taken training with the department so far.

The fire commissioners authorized the fire chief to sell three old fire hoses, each 50 feet long, for the best price he can get.

20-Year-Old Man Admits To Burglary

Allen George Wheeler, 20, of Pinole, admitted yesterday in Marin Superior Court that he burglarized a San Anselmo residence Jan. 16.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson ordered Wheeler to return to court Dec. 15 for sentencing.

Petalumans Seek Parking Off Streets

The Petaluma City Council last night resurrected two committees to develop more off-street parking in the downtown core area so that street parking can be banned on narrow Petaluma Boulevard.

City Engineer David A. Young said the most economical way of increasing the traffic flow on the boulevard without going to the expense of widening would be to ban parking and to encourage trucks to use a bypass.

LANES RISKY

"By banning parking from D to Mary streets and using the street curb to curb, the lanes could be enlarged to 11 or 12 feet," he said, calling the present nine foot lanes very dangerous.

He said that establishing a mandatory truck route using Bridge, Hopper and D streets, that 30 to 50 per cent of the traffic could be removed, thereby prolonging the usefulness of the street for another 10 or 15 years.

The engineer said the same plan to ban parking could also be used to solve congestion problems on Washington Street from Kentucky to Keokuk streets.

Youngs said that 70 parking spaces would be lost on Petaluma Boulevard and 28 on Washington Street. Showing that vacant land is available in the downtown district for more parking, Young named six locations that could provide up to 249 off street parking spaces.

The council agreed that if it were to remove the street parking, it would be part of its responsibility to businessmen ot provide new parking facilities.

REPORT NECESSARY

Councilman Fred V. Mattei, a downtown businessman, said the council would have to prepare a full report on parking plans and detailed costs before the merchants should be approached about participation in a parking assessment district.

Members of two committees which had been working last spring on the core area plan to redevelop the downtown section were asked to resume meetings to consider parking problems.

Mayor Helen Putnam assigned Councilmen David W. Brainerd, Robert A. Brunner and Mattei to meet with the committees and to prepare recommendations for the council on the banning of parking and the locations of possible new parking lots.

Crash Of Plane Is Storm Center

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — The Italian Communist Party tried to kick up a political storm today over the crash of a U.S. Navy jet fighter off Sicily.

Despite official U.S. statements that the Corsair II fighter carried no weapons, the party newspaper L'Unita asked in a headline: "Did (the plane) have nuclear warheads aboard?"

L'Unita said in its story:

"Despite the circumstances in which the accident happened and the very grave hypotheses deduced from it, the Italian authorities have not felt the need for an official clarification."

The paper also carried a detailed story of the 1966 crash of an American B52 carrying hydrogen bombs off Palomares, Spain.

South Viets Hard Hit By Attackers

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese forces have suffered comparatively heavy losses in a week of fighting around the Bu Dop Special Forces camp 85 miles north of Saigon, official sources reported today.

The sources said 15 allied soldiers have been killed, 75 wounded, three armored personnel carriers and four trucks have been destroyed and half a dozen American helicopters have been shot down.

A total of 60 North Vietnamese troops were reported killed, but one officer said the kill ratio — four enemy dead to one South Vietnamese or U.S. soldier — "is substantially on the bad side."

"The casualties are heavy compared to the enemy losses," said another field officer.

Most of the allied casualties have been Vietnamese tribesmen, mercenaries paid and led by American Green Beret troops.

"It's a Vietnamese Army show as far as the ground fighting is concerned," said one American officer. "We are working with them closely. They own the entire area and so they ought to be involved. Back in May we'd have gone in. Now we are working with them. We are up to our necks in Vietnamization."

Mobile Strike Force troops battled about 400 North Vietnamese six miles south of Bu Dop for six and one-half hours last night.

American helicopters from the 1st Air Cavalry Division supported the mercenaries, and two were shot down and a third one hit by machine-gun fire. Two American crewmen were wounded.

A mile away, North Vietnamese troops for the second time in four days attacked an American artillery base called Jerri that was set up last week to support Bu Dop. The North Vietnamese pumped 30 rounds if 120mm and 82mm mortar shells into the base, killing five Americans and wounding five.

Farther south, 67 miles northwest of Saigon, a U.S. reconnaissance plane sighted North Vietnamese troops 10 miles from the Cambodian border and called in dive bombers. Troops from the 1st Cavalry moved into the area after the bombing and found the bodies of 37 North Vietnamese soldiers. There were no U.S. casualties.

In the Mekong Delta, troops of a North Vietnamese regiment continued their attacks on South Vietnamese militiamen guarding the district town of Tri Ton.

U.S. headquarters reported another American helicopter was shot down 51 miles northeast of Saigon, wounding one crewman.

Thirty-three enemy rocket and mortar attacks were reported between 8 a.m. yesterday and 8 a.m. today. The U.S. Command said 13 of the attacks caused casualties or damage and seven Americans were wounded.

Nureyev Accused On Dance Slap

TRIESTE, Italy (AP) — Italian ballerina Giovanna Lisa Mariani filed an assault and injury charge yesterday against Rudolph Nureyev, the Russian ballet star, saying he slapped her during a performance of "Giselle."

Many of the audience who saw Miss Mariani reel back from her partner Sunday thought the slap was a part of the show.

Nureyev was not available for comment.

Wallace Has Talk With Saigon Official

SAIGON (AP) — Former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, third party presidential candidate in 1968, had a talk yesterday with Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam in the South Vietnamese Foreign Ministry.

Wallace, who is touring Southeast Asia, told Lam the American people "are impatient with the war" and want it to end soon "in a context of honor."

Teen Skyjacker To Youth Court

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A 14-year-old high school student who tried to hijack an airliner faces a juvenile court hearing Thursday.

David L. Booth, a freshman at suburban Norwood High School, was weeping when turned over to Hamilton County juvenile authorities by FBI agents after federal officials declined to file charges.

U.S. Atty George Kline of Lexington, Ky., said following the incident yesterday that the federal government does not have facilities to handle prosecution of juveniles.

The youth's father, Norris L. Booth, signed an affidavit charging his son is incorrigible and placed him in the hands of Juvenile Court Judge Benjamin S. Schwartz.

Council, Trustees Plan Joint Session

High density, low cost housing and its effect on the city and schools will be discussed tomorrow at a joint dinner meeting of the Petaluma City Council and board of education at 7:30 p.m. at the Green Mill Inn.

Planning and proposed school sites will also be reviewed at the joint study session.

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 11, the 315th day of 1969, with 50 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1918 fighting in World War I was halted with the signing of the armistice.

In 1921, President Warren Harding dedicated the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery.

In 1965 a United Air Lines jetliner crashed and burned while landing at Salt Lake City, killing 42 of the 90 persons aboard.

Also in 1965, Rhodesia declared its independence from Britain. England declared the action treasonable and announced a series of economic sanctions.

A thought for the day: Eugene Field said, "I'm sure no heart goes wrong that's told 'Good bye, God bless you!'"

The Days When They Were Rare

CALIFORNIA, Mo. (UPI)— When you see an airplane fly over your house these days, you don't even look up. But 50 years ago a plane flight was as newsworthy as today's space flight.

A story printed in The California Democrat 50 years ago reported: "Another aeroplane passed over California Wednesday evening going east. The pilot flew pretty low, and the town cop could nearly get his number and could tell whether he was exceeding the speed limit or not."

Best Course Of Action: Rely On Your Brain, Not A Proverb

The trouble with relying on proverbs and rules is that they steer you in opposite directions. "Don't look a gift horse in the mouth," you are told by the arbiters of etiquette. But "beware the Greeks even when they bear gifts," is advice that you can't afford to ignore. Your best course at the bridge table is to rely on your brain instead of a proverb.

'FREE' FINESSE

West's club opening lead gave South a "free" chance to finesse. He gratefully played a low club from the dummy, only to discover that West's gift bore a price tag.

East won with the queen of clubs and fired back the jack of hearts. South stepped up with the ace of hearts, hoping that he wouldn't have to risk the finesse, but his caution came too late. East got in with the ace of diamonds (South would have been safe if West had held this ace) and led the ten of hearts. The defenders then defeated the contract with three hearts, one diamond and one club.

REFUSE GIFT

South should make his contract by refusing the gift of the club finesse at the first trick. Declarer takes the ace of clubs and leads diamonds at once to force out the ace. Even if East then cashes the top clubs, declarer is safe since dummy's eight of clubs will eventually stop the suit.

Whenever South regains the lead he can take the game and rubber with four diamonds, three spades, one heart and at least one club.

SOUTH UNLUCKY

South was unlucky to find both club honors, the ace of diamonds and the king of hearts in unfavorable position, but he had no need to rely on luck. What's more, the opening lead could not possibly be a fourth-best card and was therefore likely to be the "top of nothing." If so, there was no advantage in trying a finesse that was sure to lose.

What do you say?

Answer: Pass.

You have excellent trump support for hearts, but the hand is too weak for any response. You would respond if you had a queen instead of any of the low cards.

Canal Proving To Be Expensive Item

HELSINKI, Finland (UPI)— The Saimaa Canal, built by special agreement between the governments of Finland and the Soviet Union, will cost Finland next year 20 times more than it is expected to earn.

The state budget for 1970 estimates the total canal cost at about $3 million, while the revenue is expected to be about $160,000.

'ROYAL HUNT' STAR

From King Lear To Pizarro Role

By GARY TISCHLER

How does an actor immerse himself in the stage flesh of one character when the part insistently prods and haunts him with echoes and fragments of another character?

That's been the problem facing David Stiers, College of Marin actor-in-residence, while parparing for his role as the Spanish Conquistador Pizarro in the College of Marin Drama Department's production of Peter Schaffer's "The Royal Hunt of the Sun," which opened last weekend at the Fine Arts Theater.

Performances also are scheduled tomorrow, Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

Stiers, a six-year veteran of the California Shakespeare Festival at Los Gatos, delivered a critically acclaimed performance as the Bard's "King Lear" in this year's festival, and Pizarro, for at least an act and a half is Lear all over again.

"It's uncanny," said Stiers, a tall, imposing figure who looks suitably solemn with his dark beard. "It was uncomfortable at first trying not to be aware of it. I had to catch myself, trying not to repeat the same gestures, the same moves."

"Pizarro is not mad, but they're both alienated, cynical and disgusted," Stiers added. "They both have an assumed superiority and a failure to believe in anything. The word nothing occurs many times in both their lines. And the last scene in both plays ends over a dead person."

Yet there are differences.

"Lear very rarely speaks to anyone," Stiers explained, "His part is almost all acclamation and statements whereas Pizarro really talks to people."

Stiers, a 26-year-old native of Illinois, has a string of credits with the Shakespeare Festival as well as being a member of the Committee Revue and the Committee Theater. His Shakespearean roles have included Duncan in "Macbeth," Francis Flute in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Sir Andrew Aguecheek in "Twelfth Night," the title role in "Richard III," the Dromio twins in "A Comedy of Errors," and many others.

A professional rooted in traditional theater, Stiers talks about his work knowingly without being academic, enthusiastically without tooting his own ego. He considers the audience a key to the success of a particular performance.

"The best audience we had for 'Lear' was very small," he recalls. "It was only about a two-thirds house. It was perfect cross-section. They didn't come because they felt it was supposed to be good and they ought to see it. It was an unbearably hot afternoon. They were there because they wanted to see it and they literally devoured the play. They had pefect vibes.

"A good audience is responsive and open," he said. "There has to be some kind of group consciousness, a psychic energy at work. You shouldn't have to cry yourself to make your audience cry. Rather, you should show them why there is a reason to cry. That's something totally different."

Stiers seems to have a genuine affection and respect for Shakespeare.

"A lot of it is in the writing," he said. "In Schaffer's play, most of it seems to be two forces butting against each other—Pizarro and the Inca emperor Atahuallpa—a series of confrontrations. I don't think we'll exhaust all the ideas in the play but in Shakespeare, it's something different. He presents so many alternatives. Nothing is black and white. It's all so rich and complex."

Although an admirer of the living theater, Stiers prefers to keep things on a personal level between an actor and audience, and not necessarily a physical one.

"In a performance, you ought to be able to get the audience to focus on their own being — what they are and what they aren't, what they should and should not be," he said. "It works for myself. Sometimes I can dig down into my own unpleasantness, my own follies and ugliness and bring them out to where you can look at it."

Stiers is by no means mired in the Shakespearean groove. He'd like to try other things.

"I've always wanted to do Cyrano, probably because I'm an incurable romantic," he said. "And Hamlet, before I become too old. Some Chekhov. I'd like to do films, but I've never really had a chance. I don't know why. Possibly because they don't really want actors. I did perform for a friend at Stanford who was filming a chapter of Malcolm Lowry's "Under the Volcano" for his graduate thesis. It's something totally different. There's absolutely no continuity."

He's enjoyed working with the College of Marin students on "Royal Hunt."

"They're amazing," he said. "They catch on so fast. And they have the kind of energy and enthusiasm that you tend to lose when you turn professional."

Black Point Master Plan Is Snagged

A legal technicality caused the Novato Planning Commission last night to postpone until 8 p.m., Dec. 8 consideration of the master plan for the Black Point planned community. (Related story, page 17.)

City Atty. Clark M. Palmer Jr. in a written opinion stated that zoning on a parcel of property does not carry over to the city when it is annexed from the county.

This meant that the 710 acres owned by John Kenney, south of Highway 37 and west of Black Point, was not zoned for a planned community. It must be zoned as such before city planners can consider the master plan, according to Planning Director Brian W. Mattson. The master plan calls for 200 single family homes, 300 apartments and 1,800 mobile homes sites as well as a shopping center and a 75-acre lake.

The commission then voted 6-0 with Commissioner William Wilson absent, to ask the Novato City Council to pass an interim zoning ordinance for the land so that the commission can consider the master plan.

Mattson said that his staff would examine past annexations to see if this ruling affected them.

The commission also denied use permits to William Wentworth for a car wash and Dr. John R. Glassmaker for a veterinary clinic, both on the east side on Highway 101, north of Vallejo Avenue. The vote was 4-2 with Commissioners Eugene McGillicuddy and Kay England voting against the denial. Mattson had asked for a continuance until January to see what the city's planning consultants would come up with for the economic use of the land owned by Emil Renati.

An application by Eric L. Hollowell for a variance to construct a carport within 4.5 feet of the side property line at 5 Lambert Way was continued indefinitely at the request of the applicant.

A Dim Outlook Given On Downtown Novato

The downtown area of Novato is so badly fragmented and so limited in function that it cannot compete effectively as a central shopping area without determined action by property owners and the city.

This was one of the findings of the planning consultants Sedway and Cooke in a report on the land uses of the downtown area, presented in a report last night to the Novato Planning Commission. The study was given to the downtown study panel last Thursday.

The study included 437 acres acres in the present and projected downtown area of Novato. Of this, 110 acres or 26 per cent was occupied business and 107 acres were vacant. The remaining acreage is in residential use.

"Large quantities of land for new development are available in the downtown if equitable and econonic means can be found to develop them," the report said. It referred to the low swamp land which must be filled before being used.

The downtown area has a small but emerging financial, professional and office role that could be "an important catalyst for development and redevelopment," according to the report.

The report suggests the possibility of a city program to limit development outside the immediate downtown area and property owners, assemblying smaller sites to into larger ones to be held for future development. It did not offer any suggestion on how individual landowners could be made to pool their property for large development.

In the downtown space already constructed, the survey shows that 25 per cent is used for food services, 6 per cent for general merchandise, 4 per cent for clothing and shoes, 8 per cent for furniture, 19 per cent for all other retail, 7 per cent for financial institutions, 11 per cent for offices, 14 per cent for services and 6 per cent vacant.

The area studied is an irregularly shaped triangle from Atherton Avenue on the north, east of Highway 101 to south of Novato Creek, west along South Novato Boulevard and Novato Boulevard coming back to north of Grant Avenue to Highway 101.

City Street Lights Irk Neighbors

Complaining that Marin County requires Los Angeles freeway lights for Tiburon's residential areas, the Tiburon City Council last night directed the planning commission to draft a master street lighting plan for Tiburon Hills.

The action came after residents in the neighborhood complained street lights were far too bright for the newly developed hillside community.

The council also ordered temporary changes for eight lights to provide minimum light in the neighborhood until the master plan is adopted. It also directed City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose to investigate costs of trading in existing "streamlined" poles for something more aesthetic.

Councilman Denis T. Rice, noting the county requires the "streamlined" light standards in all new developments said the lights are the type you'd find on a Los Angeles freeway and that "streamlined is a euphemism for grubby lights."

The Tiburon City Council also:

PREZONING — Approved second reading of an ordinance prezoning property at Mar West Street and Tiburon Boulevard, owned by Fred G. Zelinsky, as a planned development zone prior to the annexation of the property into the city. The property previously was in the City of Belvedere.

SIGNS — Postponed action on a proposed sign ordinance to Dec. 8 when a full council could be present. Councilmen Thomas E. Drohan and William R. Bremer were absent.

RESOLUTION — Slightly modified the resolution declaring the city's intention to condemn property owned by the Northwestern Pacific Railroad along Tiburon Boulevard.

BCDC — Directed Planning Director Wayne E. Moody to attend the board of supervisors and San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission meetings to represent the city's view that public access be guaranteed to the Strawberry Cove waterfront under proposed development plans.

CLOSED SESSION — Took no action following a closed meeting to discuss pending litigation.

The ratel is a badgerlike animal of Africa and India.

Tiburon Still Critical Of County Leash Law

Despite a long and detailed discussion of the county's new animal control ordinance, the Tiburon City Council last night once again postponed action on a proposal to adopt the county's ordinance as its own.

The proposed ordinance was referred again to the public services committee for further study and recommendations.

Action on the ordinance had been postponed until last night so Mel L. Morse, executive director of the County Humane Society, could explain the society's interpretation of the enforcement requirements.

Of the requirement that an animal must be under the control at all times, Morse said the dog catchers would be flexible in applying the rule.

Morse assured Mayor Branwell D. Fanning that a dog playing in its unfenced front yard would not be picked up but that dogs who wer causing a nuisance would be picked up and returned to their owners.

Further, he said, on first violations courtesy notices of violations will be issued and citations, which may cost $20, will be issued only to repeated violators "An owner who obviously doesn't care."

Also, he said, dogs would not be impounded unless dangerous or unless the dog catcher was unable to locate its owner.

He urged the city to take some action to increase the number of patrols in Tiburon noting that 23 dog bite cases had been reported in the city during October alone.

The council also received a petition signed by 61 downtown merchants asking better dog controls. Fanning said that the city's existing ordinance provided "maximum teeth" for the downtown area and merchants need only to call the police or humane society when a problem occurs.

Theater Owner Raps Sex Trend

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American film industry is threatened by movie producers who are attempting "to out-sex or out-violence anything seen before," says the head of the National Association of Theater Owners.

"The most insidious danger today to our box office, and in terms of public relations, is the gratuitous sex or violence scene in films," said Association President Julian S. Rifkin.

"Producers seem to be trying to out-sex or out-violence anything seen before," Rifkin said at the organization's annual convention here.

Nixon Backers Fill Newspages

POTTSTOWN, Pa. (UPI)— The Pottstown Mercury's first four pages are filled today with names of persons who say they support President Richard M. Nixon's Vietnam policy.

"We figured half the adult population of Pottstown signed it," according to city editor Bob Urban. The names appear eight columns across, with an average of more than 200 names per column.

Editor Robert J. Boyle said he thought of the idea following the Oct. 15 Moratorium.

Chamber Group Plays Tomorrow

An evening of chamber music will be presented at the Mill Valley Outdoor Club at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Performing will be Annie de Cook, piano; William Clark, harpsichord; Michael Gerling, violin, and Marcelle Mignault Strong, mezzo soprano.

The works of Scarlatti, Bach, Prokofieff and Haydn will be presented.

Gina Is Silent On Wedding Plan

ROME (AP) — Actress Gina Lollobrigida and New York real estate man George S. Kaufman aren't telling whether they plan to get married.

Gina, 41, and Kaufman, 35, brushed off newsmen's questions Monday upon arrival at the Rome airport from Lausanne, Switzerland, where she had visited her son Milko, 11, earlier in the day.

"I have nothing to say," said Gina. "Please don't bother me. I don't want to say one single word about this whole situation. I will not confirm or deny or comment in any way."

A collection of photographs and macrame (knotted lace) by Marin artists is on display through Nov. 25 in the Fairfax branch of the Marin County Library at 47 Broadway.

Freelance photographer John Arms of Stinson Beach displays 12 photographs, many of them beach scenes with children. His photographs of children are featured in "Today is Saturday", a book written by Marin author Zilda Snyder, published this year by Atheneum.

Suzanne O'Hare, also of Stinson Beach, presents a display of nine necklaces and a belt, using raw silk, silk and rayon, linen and Persian wools.

Guilty Plea To Possession Drug

Monte Leon Miller, 20, of San Rafael, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to possessing Seconal and a hypodermic needle Aug. 14 in San Rafael.

After warning Miller that he probably will be sent to state prison because of his past record, Judge Joseph G. Wilson set sentencing for Dec. 1.

Tam High District Closes 'Hair' Books

By ALAN JONES

The Tamalpais High School District board officially closed the long-run production of "hair" last night, but was warned by a few members of the audience there might be revival performances of the athletic grooming controversy.

The board, acting before an audience of 300, approved a new policy on athletic department rules, saying rules must be based on valid reasons and setting out appeal procedures.

The new policy, worked out after "millions of words and hundreds of hours," according to board chairman Bette L. Wallace, reads:

"The athletic director shall, at the beginning of each year, confer with his coaches and define appropriate rules and regulations (including grooming rules). Such rules and regulations should be based upon the judgment of the athletic director and his coaches. Each rule and regulation shall clearly relate to a valid educational, performance, health or safety reason.

"Once rules are defined and approved, they may be questioned through appropriate administrative channels, which include the athletic director, the principal, the superintendent, and the board of trustees. While a rule is in effect the burden will be upon the petitioner to demonstrate the unreasonableness of that rule under challenge, and he shall be governed by that rule until such time as a final determination is made by the district."

Application will be in four steps, the board agreed — drafting of the rules, justification of them by the coaches, approval by the athletic director, principal, superintendent and board, and setting of date when they take effect.

Supt. Robert D. Torrey said he will recommend further that the athletic departments call in a cross-section of the school faculty to review the rules and give an opinion on their reasonableness.

That drew objections from some in the audience, one man saying coaches in turn should be given a veto power over home economics classes. But Torrey said he would leave it up to the principal of each school whether to have a faculty review of athletic rules.

The hair controversy, which had been in the wings for two years, became public Sept. 24 when Torrey suspended district grooming rules for athletes pending a study of them.

Robert J. Troppman, Redwood athletic director, publicly announced his resignation from the post in protest, although the resignation never went through.

Last night, Willis C. Bohn of Tiburon complained that the new policy left things just as they were before, but Mrs. Wallace disagreed sharply. "That is incorrect," she said. The new policy, she said, spells out that valid reasons must be given for athletic rules, and sets out appeals procedures.

A long-haired student, who did not identify himself, complained the policy was a compromise to please everyone that would end up pleasing no one. He predicted "we'll be right back with another controversy in a year or two."

Jeff Einstein of Tamalpais High School, a member of the hearing panel, suggested that if Redwood has the only grooming problem, "maybe we should have a separate district for Redwood."

A red-beared man who said he was from Liverpool called the whole thing "an obvious case of pure prejudice combined with jealousy. This could only happen in America."

Mrs. Wallace appointed six of the seven hearing panelists as a liaison committee to keep the board in touch with events as rules are worked out. Dr. George Stone was omitted from the committee because of demands on his time.

Committee members are Einstein, Bart Ziegler of Sir Francis Drake High School, Michael Farley of Redwood, Vaughn Marker, Mary Louise Simonds and Jerrold Ladar.

Court Hears Of Erosion From Logging

OAKLAND (AP) — Skid trails from logging have caused erosion in western Marin County, a naturalist testified yesterday at a hearing on a preliminary injunction against timbering operations on a ranch in the area.

Clerin Q. Zumwalt of Audubon Canyon Ranch, Stinson Beach, showed 20 slides of what he described as sliced earth banks and other conditions which, he said, all added to flood hazards and plugged culverts along Highway 1.

The hearing will determine whether an injunction issued Oct. 3 by Superior Court Judge Robert H. Kroninger will be made permanent.

The order temporarily banned logging by the Matthews, Humber and Walker Timber Co. of Coos Bay, Ore., on a 1,400-acre ranch owned by Dr. Ethel Righetti on Bolinas Ridge, near Point Reyes National Seashore.

The action was transfered to Oakland because Dr. Righetti lives in Alameda County.

Another witness, architectural planner Saul Silver, testified that logging could silt Tomales and Bolinas Basins," and thus damage the county."

Admits Weed

Robert Desmond McKendrick, 35, a former resident of Rancho Olompali near Novato who now lives in Los Angeles, admitted yesterday in Marin Superior Court that he possessed marijuana when arrested March 20 in Point Reyes Station Judge Joseph G. Wilson set sentencing for Dec. 22.

Indians To Press Alcatraz Plans

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An "occupation" of Alcatraz by 14 young Indians has ended, but a spokesman says they will continue to beat the drums for rights to establish a new redmen's "nation" on the onetime prison island in San Francisco Bay.

The youths were removed by a Coast Guard cutter yesterday after illegally hiding out for 18 hours on The Rock, as it was known to hardened convicts.

Authorities said they decided not to press charges because the youngsters, some draped in robes and wearing headbands, left willingly.

Little Activity Set For War Moratorium

Little or no activity is planned at Tamalpais High School District schools on the November antiwar moratorium Friday and Saturday, the district board was told last night.

Principal Donald Kreps said the student council at Redwood High School has scheduled a rally at the end of classes at 2:30 p.m. Thursday, both nothing is planned for Friday.

Principal Raymond J. Bell of Tamalpais High School said no program plans have been submitted yet by students, but there may be a program during the noon hour Friday. A memorial program is scheduled Wednesday for Tamalpais's war dead, including Vietnam War victims.

Harold Allison, Principal of Sir Francis Drake High School, said student leaders tried to organize a Friday program to keep students on campus that day, but have been unable so far to find speakers for all points of view on the Vietnam war.

The board discussed guidelines for organizing special programs on controversial issues, assembled by Director of Instruction James L. Pierce from existing board policies, but took no action.

The Tamalpais High School District board also:

GIFTS — Accepted a gift of four books for the Drake library from art teacher Joe E. Rooney.

GRADUATION — Accepted the new state list of requirements for graduation, which adds mathematics, science and conservation of resources to requirements.

INSURANCE — Approved an insurance program offered by California Dental Service for damage to students' teeth through accidents.

COFFEE — Heard a suggestion by trustee Robert W. Corlett that the board rotate its meetings among the three schools, and open at 7:15 or 7:30 p.m. with informal coffee gatherings in which people could talk in a more friendly atmosphere with trustees.

Nixon Backers Busy Urging 'Silent Majority' To Speak

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are trying to coax more words, wires and letters of Vietnam policy support from President Richard M. Nixon's "silent majority" — with a form letter as part of the campaign.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt took the form letter approach in urging his South Dakota constituents to register their support for the President.

His weekly newsletter supplies a clip-and-mail coupon to be signed and sent back to Washington declaring: "Count me as a member of the silent majority no longer so silent. Please tell President Nixon I support his plans for peace."

Mundt said Nixon supporters are beginning to speak out now, following the President's Nov. 3 speech on Vietnam with its appeal for support.

The Republican National Committee, meanwhile, said the response to Nixon's Nov. 3 speech swamped the White House.

"By week's end he had received more than 70,000 yea wires and they're still coming," the committee's newsletter said.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew urged the nation to recognize "a young silent majority who go to school, and to work, and to war if necessary."

He said they are being overshadowed by "the strident minority" of dissidents.

Agnew also urged the silent to speak.

"Let us not be afraid to raise our voices in spirited defense of the most successful society the world has yet known . . .

But in Washington, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., charged that Agnew was arousing "extreme emotionalism" which was having a bad effect on the nation. Fulbright, a leading critic of the government's Vietnam policy, said he has been receiving "the most threatening and meanest letters" that he has received in 15 years.

"I blame this on the accusation that those who disagree with the administration's Vietnam policy are traitors and the direct charge by Agnew that we (senators critical of the administration's Vietnam policy) are responsible for the continuation of the war and increased battle deaths," Fulbright said.

Pleads Guilty To Possession Weed

Edward Thomas Chorovsky, 23, of San Francisco pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to possessing marijuana June 15 on Highway 101 near Ignacio. A second charge of possessing benzedrine was dismissed.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson set sentencing for Dec. 15.

Trudeau Escorts Barbra On Town

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Barbra Streisand had Canada's bachelor prime minister, Pierre Elliott Trudeau, for a weekend escort to dinner and the theater.

Asked whether a romance was indicated, a Streisand spokesman replied: "I don't know if you could call it dating."

The 48-year-old prime minister dined with Miss Streisand and producer Ray Stark Friday night at a private club and took her to the Polish Lab Theater on Sunday.

The singer and her actor husband, Elliott Gould, are separated.

Point San Pedro Residents Split On Realignment Of Thoroughfare

San Pedro Point area residents clashed last night over which route should be followed for San Pedro Road widening through Bayside Acres.

An unexpectedly large turnout of more than 350 persons jammed the Peacock Gap Country Club to air and hear views on Phase Four of the widening project, from Lochinvar Road to Peacock Drive.

Safety, ecology, open space and the taking of homes were brought up in statements over whether the new roadway should follow the present alignment or swing through bayside marshland at Bayside Acres. The weight of argument went largely in support of the marshland route.

Gathered were members of the Peacock Gap and Glenwood homeowners associations and Bayside Acres Property Owners Association, who were urged to sign petitions or write letters backing their choice.

J. Robert Hunt, president of the Peacock Gap Homeowners Association, reported that association directors support the marshland route because it would be a safer road.

Bernie Hearc, president of the Bayside organization, said association members voted in June for the marshland route, but conceded that residents of Bayview Acres "are somewhat divided."

Dr. William F. Upton, former member of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission and resident of Bayside Acres, argued for retaining the marshland.

(The proposed new alignment would swing from Beach Drive to Marine Drive through what is now marshland).

Following the present alignment would result in the minimum dislocation of people and less disruption to ecology, Dr. Upton contended. When the marshland is taken, "it's lost forever," he said.

Eugene F. Sweeney of 761 Point San Pedro Road said the majority of property owners "directly affected" in Bayside Acres favor the marshland route, with safety as a key factor.

Donald R. Frost, Marin County public works director, said following the existing alignment would affect all frontage parcels in Bayside Acres, while the marshland route would require the taking of three homes.

The present alignment would require a split level roadway, separated by a 14-foot wall, while the marshaland alignment would permit a single level roadway, he said.

The cost of right-of-way and construction of a four-lane roadway over the present alignment has been estimated at $1,070,000 and the cost of the marshland alignment, $1,160,000, Frost reported.

James W. Robertson, county traffic engineer, said the marshland route would provide greater safety for traffic and for pedestrians, with a buffer space between the roadway and sidewalk.

Both county officials contended there was a greater hazard of a wrong way entry and a potential head-on crash if the present alignment were followed.

Clinton Lewis of 170 Oak Drive, said persons along Point San Pedro Road should have had reason to expect widening in their area, but residents on the bay side "never suspected that a four-lane highway would be going through their front yard."

Opposing the marshland route where Donald Sinclair of 32 Beach Drive, who recently purchased a home, which he said would be along that route, and Mrs. John P. Mangini of 724 Point San Pedro Road, who would lose her home.

Supervisor John F. McInnis repeated his stand in favor of the marshland route. As for the additional costs, "If it saves any pedestrian from an accident," or avoids a head-on accident, it is more than justified, he said.

Sheldon Bowers, president of the Glenwood Homeowners Assn., urged that a decision on routing be made so the project can get underway.

The proposed timetable is for acquisition of right-of-way in 1969-70, initial work in 1970-71 and completion in 1971-72, as a joint city-county project.

James M. Fairchild, moderator, limited comments to three minutes, and only about a dozen residents spoke. The remainder of the discussion time was alloted to questioning of county officials.

Above Average

New Dialogue Plan For Board Sessions

Listening to a trustee who said there must be a "balance between conscience and representation," the Sausalito School District board last night agreed to try a new format for listening to the public at its meetings.

The board, acting unanimously, decided to give the public two opportunities to express itself at board meetings — before actions were considered and after they were voted on. The trial would be only for the next meeting.

Currently, citizens at the board meetings may comment on any issue as it is being considered by the board.

Only trustee Martha Freebairn-Smith expressed concern that the public should have the opportunity to comment while a matter is being discussed, not before or after.

The change was suggested by trustee David E. Freedheim who said the board over the past few months has suffered from allowing too much discussion. He said "repetitious questions" from the audience were lengthening meetings.

Freedheim also said various pressure groups within the community were constantly trying to push the board one way or another and said there "must be a balance between conscience and representation."

He was mildly critical of the audience at the meetings, saying that it did not listen to what the board said. "Too often, there's a one-way communication," he said.

Members of the audience objected to the format change, saying it would further disassociate the public from the board's business. Barbara Nelson, co-chairman of a group called Citizens for Excellence in Integrated Education, charged that the board already ignores the wishes of the public and Freedheim's suggestion would make it even more difficult for the public—at least at the board meetings — to make its wishes known.

Citizens for Excellence in Integrated Education has representatives at each board meeting but refuses to say how many or who in the Sausalito community it represents other than the representatives present at board meetings.

The Sausalito School District Board also:

BREAKFASTS — Heard Asst. Supt. Joseph Amato report that the free breakfast program would be resumed tomorrow under the supervision of two temporary coordinators. Bus runs will be operated for the program on schedules established before the breakfasts were cancelled last month when the coordinator resigned.

CLOSED MEETING — Held a closed meeting on the employment of three teaching aides, then voted in open session to delay a decision on the hiring until the next meeting.

TRANSFERS — Agreed to submit three interdistrict transfers into the district from San Francisco to the Marin County Board of Education for approval.

MEETINGS — Set a Dec. 1 meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the district office for consideration of salaries and set other meetings for Nov. 24 and Dec. 8 and 22.

Classroom Lease Found Too Costly

A one-year lease of a portable classroom would be prohibitively expensive, the Kentfield School District board was told last night.

The board had considered leasing a portable to relieve crowding at Adaline E. Kent School and avoid bussing, but Supt. Anthony G. Bacich said prices quoted by eight manufacturers ranged around $6,000 for a one-year lease.

The current crowding at Kent is expected to be eased next year with redrawing of school attendance lines.

The board, with an eye toward possible purchase of a portable instead of leasing, told Bacich to investigate the possible long-term uses of a portable in the Kent program.

The Kentfield School District board also:

LEAVE — Rescinded its action granting a year's leave to Jane Gates, kindergarten teacher at Wolfe Grade School, on receiving her letter withdrawing the leave request.

BARGAINING — Took no action on a letter from Worldwide Education and Research Institute offering to handle board negotiations with teachers for annual contracts. The institute is a professional negotiating firm, Bacich reported.

EXPENDITURES — Rejected a proposal by Greenbrae School Principal Roy L. Smith to spend $185 earned by sale of old desks for new audio-visual material. The money will go into reserves, the board said, and the school should submit a detailed proposal for the purchases.

ATTENDANCE — Approved three interdistrict attendance agreements.

Candy Coins Taken

An undetermined amount of change was taken from the candy machine at the Coin Washing Well, Fair-Anselm Shopping Center, between 10 p.m. Friday and 12:40 Saturday, Fairfax police reported yesterday.

Plea Date For Heroin Suspect Set

One of the persons arrested Friday in a raid on a San Rafael apartment where drug agents said they confiscated $11,000 worth of suspected heroin was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Clarence Dale Taylor, 26, of Fairfax, was charged with driving under the influence of narcotics, possessing heroin and being an adict who drove a car. His case was continued until Friday for entry of plea.

No new charge was filed yesterday in court against Michael Gordon Streib, 24, of San Francisco, who also was arrested Friday at the residence of Rosita Dolores Branstetter, 37, of San Rafael. Streib had been arrested in the same apartment Oct. 29 and is charged with sale of heroin from the earlier arrest.

Miss Branstetter, who is accused of earlier sale of heroin, is to come to court tomorrow on the new arrest as is another person arrested at her apartment Friday, Angel John Fernandez, 38, of San Francisco.

Drug agents said they followed Taylor from Miss Branstetter's apartment and, when he was driving erratically, they stopped him. Agents said he had a red balloon containing suspected heroin.

A search of Miss Branstetter's apartment later revealed more suspected heroin found in her king-sized bed, according to agents, who said they also found $5,000 in her wallet in addition to two welfare checks.

Marin Coroner's Daughter Missing From Hospital

A mentally disturbed and potentially violent 17-year-old Tiburon girl has been reported missing from Langley Porter Institute in San Francisco by her sister, Virginia L Cooke of Sausalito.

The girl, Heidi Cooke, daughter of Donovan O. Cooke, Marin County coroner and public administrator, and Mrs. Gloria Cooke of Tiburon, was last seen at the hospital at 6 p.m. Sunday, Miss Cooke said.

She has been mentally disturbed for the past three years and is in need of medication, Miss Cooke said. She had very little money with her when she left the hospital and possibly is heading for Sausalito or the Haight Ashbury district of San Francisco.

The girl is described as five feet four inches tall, weighing 130 pounds with short dark brown hair and blue eyes. When last seen she was wearing a sleeveless red and white jump suit, Miss Cooke said.

Any information about the missing girl should be reported to the Marin County Sheriff's Department, the San Francisco Police Department or the Langley Porter Clinic.

No Monument, Yet, For Truman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harry S Truman is the only former president of this century for whom no historic site has been dedicated. But, say National Park Service officials, that's the way he wants it.

Truman has told them he wants nothing done during his lifetime, NPS Director George B. Hartzog Jr. told a House subcommittee yesterday.

"Someday he'll have a memorial, and we want it to be something appropriate," said Rep. John Kyl, R-Iowa. But he added, in reference to memorials for past presidents:

"The further we get from the time they depart, the harder it gets and the more expensive it is, too."

Lear Abandons Steam Car Try

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — After spending $5.5 million on the project, inventor William Lear says he has given up trying to perfect steam automobile engines to curb air pollution.

Lear told an audience at the University of Michigan yesterday the device is too complex to keep prices down and allow easy maintenance. He said he has turned to gas turbines.

"There is a definite pollution problem," said Lear, father of the Lear jet. "Somebody had better find an aswer to it or we'll all die at the bottom of a sewer of gas."

Mill Valley Trustees Counter Pay Proposal

The Mill Valley School District board last night outlined its counter proposal to a request by district teachers for a 3 per cent salary scale increase, Supt. James A. Collins reported.

The discussion was the first public revelation of the board's position on the salary dispute which has led the Mill Valley Teachers Association to ask the California Teachers Association to investigate the district for possible sanctions.

The proposal, rejected by teachers at a negotiation session Wednesday, calls for committees of teachers and board members to review the existing salary schedule and remedy weaknesses, Collins said.

The board also declared that "at this time it was not willing to change its position" on the across-the-board increase, Collins said.

The board also said it would consider adopting some or all of the committees' recommendations retroactively and that it would continue to negotiate with the teachers.

Collins said the majority of the audience, besides teachers, spoke in support of the teachers' position.

Following the meeting, the board held a closed session to discussi its position for the next negotiation session scheduled for 8 p.m. Nov. 18 at Edna Maguire School. Another closed meeting, also to discuss negotiations, was set for 8 p.m. tomorrow in the district office.

The Mill Valley School District Board also:

RIGHT-OF-WAY — Approved widening the right-of-way at Edna Maguire School.

FIRE — Heard that the insurance company has chosen to repair the library building at Marin Terrace school, damaged by fire believed set by arsonists, and expects repairs to be completed by Jan. 1.

MIDDLE SCHOOL — Heard that bids for construction of the middle school will be advertised Nov. 24 and opened Dec. 22.

LEAVE — Approved maternity leave for guidance counselor Claire Delano.

INTERDISTRICT TRANSFERS — Approved interdistrict transfer agreements for five students into Mill Valley including one from the Presidio in San Francisco, two from Larkspur School District, one from Sausalito School District and one from the San Rafael Elementary School District.

VIETNAM — Recieved a letter from Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hepp outlining objections to material on Vietnam used in current affairs discussions in fourth through eighth grade classes and authorized the addition of the letter, without the Hepps' names, to the Vietnam material to present another viewpoint on the war.

Melkonian Wins Delay On Sentence

A convicted "marijuana martyr" won another delay yesterday in going to jail for a one year term to which he was sentenced two years ago.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court agreed that a new probation report should be written on Melkon Melkonian, 34-year-old Mill Valley mechanic who once said that selling marijuana to youngsters was no worse than selling them beer.

Melkonian appeared in court yesterday after an absence of a year since his conviction had been upheld by a higher court. The week before the Marin district attorney's office had asked a bench warrant be issued for him.

Melkonian was sentenced in October (1967), to spend the year in jail by Judge Wilson after Melkonian pleaded no contest to a charge of possessing 20 kilos of marijuana for sale at his home.

He also was convicted in San Francisco of marijuana sale, and during his trial there nearly 2,000 affidavits were presented supporting them.

Judge Wilson continued the case to Dec. 15.

Petaluma Picks New School Site

Land near the intersection of Casa Grande and Ely Roads was tentatively approved last night by the Petaluma Board of Education as the future site for a new high school.

Supt. Lesly H. Meyer said the district hoped to purchase 70 acres at the location and would first build a combined junior-senior high school facility and then move the junior high grades into a separate building later.

Meyer said the site had already received verbal approval from the Sonoma County Planning Commission and the State Department of Education.

He told the board that two appraisals would be made of the property and the purchase price decided using those figures.

Tax Proposed To Curb California Population

The California Depopulation Commission says the state's growing population could be reduced by levying a tax of $100 on each new resident and paying $100 from the proceeds to each person moving out of California.

The commission, founded by David C. Camp of Ross, said the plan — which it called the "head and tails tax" — was proposed by a member, Art Schnieder of Tujunga.

$3,222 To Two Chambers Of Commerce

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Financial aid totaling $3,222 for the Petaluma and Rohnert Park chambers of commerce was approved yesterday by the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors.

The Petaluma request for $4,385 was pared down to $3,002 by the board which deleted a request of $1,145 for a new city-county entrance sign on Highway 101 and $163 for an industrial survey.

The board approved $572 for a new city-county map; $200 for river and harbor activities, and $2,230 on matching grants based on the number of memberships.

The Rohnert Park chamber received $220 in matching funds based on membership.

Rohnert Park Work Session Set

A work session on park development and new park sites was set last night by the Rohnert Park Recreation Commission for Nov. 24 at 7:30 p.m.

Commission chairman Ronald E. Rasmussen said the commission will be gathering information on possible sites for new neighborhood parks and a regional park as well as information on financing.

Rasmussen said the commission will prepare questionnaires for all residents to determine what types of parks are wanted, whether for leisure activities or sports and what facilities are needed. He said the questionnaires will also seek opinions on financing the projects.

Trustees Bar Sheriff Substation In School

The Lagunitas School District board last night denied use of the old Lagunitas School building as a sheriff's substation.

The board unanimously approved a resolution stating it did not feel the use would be compatible with education, Supt. Marshall J. McCunniff reported.

McCunniff said many residents attended the meeting to speak for and against the proposal and estimated those favoring it outnumbered those against.

The request came from the Central Citizens Committee of the San Geronimo Valley which was organized in August to protect all residents from "lawless and irresponsible elements" which have been plaguing the area since the beginning of the year, according to committee president E.L. Barnett.

However, the board has been negotiation with Lagunitas artist Jean Berensmier who plans to open a cultural center in the school and it was believed the two uses would not be compatible, McCunniff said.

The board also passed a resolution supporting the idea of having a sheriff's substation in the valley and offering its assistance in location it.

The Lagunitas School District Board Also:

KINDERGARTEN — Heard a report on the district's kindergarten program for teachers Kathleen Dewing and Mrs. Clifford Slattery.

UNIFICATION — Took no action on a request from the county Committee in School District Reorganization that the board support its efforts for legislation to eliminate mandatory unification elections.

PERSONNEL — Hired Max Crosley as a teacher of the educationally handicapped at a salary of $7,950 a year.

MEETING — Set a workshop meeting for 7:30 p.m. Monday at Lagunitas School to continue a review of the district's policy manual.

New Teacher Program Is Due Review

A new program to replace the former resources teacher program will be presented to the Dixie School District board for approval at 8 p.m. today in the school administration office, 35 Trellis Drive, Terra Linda.

The resources teacher program, which was discontinued this year, paid teachers additional salary for working both before the fall opening and closing in June, and for additional responsibilities during the school year and after their normal school day.

Under the new proposal, teachers would give districtwide curriculum assistance curing regular school hours. Such teachers would have substitutes relieve them of their regular classroom work for up to 20 days per school year. They would not get additional pay for this curriculum assistance except in exceptional cases where the board approved a job description.

If this program for curriculum assistance by teachers is accepted, Supt. Clifford W. Campbell will ask for appointment of a curriculum assistance position in multi-ethnic studies for next year.

Other items on the agenda include a request that the trustees borrow $100,000 from county reserves to meet the district's December expenses, pending receipt of some $600,000 in local taxes during next month.

If you're under 30 and 'on-the-way'... why get up-tight about life insurance?

Who needs it? It seems so plastic and static. You say, "By making it today, I'll assure my own tomorrows." O.K. That's beautiful. But have you talked to any of the with-it money-makers lately? They're really creative—and they know how to use life insurance creatively. It's simply this: life insurance can be made to be a now-idea, a way of underwriting your life-style. That's what being creative with life insurance is all about. Because we can't spell it out more in this little ad, how about talking to us and pinning us down to more specifics?

Mrs. Harold Griffith Heads Petaluma Chapter

Mrs. Harold R. Griffith of Cotati, president of the Chicken Little Chapter of Children's Home Society in Petaluma, not only heads that organization but is active in the Cotati Firemen's Auxiliary and the citizen's advisory committee to the Cotati School Board.

"Being active in Chicken Little Chapter takes quite a lot of time, but I really enjoy being a part of this group," Mrs. Griffith said. "I feel the help we give to Children's Home Society is worth the time and energy given to Chicken Little. The active members of this group are the kind of women who see a job to be done and do it. It isn't all work; it's fun, too. What can be more enjoyable than helping children?" she says.

MRS. HAROLD GRIFFITH

Mrs. Griffith has served as chapter vice president and treasurer. A graduate of Petaluma High School and the Santa Rosa Junior College School of Nursing, Mrs. Griffith was employed as a registered nurse at Petaluma's Hillcrest Hospital until 1961.

The society's ultimate goal, stressed the chapter president, is happy families — homes for children who need them; help and counseling for natural parents.

Upcoming projects for Chicken Little Chapter are the semi-formal holiday dance to be held on Nov. 22 at the Petaluma Veterans Memorial, and calendared for the spring is the chapter's fashion show and luncheon which will mark the 10th year.

The continuing project of the chapter is the sale of its cookbook, "Taste Teasers," which includes favorite recipes of several state and national officials.

Hobbies enjoyed by Mrs. Griffith include sewing, knitting, gardening, swimming and other water sports. She and her husband, a Petaluma real estate broker, have two children, Karen, 7, and Bobby, 5.

Men's Umbrellas Get Style Going-Over With New Color

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lawrentz Katz was looking around recently at the upheaval in men's fashions and decided to start one of his own. So now you can get men's umbrellas to match your raincoat—beige, dark green, brown, navy blue and even checks and plaids.

Katz, 58, is president of the Polan Katz Umbrella Company of Baltimore, Md., a manufacturer of fashionable umbrellas for women since his father founded the firm back in 1905.

"Take a look at some of the new men's styles," he said. "The new doublebreasted coats, the wide lapels, the fitted shapes. The new shirts and the wide ties. Why if you wear a black umbrella with them you might as well be wearing tennis shoes.

"YOU MUST have something that has the feel of style. If you're still wearing the old fashioned English tab collar with a new tie that is four or five inches wide you will look idiotic. It's the same thing with old fashioned umbrellas—and that includes the color, the fabrics and the handles which are real style items."

Katz also manufactures walking sticks and he predicts a resurgence in them, especially with their new designs and application. By application he referred to the shillelagh, the old Irish walking stick which is traditionally made from the blackthorn and is apt to be as crooked as a dog's hind leg.

"Think how it would look with the new weekend costumes," he said. "Wonderful for walking in the suburbs and it is good protection. As a matter of fact it might not be a bad idea to carry one in the cities."

But umbrellas are Katz's first love and he waxed enthusiastic at the thought of doing away with the tightly furled black English brolly and replacing it with colors to match the new spring raincoats — brass, copper, bronze, Apollo blue (lighter than navy), ivory, cornsilk, British tan.

HE SAID HE had been working with one raincoat manufacturer, Harbor Master, and as new raincoat colors and patterns emerge he will bring out umbrellas to match the coats. The ones on view at the recent Men's Sportswear Buyers Show in New York were fairly subdued but will get less so as men get accustomed to the idea of colored umbrellas, he predicted.

"What if someone brings out a denim blue raincoat for the young man?" he asked. "We will bring out a denim blue umbrella. We're already experimenting with new colors and patterns although now we are pretty much sticking to muted patterns."

But even if you insist on a black umbrella you can carry it in a fancy case. Katz told of some cases in checks and plaids in a nubby material "that will give a lift to an ensemble." "And you could have a bold black and white check or houndstooth case with a conventional umbrella inside," he said.

Handles are a big thing in umbrellas from a style standpoint and he said the traditional handles of fake leather, malacca and whangee which is sometimes called bamboo might become a thing of the past "except for the old never-say-die Ivy League type."

FOR THE 1970s, he said, a man in a new kind of costume might have a handle formed like the opera handle T-shaped or shaped like a golf club or even a dog's head. "We even have a monkey head," he said. "They're amusing conversation pieces."

If a man is a racing nut he could have a handle shaped like a jockey's whip. Or if he likes modern art "we've just got in some Austrian handles that look like a display at the Museum of Modern Art of horses heads by some wild modern artist in light horn and also in rosewood." There's another handle in stitched belting leather in dark brown that would be a handsome accessory to a beige or dark brown raincoat.

UHBRELLAS TO match men's raincoats are the fashion revolution idea of Lawrentz Katz, president of Polan Katz Umbrella Co. of Baltimore, Md. Wearing a beige nylon and brown leather-trimmed raincoat by Harbormaster is model Soulis Mathios. The matching umbrella he is holding also come in brown, navy, vinyl and checks and plaids. Nutrition To Be Issue

An effort by the health and scientific professions to create public understanding of the issues involved in the White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health was announced by Dr. Jean Mayer, special consultant to President Nixon for the Conference.

Dr. Mayer pointed out that the Dec. 2 to 4 conference has a two-fold purpose. One is laying the foundation for a national nutrition policy and advising President Nixon on the best methods to eliminate hunger and malnutrition in the United States. The other is the creation of an awakened public opinion that will seek action on the recommendations made at the Conference.

The American Home Economics Association, with the assistance of the American Dietetic Association, has agreed to spearhead cooperative efforts involving doctors, nurses, public health people, dietitians, food service personnel, and student professionals at the secondary and college levels.

The purpose will be to promote discussion and activities at the community level, including workshops for professionals, television and radio shows, women's club and service club programs, community health inventories, etc.

Cowboy Syndrome May Break Up Marriages

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An emotional state known as "cowboy syndrome" is the major cause of marriage breakups, according to a University of California professor of psychiatry.

Dr. Alfred Auerback Friday blamed sex-oriented husbands for most marital problems.

"These men don't know how to be emotionally intimate," Auerback said.

They are victims of "cowboy syndrome"and try to become "the strong, silent he-man who loves his horse and his girl with equal passion", the doctor said.

"We are educating the males of this country to be predators. They are taught to 'make' girls, but not taught how to understand their needs," Auerback said.

One symptom of "cowboy" syndrome" is a penchant for riding off into the sunset in bigger and bigger cars.

"Cars are the first symbols of the manhood," Auerback said at a press conference, "and they are getting bigger and bigger to prove their manhood."

The doctor said male sexual education comes from watching James Bond Movies, today's advertising and "the Playboy philosophy that it's all fun."

The doctor said the country needs an education in schools that deals not only with sex, but with the needs of a deep and lasting relationship.

Gentlemen Prefer Brunettes—

By GAY PAULEY

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russian men seemingly prefer brunettes.

The people who run a brand new training school for beauticians here in the Soviet capital say that chestnut brown is the number one color they are making the locks of the Tanyas, the Sonyas and the Valentinas.

But walk around Moscow and you'll see plenty of bright red-haired women and blondes too. For haircoloring has come to the Communist world in a rush.

Last year about this time on a visit to the USSR, I noted some obvious alterations of nature's own coloring. This trip, it is even more obvious, and one of the teachers at the beauticians' school on modern Kalinin Street said coloring now is taken for granted. Most of the products, he added, come from Poland or East Germany.

The fact there is an elite school to train both men and women in all phases of hairdressing is itself a beauty breakthrough for the average Muscovite.

It not only will mean more beauticians trained in the latest methods, but also an upgrading of styling and equipment, both of which by Western standards could stand a lot of improvement.

The school on Kalinin is a spaciousn two-story glass and concrete affair, where 140 men and women currently are enrolled. Enrollment in a six-month course is by competition; those with the most promise attend.

As a result, a woman who gets her hair done by one of the "students" pays a little more than the average salon charges because, as an assistant director explained, they're getting the "cream" of talent.

A shampoo and set costs one ruble 70 kopeks (about $1.75), a permanent is six rubles ($6.66), coloring three rubles 50 kopeks (about $3.75), and a manicure 60 kopeks (about 55 cents). There is no tipping.

In turn, I had shampoo and set in hotel shops for one ruble ($1.11), with a 30 kopek (about 25 cents) tip and the woman hairdresser did not refuse the tip although tipping still is just not a Soviet practice.

Any woman heading for the USSR usually is cautioned: take your own shampoo, curlers, comb and brush, and hair spray. Definitely yes, on the hair spray, for the aerosol age has not arrived and spray in the salons is applied from a bottle powered by a rubber squeeze bulb.

Don't bother with your own shampoo unless your hair needs special care. Soviet shampoos get the hair just as clean as American ones. Do take your own curlers, comb and brush, if you are particular about cleanliness. The salons I visited aren't sterlization conscious.

Teasing or back-combing is going out of style in the United States. It is "in" technique still in the USSR. There is no craze for hairpieces yet, although at the beauty school you'd see an occasional wiglet being attached.

TO PUBLISH ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING STORIES IN THE I-J

Forms for engagement and wedding story information to be printed in the Independent-Journal are available from the I-J offices in San Rafael, Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma.

Wedding forms should be returned promptly to the I-J office in your area and information will be printed immediately after the wedding. Photographers should be urged to submit a print of the wedding picture promptly. Color photographs cannot be used.

The Independent-Journal does not print wedding stories or photographs received more than seven days after the wedding.

An engagement form may be accompanied by a professional black and white photograph, which may be picked up at the I-J office after publication. Snapshots, polaroid or color pictures are not suitable.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

A Ten-Year Old Writes A Letter About Life With A Big Sister

DEAR HELEN:

I have four years to go before I'll be a teen-ager, so maybe you don't use stuff from kids who are almost 10, but I like to read your column, so I am going to write about my

Big Sister

A big sister is someone that you can pick on. And someone that you can't trust to keep secrets. When she's in a bad mood, she teases you and sometimes slaps you, but she also helps you with multiplication tables and makes cookies.

She gets you to talk to boys for her, and she'll ask you what they said about her. She'll try anything to look better, from green stuff that makes her face so stiff it cracks — and then she washes it off — to a drawerful of gunk she puts on afterwards. She keeps asking if she looks all right after she sets her hair or any corny thing she wastes time on. But you gotta admit she does, except you wouldn't tell her that.

Sometimes she comes out with dishes that are good, when she doesn't ruin them with mushrooms and wine. But she hates to wash dishes and, boy, does she use a lot.

She likes to wrestle with me even if I can beat her. Sometimes I let her win to make her feel better.

I guess a big sister is pretty okay. Anyway, if it wasn't for mine, I wouldn't have been able to write this. — A NICE BROTHER

DEAR BROTHER:

I use stuff from people of all ages — especially if they write good stuff like you do — H.

DEAR HELEN:

This may not be advice column stuff, but it will help a lot of kids in their social science and other class reports. These statistics, read by our minister not long ago, really shook me up. Did you know that:

If the three billion people in the world could be represented in a community of one hundred:

Six would be United States citizens; 94 would be citizens of other countries.

Six would own one-half of the money in the world; 94 would share the other half; of the 94, 20 would eventually own virtually all the remaining half.

Six would have 15 times more in material possessions than the other 94 put together.

Six have 72 per cent more than the average daily food requirements; two-thirds of the 94 would have below-minimum food standards, and many would be starving.

The life span of six would be over 70 years. The life span of 94 would be about 39 years.

Of the 94, 33 would come from countries where the Christian faith is taught. Of the 33, 24 would be Catholic and nine would be Protestant.

Less than one-half of the 94 would have heard the name of Christ, but the majority of the 94 would know of Lenin.

Among the 94 would be three communist documents which outsell the Bible.

By the year 2,000 one out of every two persons will be Chinese. — COLLEGE STUDENT

Quick Party

Holiday hospitality is easier to extend when you keep convenient foods, such as a variety of cheeses on hand. Arrange cookies and fruit cake attractively on a tray and your guests will feel your warm welcome. If there is need for a heartier snack, a cheese tray can be quickly assembled. To make it more decorative, Cheddar, Brick or Provolone can be cut with cookie cutters into shapes symbolic of the holiday. Serve the cheese with any of the multitude of asserted crackers.

Mrs. Aubrey Howerton of Pudy, Mo., got tired of sitting around the house with little to do and less to spend when she retired from work in a small town store, so she took up pig farming. She and her carpenter husband now have 21 sows, seven gilt and two boars and are making good money selling them through the Missouri Farmers Association telephone auction sales.

Sam Levenson Defender Of Innocence In Society

NEW YORK (UPI)—Someone asked the little boy if he knew the difference between the sexes and he replied seriously:

"Of course I do. Women are the ones who dance backwards."

From this and other examples of the fresh and innocent view of life held by the young, Sam Levenson has drawn the theme of his book, "Sex and the Single Child," his first since his autobiography, "Everything But Money" made the best-seller charts a couple of years ago.

Levenson described his book in an interview as "a defense of innocence against the conscious pressure for sex in everything in our society."

"Unfortunately," he said," "we seem to be creating a world in which all innocence must be eliminated immediately because it is equated with ignorance. At the same time we are attacking the awe and wonder with which children have always learned about the world. Children instinctively avoid the scientific approach. They are more interested in creation—who am I?—than procreation.

"Believe me, at three he's already worried about immortality. He wants to know if 'they' sent him and 'they' take him back."

Levenson said the book represents years of thought on the subject.

"What happens between two people should be love, not sex. I think a child who believes in God has a very good start. He has a feeling that comes from eternity, a feeling of the universality of life—and not an obsession with the plumbing. We used to say 'what's your hurry to grow up?' Now we pressure cook our children into maturity."

Levenson said sex was a three-letter word into which people were trying to put too many four-letter words. For this he blames "the intellectuals" wildly theorizing as though humans were a brand new species.

"My own introduction to a new brother or sister were the words 'move over' from my father. What's wrong with that?"

Bosom Kit Has Make-Up For The New, Nude Look

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeature

Now, it's rouge for the bosom.

Kenneth, the well-known hairdresser, has come up with this piece de resistance in make-up.

"I got the idea when I was reading a novel about the Caribbean in the 19th century and it told how women rouged their bosoms," he says. "Some put water in front so that the rouge could be seen through the dresses. This became so popular that a lot of women died of pneumonia."

Kenneth advises you to avoid the water bit.

"At first, women may wear it in private," he says. "But I think public nudity is upon us. It is in the theater, it is in the books we read. Everybody is body-conscious and newsstands are loaded with books and magazines that promote the idea. And let's face it this is a very bosom-conscouus nation."

His new bosom kit contains three products — one to brush on in the way you shade and highlight your face, neck and legs.

There is a gleamer that is used with the fingers, and something called "tip rouge." It would have delighted the burlesque queens of long ago.

Kenneth had no trouble finding "fairly bare dresses" for models who exhibited the bosom make-up at a show for 200 fashion editors who were in New York for the Couture Group's fall and winter showings.

What did they think of it?

"I don't think anyone got terribly upset over it," he says. "The most amazing thing was that some people assured me that they couldn't wait to use it."

CAR OVERTURNS NEAR BRIDGE

A mother and her 2-month-old son were injured about 9 a.m. today when this car overturned and crashed into a fence on Highway 17, west of the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge. California Highway Patrol officers inspect the damaged fence. The woman, Valerie L. Ascencio, 19, of 216B Bodega Avenue, Petaluma, was admitted to Marin General Hospital for observation after treatment of a severe scalp cut. Her son, Brent, was treated for a scalp abrasion. The child was thrown from the car. (Independent-Journal photo)

Twin-Tower Design Upsets Planners

A $2.5 million office building, with seven-story towers overlooking the Civic Center, drew mixed reactions from Marin County planning commissioners last night.

The commissioners deadlocked 3 to 3 on Margaret Azevedo's motion requesting the San Rafael City Planning Commission to call for redesign of the building before it is approved.

Voting with Mrs. Azevedo were Hugh Dougherty and chairman Michael Praszker. Opposed were Niels Schultz Jr., Walter F. Freitas and Jack G. Nixon. Eugene R. Trombley had left by the time it came to a vote about 7 p.m.

The large structure, to be built by American Pacific Life Insurance Co., of San Francisco, will be located on a six-acre hill immediately north of the new Veterans Memorial Auditorium. The land is within the area newly annexed to the City of San Rafael. The San Rafael Planning Commission has scheduled a hearing on the project tomorrow night.

Gilbert Oliver of San Francisco, architect for the developer, presented plans showing a long horizontal block of three stories sitting at the side of the hill, with two seven-story towers in the center, facing the Civic Center.

"This hill forms one of the natural backdrops of the Civic Center site," said Werner von Gundell, chief of current planning. "It should be as unobtrusive as possible."

"Why should this be less unobtrusive than the Civic Center?" asked Niels Schultz Jr. "The Civic Center has a vertical element and this has a vertical element. I see no conflict."

The towers will be 90 feet tall, but the entire building sits on a plateau about 90 feet above Highway 101 and will be hidded from highway view, said Oliver.

Gross floor area will be 90,000 square feet, and three levels of parking will be provided on a flat area on top of the hill.

"The intent of Frank Lloyd Wright was to build in the valleys and to keep the hilltops intact," said Praszker. "This sort of tops the hill and dominates . . . Isn't there any way you can switch things around and let the natural surroundings dominate?"

Oliver said the building covers only 11 per cent of the six acres, and its corners are rounded to lessen the impact on surroundings.

"If the county doesn't want somebody to build a building not to its liking, let the county go out and buy it," said Freitas. "To tell people you have to build to conform to our style is unfriendly and unneighborly . . . I'm not in favor of telling San Rafael to change the design. I don't think we should meddle."

"This is what I might call a brash building," observed Mrs. Azevedo. "I'd like to see the commission recommend a redesign. In fact I move it."

When the vote deadlocked 3 to 3, the commissioners decided that a report on the split vote be sent to the San Rafael Planning Commission.

"I don't think the building is atrocious or bad," concluded Praszker. "I just prefer less domination of the hills."

North Marin Homeowners Urge Moratorium On Mobile Homes

North Marin homeowners yesterday demanded a moratorium on mobile home construction in their area because 10 per cent of the population is already in mobile homes, and such homeowners "do not pay their fair share of taxes."

Arnold Baptiste, president of the North Marin Federation of Homeowners, made the plea before the Marin County Planning Commission.

Planning commissioners agreed that some tax inequity exists but decided not to take immediate action until further study.

On a motion by Hugh Dougherty, commissioners continued the matter until some future meeting and asked County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker to draft an interim ordinance that would put the brakes on mobile homes until studies can determine the extent of economic drain caused by mobile homes.

Dougherty urged immediate action against mobile homes, but other commissioners asked for more time. Dougherty wanted to ask the Marin County Board of Supervisors to include in its 1970 legislative program these two points:

Abolish in lieu taxes on mobile homes, which are at present classified as vehicles, and impose the same ad valorem tax levied on conventional homes.

Slow down in some fashion the further proliferation of mobile home parks.

Chairman Michael Praszker suggested a one-year moratorium on mobile homes to give the county time to determine the impact of mobile homes on the community.

Praszker declared that the classification of mobile homes as vehicles is subterfuge and hypocrisy. "They're houses with tires painted on them. There's no doubt it's subterfuge."

Niels Schultz Jr. objected to a moratorium as arbitrary. "I'm opposed to the inequity in taxation but I don't think we should plunge in on a single party discussion and ban mobile homes for any length of time."

"Give me one reason why a childless person in a dilapidated home should be made to pay more taxes than a person in a mobile home with tires painted on them," demanded Praszker.

Margaret Azevedo said she favors an interim ordinance to slow down mobile homes "because it would then oblige us to study the information provided by the North Marin Federation."

Baptiste compared taxes now paid by a mobile home, assuming a value of $18,000, and a conventional single family home with a value of $28,500. The mobile home pays $275 while the conventional homes is slapped with a $816 tax, he declared.

"We already have 1,000 mobile homes approved," said Baptiste. "Now Kenney (John Kenney of Alameda Homes Corp.) would add 1,800 more mobile homes. If that park (at Black Point) becomes family oriented, the annual school deficit would be $300,000. Compare that deficit with the total city budget supported by local property taxes of $450,000!"

He estimated that the 1,000 mobile homes approved would account for 4,000 to 4,500 population, or 10 per cent of the total population of Novato. "If the Kenney project goes in, we may end up with 20 per cent of the population in mobile homes. Then, I think I'll move into a mobile home!"

For every $3 in overall tax paid by the conventional homeowner, the mobile homeowner pays only $1, said Baptiste. For every $3.50 in school tax paid by a conventional homeowner, only $1 is paid by a mobile home.

He charged that the mobile homeowner in Novato will not pay one penny in taxes to the Novato Fire District, Novato Sanitary District, North Marin Water District, County Library District, Marin Junior College District, Novato Flood Control Zone, Mosquito Abatement District, Air Pollution District, etc.

"Nonetheless, mobile homeowners can vote on all tax and bond issues and for elected officials of these special districts," Baptiste declared.

Spirit Week Shifts Goals At Tam High

Casting aside the old name of "spirit week," Tamalpais High School launched "together week" yesterday in an attempt, according to its backers, to get the students "involved with one another."

The homecoming week, to be climaxed with a football game and dance Saturday, was kicked off with a general assembly yesterday and the school's homecoming parade from Old Mill Park down Miller Avenue to the school and a dance last night.

Joseph Petterle, director of student activities, said the week's activities are designed to "make the student body more toleratent of each other."

He characterized the high school as a gathering place that "uniquely lends itself to divisiveness" because of the widely differing backgrounds of students. Adding to this this year, he said, is the high feeling about this weekend's antiwar moratorium activities.

Although traditional homecoming week activities are scheduled, Petterle said some new "get it all together" activities are also on tap.

The schedule for the week includes: a "share a flower with a friend day" tomorrow; "depression day" on Thursday featuring an extended lunch period with soup lines on the front lawn of the school; homecoming queen election Thursday; "string pickers say" Friday with students invited to "bring your own instrument and share your thing."

The football game with Novato is at Tam High at 1:30 p.m. Saturday and the homecoming dance is at 8 p.m. Saturday at Ruby Scott auditorium.

Remodeling Sought

The San Anselmo Design Review Committee will consider an application by Senor Alfredo Restaurant, 115 San Aselmo Avenue, for exterior remodeling when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow at city hall.

Concern Grows Over Marin Strip-Mining

The Marin County Planning Commission yesterday called for legal research to see what can be done to control strip-mining which has scarred about 20 acres in northwest Marin.

Request for action came last night from Harold E. Gregg, president of the Marin Conservation League, who showed colored slides of strip-mining operation by Butte Gas and Oil Co., on the A.R. Gambonini Ranch on Marshall-Petaluma Road.

"We are concerned that Salmon Creek will be silted, that Tomales Bay will be silted, and that the people of Marin will be required to pay for dredging and restoration," said Gregg.

By 1980, said Gregg, the United States Department of Interior estimates that five million acres will have been laid bare by strip-mining in the United States. "Imagine all of Rhode Island, all of Connecticut and all of Delaware made completely barren of topsoil, with all their foilage gone, all their wildlife gone, and all their streams polluted."

"I do think we have the obligation to set up rules so that Humpty Dumpty can be put back together," said Commissioner Hugh Dougherty. He suggested that the county counsel research the law to see what controls can be imposed.

"I'm for that," seconded Margaret Azevedo. All other commissioners agreed.

Marin County Planning Commission Also:

Santa Venetia, at the corner of North San Pedro Road and Meriam Drive. On a motion by Walter F. Freitas, the commissioners gave unanimous approval, despite objections from residents that 26 units would create too much density.

ANNEXATION — Continued until Nov. 24 a discussion of a proposed county policy to encourage annexation of county land to cities through restrictive zoning. Several commissioners said they are opposed to restrictive zoning for the sole purpose of coercing annexation.

PROTECT TIDELANDS — Asked the public works and the planning departments to thrash out the wording of a new ordinance to control building and filling on all tidal waterways, listing any differences they cannot iron out. One of the controversies is a definition of tidal waterways — whether it should include all land below an elevation of 7.5 feet or 12.5 feet above mean lower low water.

MARINVIEW — Asked the county planning staff and Allan-Marin Co., to try for a compromise on whether or not sidewalks should be required in Marinview Unit 1 in Tennessee Valley. Kenneth A. Frost, engineer for the developer, declared that plans for the subdivision were approved without sidewalks, but Planner Werner Von Gundell said the project would not have been approved had he known sidewalks were missing.

SHELL SIGN — Permitted Manuel Angeja, who operates a Shell service station at 789 Redwood Highway, Strawberry Shopping Center, to withdraw his request for a portable free standing sign to advertise gasoline prices. Shell officials said they would apply for a permanent sign housed in a redwood container with roof on top so that it would blend with the surroundings.

DUPLEX — Granted Rose S. Paul 26 units of duplex apartments on 2.5 acres of land in

Herkenhoff Future Still Not Decided

No decision was reached last night by the Marin Junior College District board in a closed meeting on the release of Louis H. Herkenhoff as acting superintendent-president, board president Robert E. Rogers reported.

Herkenhoff, whose contract runs until June, 1970, will be succeeded by John A. Grasham, possibly as early as January. Herkenhoff's contract says the board is to determine his assignment after a permanent superintendent is hired, Rogers said.

Herkenhoff's future position probably will be discussed at the Nov. 22 board meeting, Rogers said.

Shelter Ridge Development Wins Nod

The Shelter Ridge development of 453 townhouses, apartments and some single family homes, was approved unanimously last night by the Mill Valley Planning Commission, Planning Director Harvey E. Bragdon reported.

Bragdon said the commission called for further study of 80 units of proposed moderate housing to be constructed on the lower eastern slope of the ridge behind Goodman's Lumber Co. on Highway 101.

Developer Warner C. Odenthal was asked to investigate various construction methods which would be eligible for federal low cost housing funding, Bragdon said.

Odenthal's architect, Charles Warren Callister of Tiburon, said the moderate priced apartments could be constructed in modular units. to provide a variety of interior arrangements at a low cost.

Bragdon said the oveeall density for the 73 acre project is 40 units less than approved by the city council several months ago. The development will be located on the ridge mainly on the east side of the ridge between Highway 101 and Enchanted Knolls.

The commission also directed that the two acres behind Goodman's Lumber Co. be rezoned to commerical to make it more compatible with the existing strip zoning.

A change in density for the 26 acre Alto Bowl development from three to 5.4 units per acre was approved also by the commission, Bragdon said.

Final action on the density change will come Dec. 8, Bragdon noted, when a master plan calling for clustered apartments at the base of the bowl, informally approved last night, will receive final approval. The plan calls for the hillsides to be left undeveloped, he said.

Suspect Arrested In Forgery Probe

An 18-year-old Novato Man, who tried to cash a $15 check signed by a person who had been dead for a year, was arrested at 11:30 a.m. yesterday on suspicion of possession of a forged document, police reported.

Released on his own recognaisance from Marin County Jail was Valient G. Nims III of 94 Washington Street. He is scheduled to appear Monday in Marin Municipal Court.

SOUTHERN SONOMA

No fire calls.

No Charge Filed In Fence Dispute

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against two fueding Tiburon neighbors who were arrested Sunday on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon after a fight over a property line.

Freed were Nathaniel Marans, 51, of 2312 Sapnish Trail Road, and James L. Green, 49, of 2300 Vista Delmar Lane.

Sheriff's deputies said the men placed each other under citizen's arrest and called authorities after the fight in which Green allegedly used a fence post and Marans reportedly wielded garden clippers.

Hub Forgery Suspect Denies Count In Court

LeRoy Raymond Willey, 38, of San Anselmo, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of forging a check Sept. 21.

A preliminary hearing was set for next Tuesday.

Something Really New In Children's Education

This is National Education Week, and it has been chosen appropriately for launching a major experiment in teaching pre-school youngsters via television.

The program is called "Sesame Street." It is produced by the Children's Television Workshop, affiliated with National Education Television, and funded by the U.S. Office of Education and Office of Economic Opportunity plus the Ford Foundation, Carnegie Corp., Learning Resources Institute, and Corp. for Public Broadcasting. It started yesterday on 179 educational television stations, including KQED in San Francisco (channel 9), which airs it from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

"SESAME STREET" is a street in a big city. An assortment of people — including children — live on it, and it is visited by story tellers, "muppets," clowns, and other assorted characters who enter into the activities with the children.

Besides showing what happens on "Sesame Street," the program employs animated cartoons to give children some painless — and, its producers hope, entertaining — instruction in the alphabet, simple words, etc., prior to their entering school.

It is an experiment. If it works, we may expect to see much wider use of television for home instruction of youngsters. The educational TV stations, which up to now have carried a few programs shown in classrooms plus evening "talk shows," "panel shows", travelogues and occasional musical and dramatic productions for adults, will have a much-expanded role.

IF IT SUCCEEDS, "Sesame Street" may also lead educational TV into other programs for older children, designed to educate at the same time as they entertain.

It may supplement or it may even supplant such early-education programs as "Head Start."

It may do quite a few things to change the education — and the entertainment — of children.

The very least it can be expected to do is to furnish the youngsters not yet in school with something better to watch than the few daytime children's shows that have been offered so far by commercial television.

EVEN THOSE who have no young children may want to have a look at "Sesame Street" to see what kind of program it is, and form their own conclusions as to what results it may bring.

There is seldom anything really new in education. Most of the changes consist of reverting to something that has been tried and discarded but is revived in slightly different form. This, however, looks like something really new. Its effects could be far-reaching.

Next Campaign: Save Our Ocean

Many conservation-minded Marinites who recently were mobilized in the "Save Our Bay" campaign might do well to begin laying the groundwork for an international "Save Our Pacific" campaign. And if anyone thinks we are kidding, let him guess again.

For too long man has regarded the ocean's vastness as a kind of magic, self-purifying garbage pail into which he could throw all his waste and it would disappear. "A drop in the ocean" is a favorite cliche. And the idea that the oceans are going to continue to accept tons and tons of sewage, pesticides, detergents, petroleum, salts, acids, erosion silt, heat and radioactive substances without protesting is cliched thinking.

No one can say for certain what this drastic altering of the ocean will result in. Probably fewer fish for the world's hungry millions will be one result. Already, the Bureau of Fisheries reports that the haddock catch off New England is only a fifth of what it was in 1963. Pollution is thought to be one of the reasons.

We need to abandon the magic, self-purifying garbage pail concept of the ocean and make some realistic studies to find out where we are heading.

Couple Of Democrats Eye Race Against 'Invincible' McCarthy

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Marin's moribund Democratic Party may see some life yet in the coming contest for the Fourth Senatorial District seat held by Republican John F. McCarthy.

Even Democrats have tended to assume that the only significant struggle for the seat would come in the Republican primary. But the old rule that one party's bloody primary helps the other party's nominee in the general election may get a real test this time.

IGNORING the prospective candidate's usual coy blush is Richard M. Adams of Belvedere, 39-year-old attorney, businessman, member of the Marin County Democratic Central Committee, and — for a little political sex appeal — formerly an employee of the Central Intelligence Agency.

His first problem will be to confront the usual response to his candidacy-on-the-brink: "Who?" He has lived in Marin for 11 years, but is not well known within the county. Most of his work has been in San Francisco, especially in federally assisted housing.

It has been some time since a strong candidate has been found by the Democrats around here, and Adams is testing his ability to convince them that he can be the man. He reportedly has been busy lining up an organization and money, which can't be said of many other Democrats.

Adam's professional work has varied from legal counsel for California Development Co. in Marin City. (which won't do him much good either there or elsewhere in the three-county district) to founder of the corporation developing the $250 million community of Rossmoor in Walnut Creek.

ALSO HEARD scratching about for support of a possible Democratic candidacy for the senatorial contest is Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael. Formerly research director with the California Labor Federation, he now is with the University of California.

Peevey made news some time ago when he helped spearhead a successful citizen campaign to stop plans for a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge.

Meanwhile, back at the GOP an SOS was heard. . .

ARE YOU COUGHING even though you gave up smoking? Maybe it's the air.

Well, here's something you can do with your last gasps: help a citizens campaign to force effective state control of air pollution. Mrs. E. P. Franklin of Fairfax is Marin chairman of the statewide drive to gather initiative petition signatures, and the deadline is Nov. 26.

Even if the campaign failed to get its tough, complicated measures on the 1970 ballot, it well may light a fire under the legislature to step up its pressure on the internal combustion engine and on industrial polluters.

You'll be doing your share after Dec. 31 by finding some way of getting rid of rubbish other than by backyard burning, so let's make the bandwagon big enough for Detroit and industry.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Discrimination In Letters Charged

I cannot help but notice the obvious discrimination on the part of the Independent-Journal with regard to its "Letters to the Editor."

When I took the effort to write a letter in regards to the Humane Society situation, I could hardly recognize the "edited" copy the I-J printed — yet, in the Nov. 6 edition of your newspaper, I noticed the lengthy letter printed from Mr. (Abe) Blumenfield, of the theater chain, demonstrating that size is not the reason.

If your paper boasts to be so "family" and "local", why is it that you destroy a reader's commentary? I can hardly wait to see what this letter looks like in your paper after it is edited.

Search For Former Residents Assisted

Your issue of Sept. 30 carried the story of our search for two former residents of Marin County. One was William E. Leibing once of Sausalito and the other Thomas O'Connor a former resident of San Rafael.

The reader reaction to the article brought several hundred letters within a week. It seemed that many were former friends, neighbors and others who believed they knew one of the sought people. Other letters came from readers who found old yellowed stock certificates that were lying around their homes for many years and asked that we determine if the old paper had any cash surrender value. The latter assignment will take several weeks to complete and our long experience has shown that some 15 to 20 per cent will turn into real hard cash.

After checking the leads offered by your readers we have finally established that Mr. Liebing left Sausalito in 1934 and now resides in Victoria, B.C. We have this day written to him. As for O'Connor, we have followed many leads to a conclusion and found several Thomas O'Connors' but they are not the one we are seeking . . .

A Way To Cut Down On Crime

We have lived in Phoenix, Ariz., for the past 13 years, but my wife had to move to California for health reasons and residing in the Fairfax area, we are appalled at the number of burglaries, car thefts and other crimes in the Marin County area.

Perhaps it is noticed more in a smaller city than a larger one. Phoenix had the same problem but came up with an answer about thee years ago. They put into effect Operation Crime Stop which cut this type of crime rate about 50 per cent. The radio, TV stations advertised a special police number over the air and the banks gave out special coin and key chains with this number on them. If a person saw something suspicious they just called in and were not required to leave their name or address unless they wanted to . . . They wanted to get the people interested in their neighbor's activities by this type of advertising. It sure worked . . .

Something like this could be put into effective force in the Marin County or even all of Northern California. If you feel there is some merit in the plan I am sure the Phoenix Chamber of Commerce would be more than willing to give you more detail and the results.

Nursing Program Must Have Funds

It has come to the attention of the alumni association that due to the defeat of one of our recent bond issues, the registered nursing program at the College of Marin does not have adequate funds available to maintain its membership in the National League of Nursing's Council of associate degree programs.

It would be most unfortunate if we allowed our membership to lapse for several reasons as we derive many benefits from such an alliance . . .

As a member of the first graduating class, I remember how excited and interested the community was about a nursing program which was available, not just to graduating high school students, but men and women of all ages in the county. Students didn't have to commute to San Francisco to classes as we utilized hospitals in Marin for field work . . .

A great majority of the graduates from College of Marin have stayed in the county and have helped meet the local need for qualifed nursing personnel.

I feel the residents of Marin have received as many benefits from the program as the graduates. I would like to see the community become as enthused about the financial problems which now exist for the nursing program as they were about its inception.

The nursing program has graduated three classes. An alumni association has recently been formed. We are a young association but an active one. The alumni is now starting a financial drive to help raise the necessary funds which would have been available if the bond issue had not gone down to defeat. We need your help!

Contributions may be sent to: Department of Nursing Education, C/O Alumni Association, College of Marin, Kentfield, Calif.

Pollution Linked To Vietnam War

If anything was made crystal clear at the College of Marin three-day symposium on the earth's environment, it is that the problems of pollution and destruction of our natural resources, coupled with exploding populations, are at a crisis point.

Indeed, in addition to all the other reasons for getting out of Vietnam and addressing ourselves to man's and this planet's survival, this conclusion can be drawn: As long as this tragic war continues, we are like children squabbling over sandcastles at the beach, while behind them the ocean rises in a tide that will sweep away both them and their prizes.

If we do not, and quickly, learn to use our knowledge with wisdom, we may well be driven from this Garden of Eden, this once green and lavish earth, by the inexorable consequences of our own stupidity.

Youngsters Write To Save Seashore

I think it is significant that some youngsters while learning about convervation and our form of government in Mr. Robert Goldstein's fifth grade class at Tamalpais Valley School, are writing letters to the President and to members of Congress in response to the urgent necessity to preserve Point Reyes as a National Park. . .

We hope that others who wish to preserve this priceless seashore will also write our representatives urging them to purchase it.

Nixon May Face New Revolt Over Choice Of Ambassador

WASHINGTON — One of the embarrassments of a new president in his first months in office is the scramble for ambassadorships. Generous contributors and faithful friends feel that the least reward they can expect is to be "Mr. Ambassador" — and not in the sweltering capital of some struggling new African state but in Europe where the amenities and the honors still flourish.

Over the years this has had its comic aspects as certain choices for these posts of high dignity and little influence have been singularly ill suited for the diplomatic life. It also has its serious side, as the professional foreign service deeply resents the fact that the plums are handed out as political rewards.

Congress has been niggardly about adequate living allowances, so that only those with private wealth can sustain the embassies in London, Paris and other European capitals where entertainment is costly and junketing congressmen drop in for free meals at any and all times.

MR. NIXON is having his troubles in this department. The theory is that a president is privileged to pick his own ambassadors since there is a certain personal as well as official relationship between the chief executive and his legate. With very few exceptions, this precedent has been respected.

The president last Aug. 5 sent a nomination to the Senate that has lain queitly in the recesses of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee ever since. And if chairman J. William Fulbright has his way it will stay there.

For ambassador to Morocco, Mr. Nixon nominated Robert Strausz-Hupe, director of the Foreign Policy Research Institute at the University of Pennsylvania. Born in Vienna, Austria, in 1903 and naturalized in 1938, Strausz-Hupe is a passionate cold war warrior. He believes in a "protracted conflict," the title of one of his books, with the Soviet Union, and the concept of coexistence he regards as a deadly trap.

THE STAFF of the foreign relations committee has prepared a dossier on Strausz-Hupe covering some of his more far-out positions. He opposed the nuclear nonproliferation treaty and testified that he would be for the limited test-ban treaty only if conditions were attached which would, in effect, nullify it. On arms limitation he wrote in 1965:

"Disarmament would have to begin by an international agreement to subject, in all countries, a quota of scientists and technologists to surgical prophylaxis, preferably lobotomy. If there is anything to be learned from the Washington treaty on the limitation of naval armament and from the Geneva negotiations in the interwar period, it is that disarmament agreements not only do not prevent evasion, they prompt it. To tell the inventive mind that it is debarred by any law except the law of science from exploring one approach to the development of a technique is to challenge it to seek for another or to substitute an altogether novel technique for the 'outlawed' one."

This is the view, with many followers in the Pentagon, that the technology of new weapons development cannot be stopped. It is the argument of those pushing the missile with multiple warheads (MIRV) to the testing stage and beyond. They will be an unseen but powerful force opposing any agreed moratorium on MIRV with the Soviet Union as the strategic arms limitation talks begin in Helsinki.

Strausz-Hupe's foreign policy institute came out with a book, "Safeguard: Why the ABM Makes Sense," strongly backing the administration's policy on deploying the anti-ballistic missile.

THE AMBASSADOR to Morocco is unlikely to exert any great influence on American policy. Yet the larger question of the selection of qualified men with diplomatic experience remains. When the President named Walter Annenberg, the Philadelphia publisher and one of the most-valued clients of the Nixon law firm, to be ambassador to Britain a muffled outcry arose from the professionals and those who look on the court of St. James as the star on the top of the diplomatic tree.

Not until there is a frontal attack on the system itself will the Foreign Service and the State Department be equipped to do a thorough professional job. So far as the outsider can tell, the present administration is simply drifting with the current of the past, and anguished cries come out of Foggy Bottom of demoralization and disarray.

Common Market Nations Face Decisions On Future

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

On Nov. 17-18 leaders of six West European nations will meet at The Hague to draw up a balance sheet on a grave new world they entered 12 years ago and to decide where they go from here.

They are France, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg, members of the European Common Market that came into being on March 25, 1957.

IN THE BEGINNING, the market itself was seen only as an interim step on a path which would end not only in economic unity but political unity as well, a United States of Europe with a population of 300 million.

The dream of political unity faded quickly and today is held by a comparative few.

But as an economic union it had fantastic success and its members entered upon an era of prosperity greater than any they had known before.

A 12-year transitional period was to provide total agreement on subjects ranging from abolition of tariffs to free movement of labor and from atomic energy to money and agriculture.

On Dec. 31 the transition period comes to an end with deep fissures appearing.

THE MARKET has been split on issues of nationalism as exemplified by Charles de Gaulle.

There has been no agreement on agriculture. When France and West Germany respectively devalued and revalued their currencies, neither followed the rules of advance notice and consultation.

The market has stalled on dead center and even now could disintegrate.

Britain, barred twice from the Common Market, is losing interest in achieving membership.

The British, enjoying a favorable trade balance for the first time in many years, are gaining new confidence that they can go it alone.

The European Free Trade Association which Britain sponsored has enjoyed economic success almost equal to the Common Market.

Can Collegians Learn To Live With Townfolk, And Vice Versa?

The theories of the generation gap and communication gap are far outshadowed by the value gap between Sonoma State College students and residents of Rohnert Park.

As shown at a joint meeting two weeks ago, the diverse groups can get together and talk, but deep down there are large differences that will be hard to overcome.

Students usually shun the suburban community and reject the life style of the commuters with 3.2 children, 1.8 cars and a 25-year-mortgage on their tract homes.

Since the college found its permanent home on East Cotati Avenue, the mailing address has been Rohnert Park, although the campus property actually lies in an unincorporated area. The mere postmark association with Rohnert Park has caused some members of the associated students to complain and propose the mailing address be changed to Cotati.

While the students seem to feel more at home in the rural setting of Cotati, the stark, white concrete college buildings blend better with the modern city.

WHETHER THE FEELING of admiration is mutual in Cotati remains to be seen. A resolution changing the names of the main thoroughfares, East Cotati Avenue and West Sierra Avenue, received mixed reactions from the city planning commission and is due to meet public opposition before the city council on Dec. 4.

City officials and developers in Rohnert Park took the leadership seven years ago in locating the college nearby, but students cringe when individuals vie for personal credit.

Cotati businessmen, who include many students, are generally more respectful and friendly toward the collegians. In Rohnert Park, the students still have difficulty cashing checks and many have charged apartment owners with discrimination by banning hippies as tenants.

For the most part, students have tied the image of Rohnert Park as being filled with money-hungry developers and landlords while the slow-paced Cotatians seem more akin to the new student culture which allows everyone to do his own thing.

ROHNERT PARK city council effort to promote better understanding, but admit to many frustrations. At the joint meetings called in the past several years, students with different complaints appeared at each session, preventing any continuity in discussion of the development of trust.

Dr. Warren E. Tappin, dean of students and unofficial liaison between the students and city, sees promoting greater understanding as an important goal.

As he so aptly put it at the close of the latest session, "If we don't grow together, we'll grow apart. But one thing's for sure, we're both going to grow."

Early-Day Atom Scientist Dies

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Harrison M. Randall, 98, a pioneer physicist whose work in the early part of the century contributed to the theory of atomic structure, died yesterday.

He broke a hip in a fall at his home a month ago and had been at University Hospital in Ann Arbor where he underwent surgery.

He was a specialist in infrared spectroscopy. In 1940, the year he retired, Randall became the first University of Michigan professor to have a building named after him.

After his retirement as a U. M. professor, Randall became active in the study of bacteriolgy.

How Did President Nixon Get All Those Telegrams So Quickly?

WASHINGTON — The most interesting thing to me as far as President Nixon's speech on Vietnam went, was to see the large stacks of Western Union telegrams on his desk in the White House. The President called in the press, news and TV photographers to prove he had the vast support of the American people the day after he made his speech.

What surprised me was how President Nixon got the telegrams so fast. Anyone who has dealt with Western Union in the last few years knows that sending a telegram via Western Union is no problem — it's getting them to deliver the telegrams that takes a bit of doing.

THIS IS HOW the conversation usually goes:

"I'd like to send a telegram."

"What is the party's name and telephone number?"

"What do you want to know his telephone number for?"

"So we can phone the message to him."

"Look, if I wanted to phone him, I'd call him myself. I want to send a telegram."

"What we do is call your party and then mail him the telegram. He should have the wire in a few days."

"If I wanted to write him, I'd send him a letter. I want to send a telegram, and I want it delivered to him."

"Well, why didn't you say so? We'll deliver it for you for an extra 75 cents charge, above the cost of the telegram."

NOW, I'M NOT attacking the Western Union Co. for trying to make the delivery of a telegram a profitable business. The snappy WU boy of yesteryear, dressed in his uniform, is a thing of the past; and WU probably makes more money selling candygrams than telegrams.

All I'm doing is raising the question of how President Nixon managed to get Western Union to deliver the telegrams on the same day without making the sender pay the extra 75 cents.

What probably happened was that right after the President's speech, he received a phone call.

"IS THIS President Nixon?"

"Yes, it is."

"What is your first name, please?"

"Richard — the middle initial is M."

"We have a telegram for you. May I read it?"

"Yes, go ahead."

"'Wholeheartedly support your wonderful speech, which laid it on the line and gave courage to the Great Silent Majority. Keep socking it to them.'"

"That's wonderful. Who signed it?"

"It's signed Julie and David."

THE PRESIDENT hung up and the phone rang again.

"President Nixon? We have a telegram for you."

"Read it."

"'You certainly took care of the effete snobs and bad apples. My prayers are with you. Love — Spiro.'"

All night long the phone kept ringing and either the President, Mrs. Nixon or Tricia has to write down the messages. They were groggy at breakfast, and finally the President realized he wasn't going to get any work done. So he called a meeting of the National Security Council and it was suggested that the attorney general ask Western Union if they might deliver the telegrams to the White House instead of phoning them in, despite the fact that most senders had not paid the extra 75 cents.

WESTERN UNION, in a wave of patriotism, agreed to the request, on the condition that the President wouldn't tell anyone that he was getting his telegrams on the same day without payment of an extra fee.

The President agreed, but he was so overwhelmed by the nember of wires he received that he forgot his promise and called in the press. Now Western Union is in a helluva jam because the Great Silent Majority has suddenly discovered it can send a telegram and have it delivered on the same day without paying 75 cents.

It's the first break the Great Silent Majority has had in years.

Fewer Make Journey Into Golden State

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Fewer people followed their dreams or their jobs to California last year than in any year since 1948.

State Finance Department experts estimated yesterday that in the bookkeeping year ended last June 30, the population went up only 1.5 per cent.

That included a migration from out of state of 105,000, the lowest since the estimated 82,000 of 1948.

The experts put the number of residents at 19,856,000 as of July 1, and said that should push the state to 20 million population between next January and April.

However, they said the trend toward a smaller and smaller number of immigrants which began in 1964 still continues. At the same time, a decline in births which began in 1962 reversed last year.

The eight counties making up Southern California now have 58.4 per cent of the entire population, up 1 per cent. The nine San Francisco Bay Area counties remained stable at about 23 per cent.

Five counties number more than one million — Los Angeles, Alameda, Orange, San Diego and Santa Clara.

Orange registered the biggest numerical jump in the last year, 59,800, but among major counties the most sizable growth rate came in Ventura, up nearly 5 per cent in one year.

Little Mono County zoomed 15.6 per cent by picking up 700 new residents, for a total of 5,200.

Alpine remained at the bottom of the estimates with an unchanged 500 residents, while others not recording changes were Mariposa and Plumas.

Loss of residents was tallied in Modoc, San Francisco, Trinity, Butte, Glenn, Kings, San Luis Obispo, Sierra and Solano counties.

The experts said 11 counties account for more than 80 per cent of California growth since 1960. They are Los Angeles, Orange, Santa Clara, San Diego, San Bernardino, Ventura, Contra Costa, Alameda, Riverside, Sacramento and San Mateo.

Education-Work Conclave Slated

A luncheon conference to discuss ways of closing the gap between education and the world of work will be held Thursday noon at Sabella's Restaurant, 555 Redwood Highway, Mill Valley.

Free Clinic Spots Marin City Youngster's Seeing Troubles

By PAT ANGLE

A 10-year-old Marin City boy who hated school has started to enjoy his classes because, for the first time, he can see clearly for more than a few inches.

The child's severe myopia was discovered and treated recently at a new pediatric clinic in Marin City whose goal is to improve the health of low-income children in Southern Marin.

Purpose of the facility is to provide free medical treatment for children whose parents cannot afford to take them to doctors.

To this end, 26 Marin pediatricians and about 25 nurses have agreed to spend one evening a month at the facility. Each doctor is also "on-call" for the clinic one day each month and makes himself available for emergency services one weekend every few months. Their services are free.

Dr. Stephen F. Kent, a Terra Linda pediatrician and a spokesman for the physicians, said the clinic was begun at the request of Marin City residents. He said the operation is primarily geared toward "preventive care," detecting and treating minor illnesses before they become serious problems.

Although a clinic had been in the talking stages for almost two years, nothing definite happened until May when a pediatrician at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael decided to act.

The pediatrician, Dr. Festus Adebonojo, approached the county pediatricians and met with a positive response. Thus heartened, he obtained a $13,000 grant through the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council — of which he is chairman — from the William Babcock Memorial Endowment, a Marin philanthropic foundation. Offices were donated in the Manzanita Center in Marin City and a program director, Charlene Anderson, was hired to oversee operations.

The clinic has funds for a medical aide and plans to train a low-income Marin City woman (not yet chosen) for the position.

The clinic opened Oct. 1, treating about two children a night during its hours, 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. After five weeks of operation, the number has grown to 10 children each night because, according to Mrs. Anderson, "the word has gotten around."

Educating parents about the need for preventive care is still a problem, Mrs. Anderson said. "It's not that the parents don't care about their children — they love them very much," she explained. "But when you have to worry about where your next meal is coming from and how to get money to buy shoes for your family, a physical examination for a child who doesn't seem ill is a luxury.

"It is hard for parents who have so many economic problems to worry about to notice the small signs which may mean an illness or a problem."

The examinations have already helped numerous children, Mrs. Anderson said. One little girl, for example, mentioned to the examining doctor she had trouble hearing. A minor ear problem was easily corrected and now the child's hearing is normal.

The clinic does not stop at simply treating physical ailments, according to Kent. Family counseling and help with problems such as bedwetting or school difficulties are also available. "If a child's father needs a job badly, we try to help in that way, too," the pediatrician said.

Kent said the problem of attracting parents whose children really need the service will not be easily solved. "But as parents see for themselves the value of what we are doing, I think more and more will bring their youngsters to the clinic."

The facility, which offers free examinations and treatment to children in Marin City, Mill Valley, Sausalito, Tiburon and Belvedere, was located in Southern Marin because "some families simply have no way to get to doctors in Northern Marin," Mrs. Anderson explained.

The idea is catching on rapidly, according to Kent, who said other cities have shown interest in the program and several physicians who treat adults have volunteered their services. "We would like to set up a free adult clinic eventually if we can find the money," the pediatrician said.

The children's clinic is funded through March. "By that time, we expect to have shown what a great need exists for this kind of service," Kent said.

'Black Monday' Marchers Jailed

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Leaders of a black coalition called for a continuing school boycott and another protest march today after a "Black Monday" demonstration ended in a clash with police.

The coalition said the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and one of 53 persons arrested, would lead today's noon parade to City Hall.

Police using tear gas fogging machines, dispersed protesting crowds after the officers were pelted with rocks and bottles following the arrest yesterday of march leaders.

Today's march would not conflict with a police ban on traffic-snarling evening demonstrations in the city's heart. It would follow a Veteran's Day parade planned by service groups in the city.

Abernathy and other demonstration leaders were told by the police at a barricade at Hernando and Beale Street that the "Black Monday" march could not proceed because it would snarl traffic in the downtown area.

By prior agreement with the police the leaders then submitted to arrest and were loaded on a city transit authority bus bound for the city jail. All were released on bail of $26 each or on their own recognizance.

Both sides had worked through the day to avoid a confrontation. The arrests on disorderly conduct charges were devised as a face saver for both city officials and the city's coalition of Negro groups, pressing demands for more representation in school affairs and recognition by a hospital of a mainly Negro union.

Most of about 800 persons in the line of march left the scene after the arrests but some 100 youthful demonstrators lagged behind. Despite efforts of their own parade marshals, they turned and headed for a street barricade about one-half block away.

Police stayed behind the barricade as rocks and bottles sailed through the air, but as officers were hit, they moved out to disperse the demonstrators with the tear gas foggers.

Later, scattered trouble was reported during the night in the mainly Negro South End of the city, including minor fires, looting, window smashing and other vandalism.

It was the fifth consecutive "Black Monday" for the city. School officials said 46,241 pupils—more than one-third of the enrollment—participated in the weekly boycott of classes.

Sheriff Spews Profanity During Marijuana Hearing

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Profanity and insults marked the reaction of Sacramento County Sheriff John Misterly to critical remarks aimed his way by a professir and long-haired youth during a legislative hearing on marijuana.

At one point or another during yesterday's hearing, the outspoken law enforcement officer told the youth he was speaking "drivel," twice called the professor "a God xxxx liar" and said the medical profession has more narcotics addicts than any other.

His remarks, which generally drew laughter from an audience which at various times included Girl Scouts and teen-agers, came during a hearing of the Assembly Health and Welfare Committee's subcommittee on drug abuse and alcoholism.

The committee took no action and came to no conclusions, seeking only to hear testimony for possible use during the 1970 legislative session.

Misterly, a former state narcotics agent, told a panel of five — either doctors or professors — that "there is not one profession with as many addicts in it as the medical profession."

Later, Dr. J. Thomas Ungerleider of UCLA, a psychiatry professor, complained "the sheriff has denigrated, demeaned the medical profession."

Sitting next to him, Misterly shot back "you are a Goddamn liar!" and complained about "some of those educated far beyond their intelligence. I have specific reference to you."

At another point, a long-haired youth told the cigar-smoking sheriff that he had smoked a cigar during the lunch break, felt dizzy and far stranger than he did on marijuana.

Misterly said he wouldn't listen to such "drivel," and the youth was told to go away. He did.

Dr. Edward Bloomquist of Glendale, chairman of Gov. Reagan's Inter-Agency Council on Drug Abuse, testified that it is erroneous to criticize law enforcement for enforcing tough laws on marijuana.

Check Case To Superior Court

John Curtis Gipson, 46, of San Francisco, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on three bad check charges and a count of auto theft after a preliminary hearing in municipal court.

He is to appear in court Monday for arraignment.

Gipson is accused of having checks stolen from Mill Valley Interiors last month as well as taking a car Oct. 23.

Nixon Approves Law Cutting Toys Peril

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon has signed into law a measure allowing removal from the market of toys which are dangerous because they expose children to heat, electricity or mechanical hazards.

The measure, which extends a ban on toys for other reasons such as toxic paint, requires reimbursement of buyers by retrailers and retailers by distributors or manufacturers.

Kremlin Expels Toronto Newsman

MOSCOW (UPI)—The foreign ministry yesterday ordered correspondent Aaron Einfrank of the Toronto Telegram to leave Soviet Union within 72 hours.

Einfrank said a foreign ministry press department official told him he was being expelled "for writing unfavorable articles on the Soviet way of life" and for "showing the grim side of life in the Soviet Union'.'

Several stories by Einfrank have appeared in the Independent-Journal.

Weather For Launch On Good Side

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The weatherman today forecast good conditions for Friday's launching of the Apollo 12 astronauts on man's second moon-landing voyage.

The prediction came as two of the astronauts called off plans to sharpen their flying skills in a helicopter and a jet plane.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration originally said that Charles Conrad Jr. and Richard F. Gordon Jr. planned to fly the vehicles. Conrad was to operate the helicopter as if he were hovering before selecting a landing spot on the moon.

CHANGE MINDS

An official said later that the astronauts had changed their minds and decided to relax in their crew quarters studying their flight plan.

The third astronaut, Alan L. Bean, ran through emergency checkout procedures in the lunar module training vehicle. He and Conrad are to land on the moon while Gordon orbits in the command ship.

The Weather Bureau's space flight meteorology group said a cold front would pass through the Cape Kennedy area Thursday but that conditions Friday would be satisfactory, with partly cloudy skies, moderate northerly winds and temperature about 60 degrees.

ABORT AREAS

The forecast for potential abort landing areas calls for moderate winds and seas.

At the launch pad everything continued on schedule as crews prepared the Saturn 5 rocket and the two spaceships for launching at 11:22 a.m. (EST) Friday.

At 9 a.m. today the count entered a 16-hour built-in hold to provide the launch team with rest. When it resumes early tomorrow, liquid Hydrogen and liquid oxygen will be pumped into the command ship's power-producing fuel cells.

Ross Ex-Official Picked By Reagan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A former Ross town councilman has been named by Gov. Ronald Reagan to the board of administration of the Public Employees' Retirement System.

He is Dr. W. James Dawson, 39, an orthodontist practicing in San Rafael. Dawson lives on Fernhill Avenue in Ross.

Bartlett T. Grimes, 30, of San Francisco, also was appointed to the board. Both appointees are Republicans.

The positions pay $25 per day when working and expenses.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Overweight Teen-Agers Often Victims Of A Fat Environment

VAN DELLEN

Overweight teen-agers are a challenge to the medical profession. Many of these youngsters do not want to reduce or change their eating habits.

Gluttony plays a minor role in that some obese boys and girls do not eat as much as teen-agers of normal weight. The majority do not exercise or help in any way to burn up the extra calories.

EXCESSIVE WEIGHT in teens usually stems from subconscious fears, boredom, frustration or tension. Heredity does not always play a role although living in a fat environment is an important consideration.

A child with one overweight parent has a 40 per cent chance of being fat, and this goes to 80 per cent if both parents are obese. Something must be done early in life because four of five chubby children become obese adults.

Many methods have been advocated to motivate teen-agers to take off weight and to keep it off. Parents often do not know why Mary refuses to reduce. Furthermore, they may add to the confusion through misguided statements, threats, or shame.

Best results usually are obtained via group therapy at a school, camp, or clinic.

IN HER NEW BOOK, "Help Your Child Lose Weight," Mrs. Gussie Mason, owner-manager of Camp Hanley for boys, explains how her campers lose an average of 25 pounds in 8 weeks through low calorie menus and exercise.

A Delware high school program also has been successful cia discussions where the fatties are encouraged to aks questions and to find their own answers through disciplined eating and exercise habits.

AT THE Adelaide Children's hospital in Australia, Dr. G. M. Kneebone uses drug therapy in addition to diet. In a group of 240 obese children, a large percentage improved considerably on triiodothyronine. In some cases, an appetite suppressant was added.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

MILK AND SPASTIC COLON

T.N. writes: Is it all right for a person with colitis to drink milk?

REPLY

Yes, provided the individual is not allergic to or has an idiosyncrasy to milk. Others have a biochemical problem that involves lactose, a sugar found in milk and milk products. The lactose remains in the intestine where it encourages fermentation and causes cramps, gas, diarrhea, and abdominal distention.

TOILET TRAINING

Mrs. A. R. writes: In toilet training, should a tot be left on the chair until he is successful?

REPLY

Yes, but take him off the chair if enough time has elapsed and he becomes fidgety. Our leaflet on bowel and bladder training may be obtained by sending a stamped self-addressed envelope with request.

BLOATING AFTER EATING

G. A. writes: What causes some women to become bloated after eating?

REPLY

Gas accumulates in air swallowers and in those whose digestive juices encourage excessive fermentation. A poorly functioning gallbladder, for example, may not supply the amount of bile needed to assimilate dietary fats.

INTRANASAL PROCEDURE

C. R. writes: What does an intranasal procedure mean when the person has a sinus condition?

REPLY

This may mean surgery for a deviated septum or resection of part of the nasal membrane. The idea is to promote drainage.

HEART VALVE REPAIR

A reader writes: Is surgery the only cure for mitral valvular disease?

REPLY

Yes. The condition is relieved by replacing the scarred and narrowed valve with a prosthesis.

LAUGHS, THEN WHEEZES

Mrs. I. O. Writes: My husband suffers from asthma and whenever he laughs, the wheezing gets worse. Have you heard of such a peculiar reaction?

REPLY

Yes. It is well-known that symptoms of this allergy may get worse when the individual is frightened, cries, laughs, coughs of overexerts. In other words, bronchospasm is aggravaged by the mechanics of laughing in addition to emotional reactions. Many smokers with chronic bronchitis also cough following a laughing jag.

JARRED BRAIN

L.F. writes: Does a brain concussion heal itself without treatment?

REPLY

Yes. in most instances, with rest. In severe concussions, where there are signs of additional pressure, treatment is needed.

KQED (9), 10:30 p.m.—Dr. Robert Jastrow, director of the Goddard Institute for Space Studies, discusses the recent Apollo missions, the future of space travel and his experiences in NASA on "Speaking Freely."

TELEVISION IN REVIEW

Old Friends Prove To Be Tops In Ratings

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Television this season seems to be proving, if nothing else, that old friends are best friends.

In the most recent national Nielsen ratings lists, every one of the 10 most popular TV series is at least two years old—and six have survived for six or more years.

The report, covering shows broadcast between Oct. 27 and Nov. 2, is typical of the season's showing. NBC's "Laugh-In" is in first place and is two years old. A close second is CBS' "Red Skelton Show," age 19. Third is "Gunsmoke," now 15.

Then there is NBC's "Bonanza," 10; CBS' "Mayberry, R.F.D., which, if you count its years as "The Andy Griffith Show", is seven; NBC's "The Wonderful World of Disney" on the networks for 16 years, and CBS' "Beverly Hillbillies," eight.

The younger crowd in the Nielsen elite group includes "Family Affair," four, and Glen Campbell's variety hour, two. A bit farther down the list there are "Here's Lucy," starring a performer who has been on television for 18 years, and "My Three Sons" which started 10 years back.

"Gunsmoke, leading the list a week ago and in show position this time, is probably a source of pride and embarrassment to CBS executives. Only a couple of seasons back the show was abruptly canceled—not so much for inadequate numbers of viewers but because many of them were older and nonurban.

There were loud howls of rage, a blizzard of mail and "Gunsmoke" was reprieved. It was moved out of its late time spot and, with some of its raw action removed, became more popular than ever in an early evening time period that attracted a young family audience.

In the current ratings, only one new show, Bill Cosby's situation comedy, has stuck like a burr in the top 20 shows. But Cosby can hardly be counted a new face in TV after those "I Spy" seasons.

NBC, incidentally, jumped back in the lead in the weekly averages, building a 19.7, to CBS' 18.9. ABC followed with 15.4. Although CBS and ABC plan to replace their weakest shows at midseason, it seems likely now that NBC will stick with its original entries through the winter although there may be some reshuffling of time spots.

Steve Douglas—Fred MacMurray—after 10 years as a widower in "My Three Sons" will be married on the Nov. 22 show to a widow named Barbara—Beverly Garland. If theirs is like other TV nuptials, it will be attended by extremely high Nielsen ratings. The home folks just love to watch weddings.

Senate Rejects Span Fund Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Warned it might leave American astronauts figuratively stranded on the moon, the Senate has rejected a proposed $100 million cut in the U.S. space budget.

"You chop a big chunk out of here and ... you won't have enough left to bring those poor fellows down," pleaded Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., before the 46-22 roll call vote yesterday to drop the cut.

Pastore said the cut, proposed by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., would "crucify the entire program."

Proxmire, who objected to the $3.7 billion earmarked for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in this fiscal year, said Americans already have paid $24 billion to see television record man's first steps on the moon.

Environment Uses Urged By Reagan

SAN FRANCISCO ((AP) — Members of America's real estate boards were told by Gov. Ronald Reagan today that once the nation's resources are totally polluted they are gone forever "and so are we."

He made a strong plea for wise use of the environment in a message for the National Association of Real Estate Boards convention. It was delivered by a previously done tape recording, since he didn't return from a European trip until last night.

The governor urged adoption of a uniform code of sound use of the nation's resources that would apply everywhere.

"We are responsible for the kind of world we create," Reagan declared. "Let us be certain we fully understand the consequences if we come up with the wrong definition of 'wise use" of the land. Once our land and ... our air, and our water is gone or totally polluted, they are gone forever. And so are we."

California's governor noted that the state is expected to be home for 38 million people in the year 2000, and asked:

"What kind of houses will they live in?

"Will the air be clean enough to breathe — the water pure enough to drink?

"Will there be enough land for baseball diamonds, football fields, trees and parks?

"Will there be sufficient land and water for an old swimming hole or a quiet trout stream?

"The answer to those questions ... rests, to a very great degree, in your hands."

Youth To Superior Court In Drug Case

James William Thomas, 22, of Fairfax, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of selling marijuana to a narcotics agent May 12 and possessing it at his home when arrested Sept. 11.

He is to appear in court Monday for arraignment.

Fails To Appear

A bench warrant with bail set at $2,500 was issued yesterday for Harry Elmer Chapman, 43, of Mill Valley, when he failed to appear in Marin Superior Court to answer charges of possessing methamphetamine and a hypodermic needle March 8.

Question: Is it dangerous to use baby foods containing M.S.G.?
Answer: Unfortunately, nobody really knows the answer to this question yet. Monosodium glutamate (M.S.G.) is used in many other meat and vegetable products on the market besides baby foods to enhance flavor. Babies don't need it, and neither do adults. Its safety, especially in baby foods, has been questioned recently. While Gerbers, Heinz and Beechnut announced on October 25 that they were discontinuing the use of MSG in their products, it will probably be at least several weeks before these MSG-free baby foods reach our shelves.
To Avoid MSG, Read Labels. You'll find most baby meats, many vegetables and all baby fruits and desserts free of MSG already. "High Meat Dinners" and "Dinners" usually, but not always, contain MSG. If you want to be sure what you're getting, read the ingredient statement on the label.

49er Coach Dick Nolan Running Out Of Thumbs

Dick Nolan, coach of the San Francisco 49ers, must feel like the one-armed paper hanger.

Or the guy trying to plug up the dike; just when he gets one leak plugged, out pops another Mr. Nolan, I'm afraid, is running out of thumbs.

That's the way it's been with the rag-tag Niners all season. If the offensive line doesn't collapse, then it's the kicking game. The defensive line may play a great game only to be betrayed by the defensive backs. Etc., etc., through 12 losses and 1 tie.

"We just can't seem to put it all together at once," more than one 49er player has told me all year.

Sunday's 41-30 loss to the Rams in L.A. was not as dishonorable as the previous week's debacle with Detroit, yet a loss is a loss is a loss.

Scoring 30 points against L.A. is impressive, yet yielding 41 seems to indicate a weakness. After giving the matter much thought, I have come to the conclusion that the defense was the culprit Sunday. Yep, I figured it out all by myself. The defense gave up 34 points, the other Ram score coming on an intercepted pass and you can't blame that on guys who at the time were sitting on the bench, slurping up Gatorade, snatching whiffs out of the oxygen tanks and ogling the dollies in the band.

Two Pass Plays In Particular

Actually, a lot of Ram pass plays hurt the Niners Sunday, but two in particular come to mind: The first was on the first play of the game, a 93-yard Roman Gabriel to Wendell Tucker TD strike; the second a 55-yarder, Gabriel to Tommy Mason, that took the Rams out of a hole late in the game and assured their eighth victory without defeat.

Kermit Alexander, veteran defensive back for the Niners, was a guest of the Marin Chapter, 49er Boosters Club yesterday, along with center Forrest Blue, to face the question firing squad.

Recuperating from a shoulder separation ("I should be able to play within a week or two,"), Alexander said the first Ram bomb was the result of a mixed up defensive signal and that Alvin Randolph was responsible for covering Tucker. Added Alexander: "Randolph had some problems so the coach took him out (later) to give him a chance to think about it."

Vanderbundt Lost His Gamble

The Gabriel-Mason key play, Kermit said, was rookie linebacker Skip Vanderbundt's responsibility, but he took great pains to explain the reasons for such mistakes, including Vanderbundt's inexperience, the heat of battle and the gamble that defensive men have to take — "He didn't read the play correctly, gambled and lost. What it comes down to is flipping a coin. You either win or lose. Remember, Vanderbundt's a relative newcomer out there and there are veterans who make mistakes on those same plays. If it (Vanderbundt's mistake) is not justifiable, it's understandable."

An articulate former All-American out of UCLA, now in his seventh season, Alexander said he was disappointed in his own performance this year.

"Last year I thought I had a great year," the all-time 49er pass interception leader said, "but I haven't progressed as well this year and I think other players feel that way about themselves, individually. It (the losing record) is as much my fault as anyone else's. Believe me, we've yelled at each other and have tried everything. If you have any suggestions just give us a call. We'll entertain any constructive criticism you have.

About the uncoming game Sunday at Kezar against Baltimore, Alexander observed: "Coach (Don) Shula will have those Colts ready for us. They'll be so fired up they may run right through the end of the stadium on their first touchdown. Our job is just to keep our mistakes as close to zero as possible and force them to make errors. We've found out they are human."

MEMORABLE NIGHT

More To Football Game Than Just The Statistics

By GARY TISCHLER

A good many of the 4,000 people who tuna-packed themselves into San Rafael High School football stadium for the Redwood-Terra Linda game Saturday will tell you that it was one heck of a ballgame. It was, but not in the usual sense.

You couldn't tell it by the statistics, which were practically dead even, and, except for Dewey Forry's 126 yards rushing, nothing to write the scouts about.

The game was exciting, and puzzling, not so much for what happened, but for what didn't happen.

CLINCH TITLE

True, Terra Linda won the game, 14-8, which may have injured prides on both sides. The Trojans thus clinched at least a fourth straight Marin County Athletic League title tie and sorely chilled Redwood's chances for a piece of the cake.

But there were things in that game that never maaerialized. Redwood, with its imposing stable of big backs, never could run effectively. Mike Farley, who only a week ago, shredded San Rafael for some 90 yards, was smothered all night long. Only sophomore Jay Lehman looked respectable and none of the backs gained more than six yards on any particular run.

Terra Linda, the team with the league's best throwing quarterback, threw only five times, and completed four. It was like a Miss America contest in which you only got to see Bert Parks.

EXTRAS

However, there were memorable things in that game that will never show up in anybody's statistic. For instance:

The air of expectancy, prodded by the jam-packed stadium, that hung over everything throughout the game.

The ferocious tackling for the whole length of the game, especially by Mike Bridges, Dan Trondsen and Chris Fenton of Terra Linda and Andy Anixter of Redwood.

Phil Simon's quick and alert work at middle guard for Redwood, dumping quarterback Tom Jackson for big losses twice, then getting nailed for overeagerness on a Terra Linda touchdown drive.

FRUSTRATED

The frustrated, obviously dejected and disappointed Redwood linebacker Rick Puccinelli, dressed up in full gear, but unable to play except for kickoffs. Puccinelli, who has missed the last two games with bone calsification, is, according to his coaches, a boy who lives and sleeps football and for him to miss this particular game was an excercise in sad frustration.

There was Fenton's tremendous line play, both offensively and defensively.

Forry's helter-skelter style of running, looking very much like a scarecrow with solid stuffing.

HUSH

The way the entire assembled crowd lowered the noise to a complete hush when Terra Linda came up with its half-time performance, a solemn, imperfect and strangely moving tribute to Veteran's Day and America's war dead. The message, prodded by renditions of "Taps" and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," paid tribute to those who died for peace and made a special plea that no more of our young people should have to die in this way.

It was an incongrous setting for that kind of message, but strangely enough it worked. And if you have seen and heard some 4,000 people suddenly go still, you'll get an idea of the feeling involved.

And there was the surprise at the way Terra Linda's players went "ape" after they had clinched the game and the title, as if nobody had ever won a football title at the school. And the quiet frustration of the Redwood gridders, who, with no time outs left, could only watch and grit their teeths as Jackson protectively laid on the ball three times after a Redwood fumble near the end of the game.

All in all, it was a memorable night.

Nolan Plans No Changes; Brodie To Start Sunday

REDWOOD CITY (AP)—John Brodie's passing arm is back in shape and he will start at quarterback Sunday for the San Francisco 49ers against the Baltimore Colts.

Coach Dick Nolan, in making the announcement yesterday, also said he expected no changes in the 49er lineup that lost 41-30 Sunday to the Los Angeles Rams.

The 49ers have won just one game all season and that was against Baltimore, with substitute quarterback Steve Spurrier passing while Brodie rested his arm.

"I wouldn't have any question about putting Steve in," Nolan said. "He has shown me that he can do a lot of things too." Nevertheless, the coach decided to go with his veteran.

The Baltimore-San Francisco game will be in Kezar Stadium.

Baltimore has a 5-3-0 record while San Francisco is 1-6-1.

Sid Gilman Resigns— Ulcer

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Sid Gillman is gone as head coach of the San Diego Chargers and with him goes a tradition of victories, excitement and teaching, the game will find hard to match.

An ulcer which cropped up after a 34-27 victory over the New York Jets Sept. 28 and has persisted despite a strict diet has caused Gillman to relinquish his club to offensive backfield coach Charlie Waller, although he will remain as general manager.

REMOTE

When asked if he would be back as head coach, Gillman replied, "The probability is remote."

Tears came to Gillman's eyes as he continued, "It was die with football or continue to live. I felt I wanted to get feeling good again.

"This is a hell of a poor time to do what I'm doing," he sighed.

In 25 years as head coach, Gillman had three losing season, 1956 and 1959 with the Los Angeles Rams and 1962 with the Chargers. This year appeared to be the fourth as his club was 4-5.

BATTING .660

His teams had a .660 percentage of victories and he had won six pro division championships.

"He's the boss now," Gillman said pointing at Waller.

The 47-year-old Waller is a veteran of 23 years of coaching although his only head coach experience was with Decatur (Ga.) High School.

"I have no feelings of joy to get the job under these circumstances," Waller said. "I'd rather he win the Super Bowl and then retire."

NO QUESTION

"I had discussed this with Mr. (Gene) Klein before," Gillman said referring to the Chargers' owner. "And there was no question in my mind but what Charlie would be my successor.'

Waller replied, "The first thing in my mind is my feeling for him (Gilliam) — we've been through those years—I have confidence I'll vindicate the faith he has in me.' '

Waller has been with the Chargers four years.

Daryle Takes A Few Blows

OAKLAND (AP) — Quarterback Daryle Lamonica, a bruise under his right eye, couldn't be faulted if he winced a little watching films of his Oakland Raiders' 41-10 triumph over Denver.

Coach John Madden said yesterday: "Daryle was being hit a lot, a number of times after he threw the ball."

Lamonica said it "was close some of the time, whether I was getting it after I threw. But I didn't take much of a beating."

The Raiders entertain the San Diego Chargers Sunday and are assured a sellout crowd.

Novato Runner Tops The Field

Ron Elijah, the Novato senior who has broken records on every Marin County Athletic League course he set foot on this year, ran away from a classy field to take individual honors in the MCAL cross-country meet at Lake Lagunitas near Fairfax yesterday afternoon.

Elijah was never in trouble over the three-mile course which wound around Lake Lagunitas. He finished in 15:28, a full 22 seconds ahead of runner-up Kevin Pusser of Redwood.

CLOSE RACE

Redwood, which was supposed to run away with the team title, got entangled in a close race. The Giants, who were undefeated in dual-meet competition this season, won as expected, but not before getting a battle out of Tamalpais.

The Giants, behind Pusser, Jay Neuhaus (fifth) and Tim Taylor (sixth), had 33 points. Tamalpais, with Mike Arago third at 15:53, and Vian Collier fourth at 15:54, had 41 points.

Those two teams were the ballgame as Novato, despite Elijah's finish, was third with 81 points, followed by San Rafael, 86; San Marin, 142, and Terra Linda, 145.

SEVENTH

Lowery McFerrin of Tamalpais took seventh, followed by Tom Weindell of San Rafael, Lee Hotchkin of Redwood and Steve Elias of San Rafael.

San Rafael won frosh-soph team honors with 32 points, as Bulldog Doug Greene won it in 10:48 over two miles. He was just ahead of Eric Moller of Redwood, who finished in 10:55.

Third was Dan Hutton of Novato, followed by Mark Elias, San Rafael, and Dave Hutton, Novato.

Redwood war runnerup in team results with 39 points, followed by Novato, 80, and Tamalpais, 88.

Joe Clark of Redwood took individual honors in the junior varsity meet, winning in 18:21. There were no team results kept, since not enough of the schools had entries, according to meet director Krieg Vezie of Tamalpais.

Broncos Lose Two Wide Receivers

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Broncs said yesterday two wide receivers have been lost for the American Football League season because of knee injuries suffered in Sunday's 41-10 loss to Oakland.

Both Mike Haffner, the second leading pass receiver on the team, and Billy Van Heusen, punter who saw his first action as a receiver Sunday, were to undergo surgery this afternoon.

How Candlestick Bonds Were Saved From Defeat

Several bond proposals were clobbered at the polls last week by San Francisco voters who were in a tough economy mood because they received sharply increased tax bills just before the election.

If the new Candlestick Park bonds had been on the ballot they would have been clobbered, too. But a clever refinancing plan for Candlestick improvements kept that issue off the ballot.

CANDLESTICK originally was built with $5 million general obligation bonds approved in 1954 by San Francisco voters, plus $5.5 million bonds issued by Stadium, Inc., a non-profit organization set up by the city to operate Candlestick.

The $5.5 million bonds of Stadium, Inc., were not the obligation of city taxpayers. They were revenue bonds to be retired at 5 per cent interest from Candlestick revenues. During the past decade Candlestick revenues have averaged $500,000 a year, more than enough to meet interest payments on the revenue bonds.

BUT THE $500,000 annual income (primarily from rent paid by the Giants and parking fees) hardly could cover $9.1 million Candlestick improvements okayed by the Board of Supervisors.

Even with the added revenue the 49ers will provide when they move into Candlestick next year, between $200,000 and $400,000 will be needed annually to pay interest on the new bond package.

HOW WAS it done without going to the taxpayers for approval? The original Stadium, Inc., bonds and the new $9.1 million were rolled into a new $15 million package.

Naturally, investors couldn't be expected to buy a $15 million package backed only by Candlestick revenues. Even an attractive tax exempt privilege on the bonds couldn't lure investors into such a deal. Smart bond buyers want sure-fire guarantees on interest payments.

THIS IS where the clever refinancing comes in. The city of San Francisco will rent Candlestick from Stadium, Inc. The rent will be determined by the difference between Candlestick revenues and annual interest on the new $15 million bond package. Interest over a 40 year retirement period of the new bonds will be around $1 million annually.

THE YEARLY rent could range between $200,000 and $400,000. If it's $200,000 then the cost will be one cent on the San Francisco property tax rate. If $400,000, it will be two cents.

In their economy mood when they went to the polls this week San Franciscans would have dinged that but they had no say in the matter.

Boys' Basketball League Forming In San Rafael

San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department, in cooperation with the San Rafael and Dixie school districts, will conduct an organized recreation boys basketball program starting Dec. 6.

The program will include instruction in basic fundamentals, organized teams, league play and tournaments.

Registration for interested boys will be held at each elementary school playground now through Dec. 6. Boys can also register at an elementary school basketball clinic at San Rafael High School on Dec. 6.

After school playgrounds where boys may sign up are:

Sun Valley School (Mondays and Wednesdays); Glenwood School (Mondays through Thursdays); West End School (Tuesdays and Thursdays); Hartzell School (Mondays through Thursdays); Bahia Vista School (Mondays through Thursdays); Nova Albion School (Mondays through Thursdays); Laurel Dell Intermediate School (Tuesdays and Thursdays); Don Timoteo School (Mondays through Thursdays); San Pedro School (Mondays through Thursdays); Gallinas School (Mondays through Thursdays); Coleman School (Mondays through Thursdays), and Oak View School (Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Okker Wins Title

PARIS (AP) — Tom Okker of Holland defeated Earl Buchholz of St. Louis 8-6, 6-2, 6-1 today in the all-professional final of the French Indoor Tennis Tournament.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

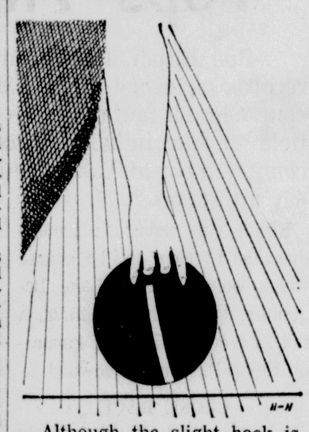
BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



Although the slight hook is highly recommended for all bowlers, many women find it more comfortable to roll the straight ball. If you're consistent with this, more power to you. Start slightly farther right in the approach lane to get a better angle at the 1-3 pocket. At release, your hand should be behind the ball, the thumb at about "1100" (as indicated by the white stripe on the ball in today's illustration).

Forrey Takes Over Prep Rushing Lead

Dewey Forry, Terra Linda High School's blossoming rambling wreck on wheels, has, in the space of two games, rambled right into the Marin County Athletic League rushing lead and stands a good chance to win it all with only a game left in the season.

Forry picked up 126 yards in 24 carries in a key 14-8 win over Redwood Saturday to vault past San Rafael's Scott Duncan and into first place with 364 yards. Forrey picked up most of the yardage (280 of it) in just two games getting 156 yards against San Marin a week earlier.

TAKES LEAD

Mark Silverman of Drake took over the league pass receiving lead with 14 receptions, sneaking past Clifford Hall of Tamalpais, who has 12, same as Steve Francis of San Marin.

Ron Petroni of Tomales made the 1,000-yard circle for the second straight year as his 160 yards in a 38-6 win over Upper Lake gave him 1,154 on the season.

Battered Seals Return To Oakland

BOSTON (AP)—Outshot in 13 consecutive games, winless in five, and victims of eight-goal assaults twice within four days, the Oakland Seals head home today to meet the tough Montreal Canadiens tomorrow night.

The Boston Bruins had a five-game winless streak of their own going in the National Hockey League when they clobbered the Seals 8-3 here last night. Only last Friday the New York Rangers won at Oakland 8-1.

TWO GOALS

Johnny Bucyk and John McKenzie scored two goals each, and Bobby Orr regained the NHL scoring lead with three assists that ran his total to 20, plus two goals.

Boston had 63 shots to Oakland's 31 and got four goals against Gary Smith in the first two periods on 45 shots.

TOSSED OUT

Smith was ejected by referee Ron Wicks for swinging his stick as Wicks skated by after an argument between the two at 18 seconds into the final period, just after Dallas Smith's goal put the Bruins ahead 5-1.

The Seals had two-man advantages when Mike Laughton scored Oakland's first goal at 2:33 of the first period and Ted Hampson got the Seals last goal at 16:08 of the third period. Gerry Ehman made the other Oakland score on a power play at 8:11 of the third period.

Pittsburgh Mark

NEW YORK (UPI)—No team in the National League has finished a baseball season with an over .700 won-lost percentage since 1909, when the pennant-winning Pittsburgh Pirates had a 110-42 record for .724.

Warriors Edged At Buzzer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors came home today for a clash with the New York Knickerbockers after a final-second 100-99 loss to San Diego in Salt Lake City.

Don Kojis connected with a 30-foot jump shot at the buzzer to win it for the Rockets.

Sparked by Nate Thurmond and Jeff Mullins, the Warriors had moved ahead slightly in the third period, but San Diego came back with a surge led by Elvin Hayes.

Thurmond was the game's high scorer with 30 points and Mullins had 25.

Hayes, who scored with timely shots in the last quarter, paced San Diego with 23. He had been erratic earlier, however, and was benched for a spell after the first quarter.

Hayes returned to action midway through the second period and scored several times before connecting on a long jumper as the half ended 51-all.

Tonight's Knicks game begins at 8 o'clock in the Cow Palace.

Marin's Dick Read Expects Tough Game In Santa Rosa

"It's going to be a really tough, physical game," said College of Marin head football coach Dick Read about Friday's upcoming game with long-time rival Santa Rosa Junior College.

The Tars, still trying to forget about last Saturday's 44-30 loss to Contra Costa J.C. of San Pablo, take on the Santa Rosa Bear Cubs Friday night at 8 o'clock at Santa Rosa J.C.

TIED

Marin and Santa Rosa each have 1-3 win-loss records in Camino Norte Conference action, bettering only the record of winless Solano J.C. of Vallejo, 0-4, Marin's 2-5 on the season.

Marin and Santa Rosa have had a rivalry going since the early 1930s. It was discontinued from 1951 through 1961, and then reborn. Since then, Santa Rosa has had the edge, winning from 1962 through '66. Marin won the last two years.

Read and his coaching staff spent part of the time yesterday going over the films of Marin's Saturday game with Contra Costa. It confirmed what Read thought right after the game.

'TERRIBLE'

"We were terrible," Read declared. "It was a comedy of errors. You name something wrong and we did it. Getting off to its worst start since anyone can remember, Marin was trailing 36-0 before the first half was even over. It was 36-8 when the half mercifully came to an end.

There is going to have to be much improvement if the Tars want to clip the Bear Cubs.

Santa Rosa plays out of a Wishbone T formation, the fullback in a little closer to the quarterback than the two halfbacks. It's a good formation for a running game, which is handled by a couple of good ones in fullback Jerry Peterson, 195 pounds, and Robert Fobbs, 181-pound halfback.

BIBER OUT

Marin will be without the services of Mike Biber, who was knocked dizzy by a hard blow on the head during a downfield block in the game against the Comets of Contra Costa. Marin's leading pass catcher, Biber wasn't around long enough to even catch a pass Saturday. Biber had been out of the Tars' lineup earlier in the year with an injured ankle.

Luther Brown, cornerback for the Tars' defensive unit, will be back in the lineup after missing last Saturday's game with an injury.

DISCOVERY

Amidst the shambles there was one bright spot for Marin in Saturday's game. The Tars finally found the wide receiver they've been looking for all season, in the person of Pete Carroll. He's a defensive back, who's listed in the program as a quarterback. He caught four passes for 80 yards and two touchdowns.

COMMUNICATION GAP

Black Grid Coach Resigns

SEATTLE (UPI) — Carver Gayton, assistant football coach at the University of Washington, has resigned because of what he said was a communication gap between himself and head coach Jim Owens.

The "communications chasm," he said, had nullified the most integral part of his job as mediator between Owens and the black athletes.

FORMER PLAYER

Gayton, a former player under Owens, was hired about 15 months ago as a black coach to establish liaison between the coaching staff and black athletes.

His resignation was the latest in a series of events which began Oct. 30 when Owens suspended four black players on grounds they had failed to express a "100 per cent commitment" to Washington football.

Owens reviewed the suspensions and Sunday reinstated three players but made permanent the suspension of halfback Harvey Blanks who had been sidelined last spring with a broken ankle.

DIFFICULT

Owens described Blanks as one of the most difficult athletes he had ever coached and criticized Blanks' statement to the news media to the effect that the Husky football problem wasn't a "black and white" issue but a coaching problem.

"I am dismayed that Harvey Blanks was not reinstated," Gayton said. "Harvey is an outstanding athlete who has contributed a great deal..by his performance on the field, recruitment of athletes and his insatiable desire to perfect all aspects of the game."

Gayton said he would continue to counsel the black athletes as long as he remained in Seattle.

Bullheads Good Bait To Catch Big Stripers

Buck Eddings of Buck's Landing in Santa Venetia called to say the striped bass fishing had really picked up this past week. Using bullheads out by the Pumphouse area and the S.P. Buoy, Buck landed two 20-pounders and a 25-pounder last Thursday.

Sam Knoles and I were out there too, along with about 20 other boats. I had two pickups, one on a bullhead and one on a ghost shrimp. I connected on one which turned out to be a 28½-pound bass. Sam caught four flounders, but he used ghost shrimp, as he isn't on to this bullhead fishing.

I HATE TO mention this, but Frank Sue went over on the east side Friday out of Rodeo, taking his boss. Well, Frank took a 38-pound, 3-ounce bass along with a 19-pounder and a 13-pounder for a 70-pound limit, using bullheads. Sue's boss, a novice at this business, is rapidly learning the techniques because he too took a limit of three up to 15 pounds. That darned Frank won the post office derby last week, and this week he took over first place in the Nisei Club derby which runs all year.

Bullhead fishing for stripers can be a very rewarding method of fishing. Sam and I launched at Loch Lomond, where we were able to purchase six live bullheads for $2 at the bait barge there. Out on the fishing grounds, we each used about two ounces of weights to get to the bottom. We used the sliding sinker system with about 36 inches of leader between the sinker and the hook. I used a 4/0 hook, hooking the live bullhead through the back just below the dorsal fin.

CASTING OUT and letting the sinker go to the bottom is simple enough with your bullhead bait causing the rod tip to shake occasionally. The difficult part of this method is to wait when you get a pickup. Usually the rod will bend; it is here that most people fail. Let the fish take the bait even if 20 or 30 feet of line runs out. You must use a reel that can be left in free spool to do this.

Usually the fish stops, then starts a second run. Frank Sue thinks the fish swallows the bait on the stop. On the second run, throw the reel into gear, and set the hook lightly, and you should have your fish on. The less resistance on the reel when the fish is running, the better the chance that he will not let it go. Using light test monofiliament, say 15 to 20-pound test, also makes less drag.

THERE IS some question as to the value of live bullheads over dead ones, though each expert swears by his particular method.

I've used dead bullheads with good success, although I make some changes in the hookup. First, I cut the head off the bullhead, then run the hook, usually a 6/0 hook, through the tail, bending the bullhead so the hook shank fits inside the fish, but the point and barb come out near the forward fin.

Then tie a clove hitch (a double half-hitch) around the tail which keeps the hook in the proper position as the pull when casting. This method, with the bait cut open, gives off more bait smell, and probably serves as an attraction down current. Again, let the fish run with the bait for a considerable distance. Some fishermen set the hook after the 20 or 30-foot run without waiting for the fish to stop. The fish are often mouth-hooked this way, where as letting the fish have it longer results in a stomach hookup.

IF THE FISH, after a short run, drops the bait because of too much drag, leave the bait there, and give him free line; the fish often times will return and again take the bait. Lightly guide the line out to prevent a backlash.

If you use a fly rod and fly reel, it's best to pull out 20 or 30 coils on the deck of the boat, holding the line in your hand, guiding the line out when you get a strike, as the drag of the reel is too much for the fish to take line freely enough.

There were no reports of any sturgeon being taken, but bullhead fishing is almost strictly for bass, though if sharks are in the area you will get fooled. Sharks, especially leopard sharks, will really latch on to the bullhead baits.

IT'S POSSIBLE to catch your own bullheads, using the small fish trap or the hook and line method. The better places are in the small sloughs and canals, or even under your boat if docked somewhere. The live trap is best, as it keeps your bait fresh and alive. If you freeze these baits, don't keep them too long as they tend to dry up; they also lose their slime. None of the experts will use a bullhead without the natural slime. Maybe it's the part of the bait that gives it the attraction for those big stripers.

CORRECTION — Last Friday's column mentioned that "Tomales market crabs are illegal to take." It should have read, female market crabs are illegal to take.

Plunkett Nears Pac-8 Record

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Stanford quarterback Jim Plunkett is only 142 yards shy of the Pacific-8 passing record that he set last year as a sophomore, league statistics released today showed.

Plunkett, who has completed 153 of 257 passes for 2,014 yards and 16 touchdowns, is also just one scoring pass shy of the Pac-record set in 1953 by Stanford's Bobby Garrett.

SLIM CHANCE AT ROSES

Stanford Is In Need Of Football Miracle

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—How important, somebody asked Stanford Coach John Ralston, are the national college football rankings?

"Well," Ralston told the Northern California Football Writers yesterday, "If Washington doesn't beat UCLA, than a high national ranking is important."

MIRACLE

For those two upsets to take place in the course of a single weekend—which is what Stanford needs to go to the Rose Bowl — something just this side of a miracle would be needed and Ralston is aware that those are in short supply.

So Stanford will have to be happy with its No. 13 spot in the current AP poll and a perhaps chance to improve it by beating Air Force at home this weekend.

The Falcons have won five games in a row—their two losses were by a total of four points —and are currently ranked 20th.

"We hope they're pointing for Notre Dame," said Ralston of the Air Force opponent one week later. "Gary Baxter is an outstanding thrower and they've been able to move against anybody."

RECORD MAN

Air Force also has halfback Ernest Jennings, who caught five touchdown passes last week against Utah State, tying a national collegiate record held by Howard Twilley and Ron Sellers.

Stanford will be missing defensive lineman Dennis Moore, who injured a knee in a 21-7 win over Washington last week and is out for the season. Miles Moore, a defensive back, also hurt a knee and is doubtful.

Cal Coach Ray Willsey blamed his team's 35-3 upset loss to Oregon State on the fact that "some of our younger players took the day off. Oregon State become stronger and stronger by the quarter and we became less and less effective."

VS. SAN JOSE

The Bears, 4-4, host San Jose, 1-7, Saturday ,and will probably be without defensive back Bernie Keeles, who suffered a bruised kidney.

San Jose Coach Joe McMullen said he was pleasantly surprised at the fine reception his team got when they arrived in Provo, Utah, to play Brig-Young. The Spartans wore black armbands to protest racial policies of the Morman Church, which runs BYU.

But on the field, San Jose was more rudely treated, getting beaten 21-3 despite the fact the Spartans moved the ball well.

"We know we're going to be outmanned against Cal this week," said McMullen.

FAR WESTERN

Hayward State can clinch the Far Western Conference title by beating UC Davis Saturday and Coach Les Davis says his team knows a berth in the Camellia Bowl may depend on it. The Pioneers assured a tie for the title by beating Humboldt State last Saturday.

The writers named Jim Plunkett, Stanford quarterback, and Bernie Oliver, Hayward halfback, as backs of the week. Paul Press, University of the Pacific offensive guard, and Steve Haag, USF linebacker, were named linemen of the week.

Blue, a hulking 6-foot-5, 260-pound second year man, discounted newspaper rumors about dissension in the offensive line between players and assistant coach Ernie Zwahlen. "I know there's been a lot of conjecture about that," he said, "but I can't say there's any dissension. It's just that people are trying to find a reason for our troubles and take a stab at one thing or another. All of us get along just fine (with Zwahlen)."

Blue, like Alexander a No. 1 draft choice, said he figures the 49ers will go into the next player draft with thoughts of ". . . a really great running back, but I can't think of one in college this year, so we'll probably have to trade for one"; a backup guard or tackle (on offense) and a good backup defensive end.

And, perhaps, another thumb for Coach Nolan. His dike runneth over.

Mel Gray Wins Honors; Cousy Raps Red Auerbach

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The only thing Mel Gray doesn't like about Missouri is the winter. But the freezing temperatures are nothing compared to the breezes Gray blows up when he goes after the football.

The 5-foot-9, 170 pound junior split end from Santa Rosa set sail with six passes in Saturday's 44-10 rout of Oklahoma and before he was caught he had accounted for a school record 171 yards and two touchdowns.

That performance earned him Lineman of the Week honors from the Associated Press.

The breezes Gray stirs up when he takes off for a football come from his 9.3 sprinter's speed, which earned him victories in the 100 and 220-yard dashes at the Big Eight Championships, the 100 at the Drake and Kansas Relays and the Kennedy Games, fourth in the NCAA 100 and fifth in the 220.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Royals' Coach Bob Cousy last night accused Boston Celtics' General Manager Arnold "Red" Auerbach of applying "pressure" to stop his latest effort to return to the court as a player in the National Basketball Association.

Earlier, NBA Commissioner J. Walter Kennedy put a damper on the move to let Cousy wear a Cincinnati uniform as a parttime player.

"Under no circumstances would I approve a plan that called for Cousy not to play against Boston or that would give Boston the right to select a jury to decide on compensation," Kennedy said.

"He's been a great help in the whole thing, hasn't he," said Cousy sourly, after hearing Kennedy's statement.

"Auerbach probably put pressure on him to take off the heat. That takes him off the hook," Cousy said.

Switching Bonds Is Advantageous

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I bought bonds in years past only to watch quotations fall from 100 to the 70s. These, of course, will be redeemed at par in the year 2000 but by then it won't matter to me. It seems to me by switching to other bonds I would still get the same income and also have cash to play with from the tax loss. Would you discuss this in your column? — E. K.

A. Your proposal makes good investment sense. However, I suggest that in the future you purchase bonds with near-term maturities since these tend to hover close to par. As you have discovered, long-term bonds fluctuate more widely in accordance with money rates and economic conditions.

A good choice in short-term issues, Philadelphia Electric 8s of 1975 are call-protected to maturity and sell at a slight premium. Older high-rated bonds such as you describe carry coupon rates of 4.75-5.25 per cent. Sale of these would allow the purchase of seven Philadelphia 8s for each 10 of the bonds you now hold. Your current annual income would actually increase from $475-$525 per 10 bonds to $560 for the seven new bonds.

Q. Since income is our objective, most of our money is invested in 6.75, 7 and 8 per cent bonds. We also have 600 shares of American Hospital Supply. Do you feel that the prospects for this stock exceed the 8 per cent we would get on bonds? — A. H.

A. AHS, unlike your fixed-income bond holdings, is your only hedge against inflation. In the last decade sales have risen about 18 per cent annually, a record that is expected to continue. Sales gained 17 per cent in the nine months through September while earnings showed a 20 per cent increase to 55 cents a share. Proceeds from the proposed sale of 1.7 million common shares will be used for expansion. Until the shares are absorbed, market action will be sluggish. AHS products cover a wide range of medical, hospital and surgical needs, putting this well-established firm in the forefront as a beneficiary of the booming health market.

1970 BALBOA MOTOR HOME

Built by Jensen Marine on a Dodge chassis, this self-contained Balboa motor home, sleeping four adults and two children, is short enough to be driven locally as a second car. A 200-horsepower V-8 engine and automatic transmission are standard. It is being shown this month at the Northern California Boat and Sport Show in Oakland and is sold in the North Bay by Artie-Vee Associates in San Rafael.

Hartford Group Backing Merger

HARTFORD (UPI) — Shareholders of Hartford Fire Insurance Co. have approved the proposed merger with the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.

At a special meeting yesterday, 17,681,057 shares of common stock or 80.37 per cent, were voted in favor of the merger, while 611,588 shares, or 2.78 per cent, where voted against the proposal.

Wall Street Declines In Light Trade

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks declined today in lighter activity.

Turnover of around 10,000,000 shares was about two-million shares below that of the previous session.

Analaysts attributed the lag in activity to absence of participation by the banks, closed in observance of Veterans Day, and to a lack of stimulating news factors.

Shortly before the final bell, the UPI marketwide indicator showed a loss of 0.43 per cent on 1,570 issues crossing the tape. There were 843 declines and 454 advances.

The Dow Jones average of 30 blue chip industrials was off 3.36 at 859.69 near the close.

Herman Roseman of Argus Research Corp., an invtstment advisory service, said there was little in the news background to move the market either way.

He said there may be some hesitation among investors due to the antiwar march on Washington scheduled for this weekend.

Among the most active issues on the big board were Benguet, City Investing, Grolier Inc., Chrysler, and Computer Sciences.

Prices backed off on the American Stock Exchange in moderate trading.

New Maternity Shop Sets Opening In Northgate Mall

A new store called Mother To Be Maternity Shop will open Friday at 5200 The Mall, Northgate Shopping Center.

Owner Adelane Joseph of Greenbrae has leased 1,000 square feet next to Stribley's through Coldwell, Banker and Co. She has been in the maternity goods business for over 20 years. She will carry all popular lines but says she will have about six exclusive lines never shown in Marin before.

Regular hours of the shopping center will be observed throughout the week by the store, with evening openings on Wednesdays and Fridays. After Dec. 1, shopping hours in the center for the Christmas season will include evening openings during the entire business week.

HUGH TURNER of Novato, president and general manager of Radio KTIM in San Rafael, has been named a charter distributor of Earl Nightingale Communications, a division of Nightingale-Conant Corp., Chicagi, headed by radio personality Earl Nightingale.

Turner has completed a seminar in the company's management motivation and leadership training courses for business, industry and individuals. He will set up dealer organizations in this area.

GERHARD SCHMIDT-PETERSEN of Santa Venetia has been named to direct Security Pacific National Bank's international banking operations at Northern California headquarters in San Francisco as assistant vice president. He began his banking career 14 years ago in Hamburg, Germany, and resumed it in San Francisco in 1960. He is president of the German Language School of Marin in San Rafael.

Schmidt-Petersen Stuart

CHARLES R. STUART JR. of Larkspur, Bank of America vice president and director of advertising, has been elected a director of the Bank Public Relations and Marketing Association for a three-year term. He has been with the bank 18 years, has headed the advertising department since 1957 and has been a vice president for two years.

SMALL BUSINESS OPERATORS will find a wealth of information in Bank of America's recent Small Business Reporter edition on advertising. It lists step by step advertising plans that include budgeting, distribution of the budget, preparation of the advertising message, selection of media and checking results. Copies are available at all Bank of America offices.

LAURENCE E. (LARRY) McDERMOTT of San Anselmo has joined the creative staff of Hoefer, Dieterich and Brown, Inc., San Francisco. He was formerly head of a creative group at Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample, Inc., creative director at Lenne and Newell and a copywriter at Guild, Bascom and Bonfigli.

Blumenfeld

Goldsmith

REAL ESTATE: Two new sales staff additions at the San Rafael office of Frank Howard Allen and Co. are Mrs. Betty Blumenfeld of San Rafael, and Mrs. Olga Goldsmith of Marinwood. Experienced in real estate, Mrs. Blumenfeld has returned to Marin with her husband from Oregon after an absence of 14 years. Mrs. Goldsmith was formerly a secretary in the production department at Crown Zellerbach Corp. for nine years.

CHARLES SCHWAB, president of Investment-Indicators, San Rafael, Marin County's only home-based (no load) mutual fund, reports that it recently topped the $21 million mark — an increase of 30 per cent since July 30 when the stock market hit its low for the year. The fund now has 11,000 shareholders throughout the United States.

Navy Contract

DALLAS (UPI) Collins Radio Co. has obtained an $8 million contract from Lockheed Aircraft Corp. to develop a communications system for the Navy's S3 A aircraft.
